Item 8.01 Other Events

Merriman Curhan Ford is cooperating in investigations by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and United States Attorneys Office in San Francisco into activities of a retail client and broker, the firm's trading in certain stocks, and the firm's supervisory system. Merriman Curhan Ford has retained outside counsel and is conducting its own inquiry into the issues raised by the government investigations.

In the course of its internal inquiry, Merriman Curhan Ford suspended a retail broker for violating the firm's policies regarding the use of client account information. The broker appears to have assisted a retail client in obtaining loans from third parties using information from the accounts of other retail clients.

Merriman Curhan Ford was neither a borrower nor a lender in any of these loans. The company is focused on institutional firms and does not provide retail lending to individuals. The retail business of the broker under investigation accounted for approximately 1% of the firm's total 2007 revenues.

All of the broker's clients whose accounts were potentially impacted have been contacted. Merriman Curhan Ford will continue to review this matter and provide additional information to clients as it becomes available.

Merriman Curhan Ford will continue to cooperate fully with the United States Attorneys Office and the SEC.
