Letter from the Adviser
September 30, 2010

Dear Fellow Stockholder:

The First Opportunity Fund has undergone significant change in the last 6 months. Earlier this year, stockholders approved a restructuring of the Fund to allow it to, among other things, invest significantly in hedge funds. The restructuring contemplated the Fund having two co-advisers, Rocky Mountain Advisers (RMA) and Stewart Investment Advisers (SIA), as well as a sub-adviser, Wellington Management. Prior to the restructuring, Wellington Management served as the Fund's sole investment adviser. Over the next 18 months or so, Wellington Management will continue to manage and, if appropriate, opportunistically liquidate the securities held in the Fund prior to the May 2010 stockholder meeting, what we call the "legacy portfolio."

Since June 1, 2010, the new advisers, RMA and SIA, have been implementing the strategy of investing a substantial portion of the Fund's assets in hedge funds managed by Wellington Hedge Management (WHM), an affiliate of Wellington Management. To date, we've invested $118.5 million in these hedge funds, or about 50% of the Fund's assets. We view these as long-term investments. Our current investment in the WHM hedge funds is approaching the upper limit of the Fund's assets we expect to invest in hedge funds. We are not considering hedge funds managed outside of Wellington Management. Why? Well, we've had a working relationship with Wellington Management as the adviser to the Fund going back to 2003 (Wellington Management was the original adviser to the Fund when it launched in 1986). Investing a large portion of Fund's assets in hedge funds run by another manager requires a high degree of trust in and understanding of the manager. Although we didn't know it at the time, we started doing our due diligence on Wellington Management and its investment abilities over 7 years ago. We've taken a hard look at the organization, including its infrastructure, personnel, compliance program and internal controls, investment acumen and, most importantly, its integrity. We're happy to report that, from our point of view, Wellington Management excels in all categories. We have a great deal of confidence in Wellington Management and its capabilities. Since hedge funds are unregistered private investment pools and are not subject to the same disclosure requirements as registered investment companies, it is essential that we have a high degree of confidence and trust in the underlying manager. After working with the Wellington Management team for seven years, we have developed confidence and respect for the Wellington Management personnel and culture.

Here's a brief run-down on each of the hedge funds in which the Fund has invested as of September 30, 2010:

Bay Pond Partners and Wolf Creek Partners. Bay Pond is a financial services sector hedge funds run by Nick Adams and his team who have managed the Fund's portfolio since 1986. Wolf Creek is also a financial services sector hedge fund, run by a team of four portfolio managers. The Fund invested 17.0% of its assets in each of these funds for a total of 34%. From purchase date on June 1, 2010 through September 30, 2010, the Fund's investment in Bay Pond is up a net 4.2% while its investment in Wolf Creek is up a net 6.3%. The S&P 500 Index was up 7.3% over the same time period.

J. Caird Partners. This is an equity hedge fund focusing on value stocks, taking opportunistic and contrarian positions. The Fund invested approximately 8% of its assets in this hedge fund. The manager, Greg Pool, and his team use a fundamental intensive research process. From purchase date on July 1, 2010 through September 30, 2010, the Fund's investment in J. Caird is up a net 7.05%. The S&P 500 Index was up 11.6% over the same time period.

North River Partners. This is a health care sector hedge fund. The manager, Ed Owens, and his team have extensive experience in this sector. They too use a contrarian, value-oriented investment style. The Fund invested about 7% of its assets in this fund. From purchase date on August 1, 2010 through September 30, 2010, the Fund's investment in North River is up 0.06%, essentially flat. The S&P 500 Index was up 4.0% over the same time period.

As Wellington Management continues to liquidate the legacy portfolio, RMA and SIA will be responsible for investing these proceeds. As of September 30, 2010, we've invested approximately $13.6 million, or 6% of the Fund's assets, into a handful of mostly domestic (U.S.) securities.

It is worth discussing the Fund's investment objective and the new advisers' strategies. First of all, the objective of the Fund is Total Return. At the May meeting, stockholders also approved the proposals to eliminate the Fund's concentration policies (i.e., to invest at least 65% of the Fund's assets in financial services companies). Even though some of our recent hedge fund investments are heavily concentrated in financial services companies, we do not look through to the underlying securities in calculating the Fund's industry concentration.

RMA and SIA are value investors. Our primary goal is to not lose what we already have. With this in mind, we look for investments, both domestic and foreign, which have certain characteristics including a high return on assets, a reasonable expectation of growth (the more, the better), competent and honest managers, an industry or company moat (i.e., significant entry barriers or protections against competition), a rational balance sheet (i.e., if the company uses debt, it needs to be able to withstand downturns in the economy without the threat of bankruptcy) and a rational allocation of profits (e.g., dividends or stock repurchases—the former is better). And, when we buy a company, we want to buy it at a reasonable price. There are many companies we admire and would love to own, but the prices are too high.

Once we buy a company, we'd like to hold on to it for a long time. In this day and age, it probably makes sense for us to explain what we mean by a long time. We don't mean a week or a month or even a year. We're talking decades here. Is that the case every time? No. Obviously, where changes or circumstances in a company or industry we own warrant it, we will sell. But for the most part, we prefer the buy and hold method of investing, but watch carefully to see if anything changes for the worse.

Why Did the Fund Stop Trading on the NYSE under its Old Symbol FF?

When stockholders approved the Fund's restructuring, which contemplated investing a substantial portion of assets in hedge funds, at the urging of the SEC, the NYSE concluded that the Fund would be engaging in operations which, in the NYSE's opinion, are contrary to the public interest. Consequently, immediately after the May 2010 meeting, the NYSE summarily delisted the Fund. We knew the SEC had strong reservations about any exchange-traded fund that provided retail investors access to significant hedge fund exposure. This was pointed out in the Fund's March 31, 2010 proxy statement. We believe that much of the SEC and NYSE's opposition was a reaction to the whole Bernie Madoff hedge fund scandal. In some ways this is understandable. The SEC wants only certain financially qualified investors to have access to hedge funds. While many of our stockholders may not be qualified investors, the Fund is a qualified investor under applicable law, and it is the responsibility of the new advisers to conduct appropriate due diligence to make sure that each hedge fund is suitable for the Fund. We don't take this responsibility lightly, and while we recognize that like all investments, hedge funds carry some degree of risk, our least desirable investment would be one of high risk that is passed on to our stockholders. Affiliates of the new advisers, the Horejsi family trusts, own about 36.4% of the Fund. As such, we necessarily eat our own cooking. As advisers to the Fund, one of our primary investing tenets is to not lose what we already have.

With such a significant investment in the WHM hedge funds, we will typically use each hedge fund's most recently available pricing data in order to calculate the Fund's weekly and month-end net asset value (NAV). Pursuant to the Fund's valuation procedures, the Fund uses the hedge fund manager's estimate of the respective fund's value to periodically calculate NAV. Presently, this information is provided to the Fund weekly and at the end of each month. When reflected in the Fund's NAV, the hedge fund pricing will be, at best, one day old. For example, under the Fund's current pricing procedure, when the Fund's NAV is calculated at market close on Fridays, the Friday closing price of the Fund's exchange-traded securities is used. However, in most cases, the values used for the Fund's hedge fund investments are estimates provided by the respective hedge fund managers as of Thursday's market close. They're one day old. These hedge fund values are not audited and may or may not reflect exact values. Any change in value in our hedge funds on the day we publish the Fund's NAV typically will not be reflected in the NAV. However, our current valuation approach will reflect a much better estimate of the Fund's NAV than using only monthly hedge fund valuations. It should be noted here that, subject to applicable law, the Fund may from time to time change its procedures for calculating the Fund's NAV valuation, which may include changing the frequency and timing of gathering pricing information from our hedge fund managers.

Below is a table showing the Fund's performance.

Wellington Management Review

The First Opportunity Fund (the Fund) returned -0.9% on net asset value over the first two months of the period when Wellington Management served as advisor for the Fund. The overall market, as measured by the S&P 500, returned -6.5% during the same period.

The Legacy Portfolio (the Portfolio) of the First Opportunity Fund, for which Wellington Management served as a sub-advisor to the Fund post-restructuring, returned 1.2% over the four-month period ending September 30, 2010. Much like the broader markets, the Portfolio's performance was volatile during this period, declining in June and August and rallying in July and September.

The second quarter saw US equities plummet as escalating global growth concerns, challenges in Europe, and mixed economic data combined to push the S&P 500 Index down to its lowest level since October 2009. Equities moved higher early in the quarter on the back of strong corporate earnings and generally favorable economic data before succumbing to negative news from Europe and China and an unfavorable turn in US economic news. Investor optimism waned as housing data disappointed following the expiration of the homebuyers' tax credit. Furthermore, employment data softened in May and June as jobless claims remained elevated, sinking consumer confidence and raising fears of a double-dip recession. A one-day flash crash in early May also shook investor confidence and further boosted market volatility.

US equities reversed course in the third quarter, surging despite volatility driven by sharp swings in investors' views about the pace of the economic recovery. Early in the quarter, strong corporate earnings and encouraging news regarding Europe's banks and economies bolstered markets. However, equities tumbled in August as fears of a double-dip global recession gained momentum. The quarter finished on a high note amid favorable economic data and rising expectations that the Fed will take additional measures to spur growth. Corporate actions accelerated in recent months, adding fuel to the rally, as corporations took advantage of exceptionally low interest rates and healthy balance sheets to acquire companies and raise dividend payouts.

Within the Financial sector, the prospects of increased legislation and regulation have made the environment for US banks uncertain. The recent US elections have removed some of the uncertainty as one house of Congress is likely to be less anti-industry and will also now have a seat at the table. The Dodd-Frank Financial Regulatory reform bill was passed and we expect that its implementation will both increase capital requirements and lead to higher costs that squeeze net interest margins. In addition, the mortgage foreclosure issues and the potential for put-backs will only delay the bottoming process in the US housing market and further increase the costs for banks. On the positive side, we are seeing fewer bank failures and an increase in M&A activity. While there will continue to be FDIC-assisted deals, we expect to see more deals in the way of whole bank transactions, where relatively healthy organizations take over the less healthy. As opposed to past cycles, we think this acceleration in acquisition activity will benefit both buyers and sellers. Outside the US, the Basel III global capital guidelines were agreed upon and were less stringent than the markets anticipated. The issuance of the new regulations helped lift some of the uncertainty for global banks.

During the period from April 1st to May 31st, Ocwen Financial (+35.7%), a provider of residential and commercial mortgage loan servicing, special servicing and asset management services, was the strongest contributor to the Fund's absolute performance during the period. The company's shares moved higher at the end of May after Barclays PLC announced it was selling its US mortgage servicing business to an Ocwen subsidiary. The Portfolio also benefited during the two month period from prior credit default swap (CDS) protection purchased on a group of European and UK-based banks that underperformed as concerns about Euro zone sovereign debt and solvency issues arose.

The largest detractor from the Fund's absolute performance during the two month period was our position in Goldman Sachs (-15.3%). The New York-based investment bank was charged with alleged fraud by an SEC committee in April. The announcement during the trading day coupled with the pending Financial Reform Bill in Congress appeared to indicate the facts surrounding the case were unclear, and the stock sold off significantly on the day of the indictment. Our position in Assured Guaranty (-22.9%), a credit protection company, which provides bond insurance, mortgage insurance, and other financial guaranty products, also detracted from performance. Its shares declined after the firm reported lower-than-anticipated earnings as expected claims rose during the period.

In late July, the notional exposure of the Portfolio's CDS positioning was reduced as previously purchased protection was removed on several individual European and U.K. banks. We anticipate further reductions in the notional exposure of the CDS hedges going forward.

As of the end of the period, the Portfolio comprised 38.7% of the Fund and consisted of Banks & Thrifts (56%), Capital Markets and Diversified Finance companies (15%), companies in the Insurance industry (10%), REITs and real estate-related (3%), other non-financial sector companies (8%), and cash (7%).

As always, we thank you for your confidence and appreciate your support of the Fund.

First Opportunity Fund, Inc.

NOTE 1. FUND STRUCTURE AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

First Opportunity Fund, Inc. (the Fund) was incorporated in Maryland on March 3, 1986, as a closed-end, management investment company. As of October 14, 2008, the Fund changed its name from First Financial Fund, Inc. to First Opportunity Fund, Inc. As of July 28, 2008, the Fund is non-diversified and its primary investment objective is total return.

At a stockholder meeting held on May 3, 2010, stockholders approved new investment co-advisory agreements with Rocky Mountain Advisers, LLC (RMA) and Stewart Investment Advisers (SIA and together with RMA, the Advisers) (the Advisory Agreements), as well as a new sub-advisory agreement with Wellington Management Company, LLP (Wellington) (the Sub-Advisory Agreement). Under the new structure, with respect to the portion of the portfolio managed by RMA and SIA, the Advisers intend to make a substantial investment in certain private investment funds currently managed by an affiliate of Wellington. Separately, Wellington acts as sub-adviser with respect to a discrete portion of the portfolio containing positions with respect to which Wellington has long-term familiarity in its role as the Fund's prior adviser. The term of Wellington's role as sub-adviser will not last more than 2 years and will be limited to managing and, if appropriate, opportunistically liquidating a portion of the Fund's legacy holdings.

As part of the restructuring proposals, stockholders also approved eliminating the Fund's fundamental concentration policy which previously required that the Fund invest at least 65% of its assets in financial services companies.

On May 6, 2010, the Fund announced that the New York Stock Exchange (the NYSE) notified the Fund of its intent to suspend trading of the Fund's shares prior to the market opening on May 12, 2010, because of the restructuring proposals approved by a majority of the Fund's stockholders. As discussed in the Fund's proxy materials, the NYSE does not have a listing standard expressly prohibiting or otherwise regulating the Fund's ability to invest in private investment funds nor does federal securities law prohibit it. The NYSE indicated that it would exercise its discretionary authority under the NYSE rules and initiate its de-listing process based on it being in the public interest. At the opening of market May 12, 2010, the Fund's shares stopped trading on the NYSE, but continued to trade in the over-the-counter market. The Fund notified stockholders on May 11, 2010, of its new trading symbol: FOFI. Stockholders should be able to continue to trade their Fund shares through their existing brokerage relationships, although under the new symbol.

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements. The preparation of financial statements is in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America (GAAP), which require management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The most critical estimates reflected in the financial statements relate to securities whose fair values have been estimated by management in the absence of readily determinable fair values. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Securities Valuation: Securities for which market quotations are readily available (including securities listed on national securities exchanges and those traded over-the-counter) are valued at the last quoted sales price on the valuation date on which the security is traded. If such securities were not traded on the valuation date, but market quotations are readily available, they are valued at the most recently quoted bid price provided by an independent pricing service or by principal market makers. Securities traded on NASDAQ are valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price (NOCP). Where market quotations are not readily available or where the pricing agent or market maker does not provide a valuation or methodology, or provides a valuation or methodology that, in the judgment of the adviser or sub-adviser, does not represent fair value (Fair Value Securities), securities are valued at fair value by a Pricing Committee appointed by the Board of Directors, in consultation with the adviser or sub-adviser. The Fund uses various valuation techniques that utilize both observable and unobservable inputs including multi-dimensional relational pricing model, option adjusted spread pricing, book value, last available trade, discounted future cash flow models, cost, and comparable company approach. In such circumstances, the adviser or sub-adviser makes an initial written recommendation to the Pricing Committee regarding valuation methodology for each Fair Value Security. Thereafter, the adviser or sub-adviser conducts periodic reviews of each Fair Value Security to consider whether the respective methodology and its application is appropriate and recommends methodology changes when appropriate. The Pricing Committee reviews and makes a determination regarding each initial methodology recommendation and any subsequent methodology changes. All methodology recommendations and any changes are reviewed by the entire Board of Directors on a quarterly basis.

The Fund's investments in unregistered pooled investment vehicles (hedge funds) are valued at the most recent value periodically determined by the respective hedge fund managers according to such manager's policies and procedures (adjusted for estimated expenses and fees accrued to the Fund since the last valuation date); provided, however, that the Pricing Committee may consider whether it is appropriate, in light of relevant circumstances, to adjust such valuation in accordance with the Fund's valuation procedures. If a hedge fund does not report a value to the Fund on a timely basis, the fair value of such hedge fund shall be based on the most recent value reported by the hedge fund, as well as any other relevant information available at the time the Fund values its portfolio. As a practical matter, hedge fund valuations generally can be obtained from hedge fund managers on a weekly basis, as of close of business Thursday, but the frequency and timing of receiving valuations for hedge fund investments is subject to change at any time, without notice to stockholders, at the discretion of the hedge fund manager or the Fund.

The financial statements include investments valued at $148,576,256 (62.44% of total net assets) as of September 30, 2010 whose fair values have been estimated by management in the absence of readily determinable fair values. Due to the inherent uncertainty of the valuation of these investments, these values may differ from the values that would have been used had a ready market for these investments existed and the differences could be material.

Short-term securities which mature in more than 60 days are valued at current market quotations. Short-term securities which mature in 60 days or less are valued at amortized cost, which approximates fair value.

The Fund has adopted the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) and follows the provisions of ASC 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures (ASC 820). In accordance with ASC 820, fair value is defined as the price that the Fund would receive upon selling an investment in a timely transaction to an independent buyer in the principal or most advantageous market of the investment. ASC 820 established a three-tier hierarchy to maximize the use of observable market data and minimize the use of unobservable inputs and to establish classification of fair value measurements for disclosure purposes. Inputs refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability, including assumptions about risk, for example, the risk inherent in a particular valuation technique used to measure fair value including such a pricing model and/or the risk inherent in the inputs to the valuation technique. Inputs may be observable or unobservable. Observable inputs are inputs that reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of the reporting entity. Unobservable inputs are inputs that reflect the reporting entity's own assumptions about the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. The three-tier hierarchy of inputs is summarized in the three broad levels listed below.

- Level 1 Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical investments
- Level 2 Significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar investments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 Significant unobservable inputs (including the Fund's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The Fund uses the value of investment securities, as of the end of each reporting period, in determining transfers in/out of Levels 1, 2 or 3. The following is a summary of the inputs used as of September 30, 2010 in valuing the Fund's investments carried at value:

Valuation Inputs

New Accounting Pronouncement: In January 2010, the FASB issued Accounting Standards Update Improving Disclosures about Fair Value Measurements (ASU). The ASU requires enhanced disclosures about a) transfers into and out of Levels 1 and 2, and b) purchases, sales, issuances, and settlements on a gross basis relating to Level 3 measurements. The first disclosure is effective for the first reporting period beginning after December 15, 2009, and for interim periods within those fiscal years. There were no significant transfers in to and out of Levels 1 and 2 during the current period presented.

The second disclosure will become effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2010, and for interim periods within those fiscal years. Management is currently evaluating the impact this disclosure may have on the Fund's financial statements.

Securities Transactions and Net Investment Income: Securities transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains or losses on sales of securities are calculated on the identified cost basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date, or for certain foreign securities, when the information becomes available to the Fund. Interest income including amortization of premium and accretion of discount on debt securities, as required, is recorded on the accrual basis, using the effective interest method.

Dividend income from investments in real estate investment trusts (REITs) is recorded at management's estimate of income included in distributions received. Distributions received in excess of this amount are recorded as a reduction of the cost of investments. The actual amount of income and return of capital are determined by each REIT only after its fiscal year-end, and may differ from the estimated amounts. Such differences, if any, are recorded in the Fund's following year.

Foreign Currency Transactions: The Fund may invest a portion of its assets in foreign securities. In the event that the Fund executes a foreign security transaction, the Fund will generally enter into a forward foreign currency contract to settle the foreign security transaction. Foreign securities may carry more risk than U.S. securities, such as political, market and currency risks.

The books and records of the Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Foreign currencies, investments and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into US dollars at the exchange rate prevailing at the end of the period, and purchases and sales of investment securities, income and expenses transacted in foreign currencies are translated at the exchange rate on the dates of such transactions. Foreign currency gains and losses result from fluctuations in exchange rates between trade date and settlement date on securities transactions, foreign currency transactions and the difference between the amounts of interest and dividends recorded on the books of the Fund and the amounts actually received.

The portion of foreign currency gains and losses related to fluctuation in the exchange rates between the initial purchase trade date and subsequent sale trade date is included in gains and losses as stated in the Statement of Operations under Foreign currency related transactions. The net U.S. dollar value of foreign currency underlying all contractual commitments held by the Fund and the resulting unrealized appreciation or depreciation are determined using prevailing forward foreign currency exchange rates. Unrealized appreciation and depreciation on foreign currency contracts are reported in the Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities as a receivable or a payable and in the Fund's Statement of Operations with the change in unrealized appreciation or depreciation.

Investment in non-U.S. issuers may involve unique risks compared to investing in securities of U.S. issuers. These risks may include, but are not limited to: (i) less information about non-U.S. issuers or markets may be available due to less rigorous disclosure, accounting standards or regulatory practices; (ii) many non-U.S. markets are smaller, less liquid and more volatile thus, in a changing market, the adviser may not be able to sell the Fund's portfolio securities at times, in amounts and at prices they consider reasonable; (iii) currency exchange rates or controls may adversely affect the value of the Fund's investments; (iv) the economies of non-U.S. countries may grow at slower rates than expected or may experience downturns or recessions; and, (v) withholdings and other non-U.S. taxes may decrease the Fund's return.

Repurchase Agreements: The Fund may enter into repurchase agreement transactions with United States financial institutions. It is the Fund's policy that its custodian take possession of the underlying collateral securities, the value of which exceed the principal amount of the repurchase transaction, including accrued interest. To the extent that any repurchase transaction exceeds one business day, the value of the collateral is marked-to-market on a daily basis to maintain the adequacy of the collateral. The value of the collateral at the time of the execution must be at least equal to 102% of the total amount of the repurchase obligations, including interest. If the seller defaults, and the value of the collateral declines or if bankruptcy proceedings are commenced with respect to the seller of the security, realization of the collateral by the Fund may be delayed or limited. The Fund had no outstanding repurchase agreements as of September 30, 2010.

Lending of Portfolio Securities: The Fund may participate in securities lending arrangements. To do so, the Fund would engage a lending agent to loan securities to qualified brokers and dealers in exchange for negotiated lenders' fees. As of September 30, 2010, the Fund was not participating in any securities lending arrangements.

Credit Default Swaps: The Fund may enter into credit default swap contracts for hedging purposes, to gain market exposure or to add leverage to its portfolio. When used for hedging purposes, the Fund would be the buyer of a credit default swap contract. In that case, the Fund would be entitled to receive the par (or other agreed-upon) value of a referenced debt obligation, index or other investment from the counterparty to the contract in the event of a default by a third party, such as a U.S. or foreign issuer, on the referenced debt obligation. In return, the Fund would pay to the counterparty a periodic stream of payments over the term of the contract provided that no event of default has occurred. If no default occurs, the Fund would have spent the stream of payments and received no benefit from the contract. When the Fund is the seller of a credit default swap contract, it receives the stream of payments but is obligated to pay upon default of the referenced debt obligation. As the seller, the Fund would effectively add leverage to its portfolio because, in addition to its total assets, the Fund would be subject to investment exposure on the notional amount of the swap.

In addition to the risks applicable to derivatives generally, credit default swaps involve special risks because they are difficult to value, are highly susceptible to liquidity and credit risk, and generally pay a return to the party that has paid the premium only in the event of an actual default by the issuer of the underlying obligation, as opposed to a credit downgrade or other indication of financial difficulty. Credit default swaps are marked to market periodically using quotations from pricing services. Unrealized gains, including the accrual of interest are recorded as an asset and unrealized losses are reported as a liability on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The change in value of the credit default swap, including the accrual of interest to be paid or received is reported as a change in unrealized appreciation/depreciation on the Statement of Operations. A realized gain or loss is recorded upon payment or receipt of a periodic payment or termination of the swap agreement.

Counterparty Risk: Changes in the credit quality of the companies that serve as the Fund's counterparties with respect to derivatives, swaps or other transactions supported by another party's credit will affect the value of those instruments. By using derivatives, swaps or other transactions, the Fund assumes the risk that its counterparties could experience such changes in credit quality.

Credit default swap contracts entered into by the Fund as of September 30, 2010, were as follows:

Federal Income Taxes: The Fund intends to qualify as a registered investment company (RIC) by complying with the requirements under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable to RICs and intends to distribute substantially all of its taxable net investment income to its stockholders. Therefore, no Federal income tax provision is required.

Income and capital gain distributions are determined and characterized in accordance with income tax regulations, which may differ from GAAP. These differences are primarily due to (1) differing treatments of income and gains on various investment securities held by the Fund, including temporary differences and (2) the attribution of expenses against certain components of taxable investment income. The Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, imposes a 4% nondeductible excise tax on the Fund to the extent the Fund does not distribute by the end of any calendar year at least (1) 98% of the sum of its net investment income for that year and its capital gains (both long-term and short-term) for its fiscal year and (2) certain undistributed amounts from previous years.

The Fund follows ASC 740, Income Taxes (ASC 740), which requires that the financial statement effects of a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return be recognized in the financial statements when it is more likely than not, based on the technical merits, that the position will be sustained upon examination. Management has concluded that the Fund has taken no uncertain tax positions that require adjustment to the financial statements to comply with the provisions of ASC 740. The Fund files income tax returns in the U.S. Federal jurisdiction and the state of Colorado. The statute of limitations on the Fund's federal and Colorado tax returns

Summary of Dividend

Reinvestment Plan

September 30, 2010 (Unaudited)

First Opportunity Fund, Inc.

Stockholders may elect to have all distributions of dividends and capital gains automatically reinvested in Fund shares (the "shares") pursuant to the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (the "Plan"). Stockholders who do not participate in the Plan will normally receive all distributions in cash paid by check in United States dollars mailed directly to the stockholders of record (or if the shares are held in street name or other nominee name, then to the nominee) by the custodian, as dividend disbursing agent, unless the Fund declares a distribution payable in shares, absent a stockholder's specific election to receive cash.

Computershare Trust Company, N.A. (the "Plan Agent") serves as agent for the stockholders in administering the Plan. After the Fund declares a dividend or a capital gains distribution, if (1) the market price is lower than net asset value, the participants in the Plan will receive the equivalent in shares valued at the market price determined as of the time of purchase (generally, following the payment date of a dividend or distribution); or if (2) the market price of shares on the payment date of the dividend or distribution is equal to or exceeds their net asset value, participants will be issued shares at the higher of net asset value or 95% of the market price. If the Fund declares a dividend or other distributions payable only in cash and the net asset value exceeds the market price of shares on the valuation date, the Plan Agent will, as agent for the participants, receive the cash payment and use it to buy shares on the open market. If, before the Plan Agent has completed its purchases, the market price exceeds the net asset value per share, the Plan Agent will halt open-market purchases of the Fund's shares for this purpose, and will request that the Fund pay the remainder, if any, in the form of newly issued shares. The Fund will not issue shares under the Plan below net asset value.

There is no charge to participants for reinvesting dividends or capital gain distributions, except for certain brokerage commissions, as described below. The Plan Agent's fees for the handling of the reinvestment of dividends will be paid by the Fund. There will be no brokerage commissions charged with respect to shares issued directly by the Fund. However, each participant will pay a pro rata share of brokerage commissions incurred with respect to the Plan Agent's open market purchase in connection with the reinvestment of dividends and distributions. The automatic reinvestment of dividends and distributions will not relieve participants of any federal income tax that may be payable on such dividends or distributions. The Fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the Plan upon 90 Days' written notice to stockholders of the Fund. Participants in the Plan may withdraw from the Plan upon written notice to the Plan Agent or by telephone in accordance with specific procedures and will receive certificates for whole shares and cash for fractional shares.

All correspondence concerning the Plan should be directed to the Plan Agent, Computershare Trust Company, N.A., P.O. Box 43011, Providence, RI 02940-3011.

Board of Directors Approval of the

First Opportunity Fund, Inc.

Investment Advisory Agreement
September 30, 2010 (Unaudited)

Board Considerations Regarding the Advisory Agreements. The 1940 Act requires that the Board, including a majority of the Directors who are not interested persons of the Fund within the meaning of Section 2(a)(19) of the 1940 Act (the Independent Directors), approve the terms of the Advisory Agreements. At a special meeting held on April 16, 2009, and at their regularly scheduled meeting on April 24, 2009, the Board considered certain restructuring proposals and, in particular, the Advisory Agreements and, by a unanimous vote (including a separate vote of the Independent Directors), approved the Advisory Agreements and recommended they be submitted to stockholders for approval.

Factors Considered. Generally, the Board considered a number of factors in approving the Advisory Agreements including, among other things, (i) the nature, extent and quality of services to be furnished by the Advisers to the Fund; (ii) the investment performance of the Boulder Total Return Fund, Inc. (NYSE:BTF), Boulder Growth & Income Fund, Inc. (NYSE:BIF), and The Denali Fund Inc. (NYSE:DNY) (collectively, the Boulder Funds) (i.e., the three other closed-end investment companies managed by SIA and Boulder Investment Advisers, LLC (BIA), an affiliated entity of RMA with substantially the same management and staffing as RMA), compared to relevant market indices and the performance of peer groups of closed-end investment companies pursuing similar strategies; (iii) the advisory fees and other expenses to be paid by the Fund compared to the fee paid to Wellington, the previous adviser to the Fund, and those of similar funds managed by other investment advisers; (iv) the profitability to the Advisers of their investment advisory relationship with the Fund; (v) the extent to which economies of scale would be realized as the Fund grows and whether fee levels reflect any economies of scale; (vi) support of the Advisers by the Fund's principal stockholders; and (vii) the relationship between the Advisers and FAS, a Horejsi affiliate and the Fund's co-administrator. The Board also reviewed the ability of the Advisers to provide investment management and supervision services to the Fund, including the background, education and experience of the key portfolio management and operational personnel, the investment philosophy and decision-making process of those professionals, and the ethical standards maintained by the Advisers.

Deliberative Process. To assist the Board in its evaluation of the quality of the Advisers' services and the reasonableness of the Advisory Fee, the Board reviewed a memorandum from independent legal counsel to the Fund and the Independent Directors discussing the factors generally regarded as appropriate to consider in evaluating investment advisory arrangements and the duties of directors in approving such arrangements. In connection with its evaluation, the Board also requested and received various materials relating to the Advisers' investment services under the Advisory Agreements. These materials included reports and presentations from the Advisers that described, among other things, the Advisers' financial condition, pro forma profitability from their anticipated relationship with the Fund, soft dollar commission and trade allocation policies, organizational structure and compliance policies and procedures. The Board also considered information received from SIA and BIA throughout the year with respect to their oversight of the Boulder Funds, including investment performance and expense ratio reports for the Boulder Funds. The Board held additional discussions at both April meetings which included an executive session among the Independent Directors and their independent legal counsel at which no employees or representatives of the Advisers or Wellington were present. The information below summarizes the Board's considerations in connection with its approval of the Advisory Agreements. In deciding to approve the Advisory Agreements, the Board did not identify a single factor as controlling and this summary does not describe all of the matters considered. However, the Board concluded that each of the various factors referred to below favored such approval.

Nature, Extent and Quality of the Services Provided; Ability to Provide Services. The Board received and considered various data and information regarding the nature, extent and quality of services to be provided to the Fund by the Advisers under the Advisory Agreements. Each Adviser's most recent investment adviser registration form on the Securities and Exchange Commission's (SEC) Form ADV was provided to the Board, as were the responses of the Advisers to information requests submitted by the Independent Directors through their independent legal counsel. The Board reviewed and analyzed the materials, which included information about the background, education and experience of the Advisers' key portfolio management and operational personnel and the amount of attention to be devoted to the Fund by the Advisers' portfolio management personnel. In this regard, it was noted that BIA and SIA's only clients are the three Boulder Funds (and the Fund is RMA's only client). Accordingly, the Board was satisfied that the Advisers' investment personnel, including Stewart R. Horejsi, the Advisers' principal portfolio manager, would devote a significant portion of their time and attention to the success of the Fund and its investment strategy. The Board also considered the Advisers' policies and procedures for ensuring compliance with applicable laws and regulations. Based on the above factors, the Board concluded that it was generally satisfied with the nature, extent and quality of the investment advisory services to be provided to the Fund by the Advisers, and that the Advisers possessed the ability to continuously provide these services to the Fund in the future. The Board was satisfied that the Advisers have the experience and personnel to manage the Fund's portfolio both as it existed on April 24, 2009 (the date of the Board meeting), and as it would exist under the restructuring proposals (i.e., with substantial investment in certain hedge funds managed by Wellington Hedge Management, LLC (the WHM Hedge Funds)). In reaching this conclusion, the Board noted that BIA and SIA have satisfactorily managed the Boulder Funds, with respect to which all the Independent Directors also act as independent board members.

Investment Performance. The Board considered the investment performance of BTF since 1999, BIF since 2002, and DNY since 2007, when BIA and SIA took over management of those funds. The Board noted that the personnel and structure of BIA and RMA are essentially the same and thus the structure, personnel and performance of BIA could be used as a proxy for that of RMA. The Board observed that the long-term performance of the Boulder Funds (i.e., performance since BIA and SIA began managing the respective funds' portfolios) outperformed the Standard & Poor's 500 Index, each fund's primary relevant benchmark, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average and Nasdaq Composite, each fund's secondary benchmarks. In addition, the Board took into consideration that BIF received 2008 Performance Achievement Certificates from Lipper Analytical Services for the 1-year and 5-year periods ended December 31, 2008, in Lipper's Core Funds category and DNY received 2008 Performance Achievement Certificates from Lipper Analytical Services for the 1-year and 5-year periods ended December 31, 2008, in Lipper's Real Estate Fund category. Based on these factors, the Board concluded that the overall performance results of the Boulder Funds supported approval of the Advisory Agreements. In their consideration of the Advisers' performance, the Board noted that there are significant differences between the investment focus of the Boulder Funds and that traditionally held by the Fund, that the Boulder Funds have large concentrations in Berkshire Hathaway (NYSE:BRK), and that none of the Boulder Funds concentrate on financial services companies to the extent concentrated by the Fund.

Costs of Services Provided and Profits Realized by the Advisers. In evaluating the costs of the services to be provided to the Fund by the Advisers, the Board received statistical and other information regarding the Fund's total expense ratio and its various components. The Board acknowledged that the Advisory Fee is at the higher end of the spectrum of fees charged by similarly situated investment advisers of closed-end funds, although it is the same as that charged by BIA and SIA to the Boulder Funds, who are BIA's and SIA's only other clients. The Board also considered that the Advisers have a policy of not participating in (or neutralizing the indirect cost to their clients of) soft dollar or directed brokerage transactions, and that instead, the Advisers directly bear the cost of third-party research utilized by them, increasing the cost to the Advisers of providing investment management services to their fund clients and decreasing their clients' transaction expenses. The Board also obtained detailed information regarding the overall profitability of the Advisers and the combined profitability of the Advisers, BIA and FAS, which acts as co-administrator for the Fund. The combined profitability information was obtained to assist the Board in determining the overall benefits to the Advisers from their relationship to the Fund. In particular, the Board reviewed the costs anticipated to be incurred by the Advisers and FAS in providing services to the Fund. Based on its analysis of this information, the Board determined that the level of profits expected to be earned by the Advisers from managing the Fund bear a reasonable relationship to the services rendered, and concluded that the fee under the Advisory Agreements was reasonable and fair in light of the nature and quality of the services provided by the Advisers. The Board recognized that the Advisory Fee, on a look-through basis, represents a modest increase compared to the cost of advisory services Wellington provided to the Fund. However, the Board believed that the higher fee is justified primarily because the Advisers will have the added responsibility of overseeing the Fund's hedge fund investments and Wellington as sub-adviser, each of which will require an increased expenditure of resources, and determining the Fund's asset allocation across the entire universe of investment possibilities.

The Board took into consideration that, with respect to the Boulder Funds, BIA and SIA have advocated removal of investment restrictions which ultimately benefited stockholders, but that the Fund will require the Advisers to analyze a much broader universe of investments than those of the Boulder Funds. The Board observed that in contrast, under the Fund's fundamental concentration policy of investing at least 65% of its assets in financial services companies (the Concentration Policy), which was removed as part of the restructuring proposals approved by stockholders on May 3, 2010, Wellington analyzed a relatively narrow asset class (i.e., financial services companies) having fewer investment prospects. Moreover, the Board noted that under the Concentration Policy, Wellington Management was mandated to remain substantially invested in financial services companies whether or not the financial services industry is in or out of favor, and thus does not have the burden of determining when and whether reducing the industry concentration is appropriate and in the best interests of the stockholders. The Board believed that the Advisers will necessarily expend more time, energy and resources in determining the most appropriate asset class at the most appropriate time and thus are entitled to a higher fee than the fee paid by the Fund to Wellington.

Economies of Scale. The Board considered whether economies of scale might occur with respect to the management of the Fund, whether the Fund could appropriately benefit from any economies of scale, and whether the Advisory Fee is reasonable in relation to the Fund's assets and any economies of scale that may exist. Based on the relatively small size of the Fund, the Board determined that no meaningful economies of scale would be realized until the Fund achieved significantly higher asset levels. The Board also noted that SIA's and BIA's internal costs of providing investment management services to the Boulder Funds had increased over time, in part due to administrative burdens and expenses resulting from legislative and regulatory actions, and that the Advisers might need to hire additional personnel as their assets under management increase. Nevertheless, the Board determined that breakpoints should be added to the Fund's advisory fee schedule to reduce the advisory fees in the event the Fund's assets increase over current levels. After some discussion, the Advisers agreed to a waiver of advisory fees such that the advisory fees would be calculated at the annual rate of 1.25% on asset levels up to $400 million, 1.10% on assets between $400-$600 million; and 1.00% on assets exceeding $600 million. This fee waiver agreement has a one-year term after the Effective Date and is renewable annually. The Board concluded that these breakpoint levels were acceptable and would appropriately benefit the Fund from any economies of scale realized by the Advisers if the Fund's assets grow.

Support by Significant Stockholders. The Board placed considerable weight on the views of the Horejsi Affiliates, the Fund's largest stockholders, which are affiliated with Mr. Horejsi and the Advisers. As of May 31, 2009, the Horejsi Affiliates held approximately 35.51% of the Shares. The Board understood from Mr. Horejsi that the Horejsi Affiliates are supportive of the Advisers and the approval of the Advisory Agreements.

Approval. The Board based its decision to approve the Advisory Agreements on a careful analysis, in consultation with independent counsel for the Fund and the Independent Directors, of these and other factors. In approving the Advisory Agreements, the Board concluded that the terms of the Advisory Agreements are reasonable and fair and that approval of the Advisory Agreements is in the best interests of the Fund and its stockholders.

Board Considerations Regarding the Sub-Advisory Agreement. The 1940 Act requires that the Board, including a majority of the Independent Directors, approve the terms of the Sub-Advisory Agreement. At a special meeting held on April 16, 2009, and at their regularly scheduled meeting on April 24, 2009, the Board considered the restructuring proposals and, in particular, the Sub-Advisory Agreement and, by a unanimous vote (including a separate vote of the Independent Directors), approved the Sub-Advisory Agreement and recommended it be submitted to stockholders for approval.

Factors Considered. Generally, the Board considered a number of factors in approving the Sub-Advisory Agreement including, among other things, (i) the nature, extent and quality of services to be furnished by Wellington to the Fund; (ii) the investment performance of the Fund under Wellington's management compared to relevant market indices and the performance of comparable funds; (iii) the advisory fees and other expenses paid by the Fund; (iv) the profitability to Wellington of its investment advisory relationship with the Fund; (v) the extent to which economies of scale are realized and whether fee levels reflect any economies of scale; (vi) support of Wellington by the Fund's principal stockholders; and (vii) the historical relationship between the Fund and Wellington. The Board also reviewed the willingness of Wellington to provide temporary investment management services to the Fund with respect to the legacy holdings and its ability to provide supervision services to the Fund, including the background, education and experience of the key portfolio management and operational personnel, the investment philosophy and decision-making process of those professionals, and the ethical standards maintained by Wellington.

Deliberative Process. To assist the Board in its evaluation of the quality of Wellington's services and the reasonableness of the fees under the Sub-Advisory Agreement, the Board received a memorandum from independent legal counsel to the Fund and the Independent Directors discussing the factors generally regarded as appropriate to consider in evaluating investment advisory arrangements and the duties of directors in approving such arrangements. In connection with its evaluation, the Board also requested and received various materials relating to Wellington's investment services under their advisory agreement with the Fund (the Wellington Advisory Agreement). These materials included reports and presentations from Wellington that described, among other things, Wellington's organizational structure, financial condition, internal controls, policies and procedures on brokerage practices, soft-dollar commissions and trade allocation, comparative investment performance results, comparative sub-advisory fees, and compliance policies and procedures. The Board also reviewed a report prepared by Wellington comparing the Fund's performance to a group of closed-end and open-end mutual funds with similar, though not identical, investment strategies as the Fund (the Peer Group). The Board also considered information received from Wellington throughout the year, including investment performance and returns as well as stock price and net asset value. In advance of the April 24, 2009 meeting, the Independent Directors held a special telephonic meeting with counsel to the Fund and the Independent Directors. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the restructuring proposals and renewal of the Wellington Advisory Agreement and to review the materials provided to the Board by Wellington in connection with the annual review process. The Board held additional discussions at the April 24, 2009 Board meeting, which included a private session among the Independent Directors and their independent legal counsel at which no employees or representatives of the Advisers or Wellington were present. The information below summarizes the Board's considerations in connection with its approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreement. In deciding to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreement, the Board did not identify a single factor as controlling and this summary does not describe all of the matters considered. However, the Board concluded that each of the various factors referred to below favored such approval.

Nature, Extent and Quality of the Services Provided; Ability to Provide Services. The Board received and considered various data and information regarding the nature, extent and quality of services currently provided to the Fund by Wellington under the Wellington Advisory Agreement. The Board reviewed and analyzed the materials, which included information about the background, education and experience of Wellington's key portfolio management and operational personnel and the amount of attention currently devoted to the Fund by Wellington's portfolio management personnel. The Board also reviewed Wellington's policies and procedures on side-by-side management of hedge funds and other accounts and any impact these might have on the success of the Fund. The Board was satisfied that Wellington's investment personnel, including Mr. Adams, the Fund's principal portfolio manager, would devote an adequate portion of their time and attention to the success of the Fund and its investment strategy, particularly given a reduction in the number of accounts managed by Mr. Adams that occurred in 2006. Based on the above factors, the Board concluded that it was generally satisfied with the nature, extent and quality of the investment advisory services to be provided to the Fund by Wellington, and that Wellington possessed the ability to continue to provide these services to the Fund in the future.

Investment Performance. The Board considered the investment performance of the Fund as compared to relevant indices, the performance of three comparable closed-end financial services funds (the Closed-End Peer Group) and the performance of 11 selected open-end financial services funds (the Open-End Peer Group) for the year-to-date, one-, three-, five- and ten-year periods and since-inception period (for the indices only) ended February 28, 2009. Certain information for certain periods were not available, depending on the inception date of the index or comparable fund. The Board noted that the Fund's returns gross of fees of were in line with the returns of the S&P 500 Index, NASDAQ Composite Principal Index, NASDAQ Banks Index, SNL All Daily Thrift Index, and MSCI World Financials ex-Real Estate Index for the one-year, three-year and five-year periods, and that the Fund had outperformed all of those indices for the ten-year and since-inception periods. The Board noted that the financial services sector of the stock market had experienced a significant decline in late 2008 and early 2009, which accounted for the Fund's recent relative underperformance as compared to broader market indices. The Board also observed that the Fund had significantly outperformed the Closed-End Peer Group over the year-to-date, one-, five- and ten-year periods except for one fund for the one-year period. The Board further noted that the Fund outperformed the Lipper Financial Services Fund Average and the Open-End Peer Group in all time-period categories except for four funds in the one-year period, three funds in the three-year period, and one fund in the five-year period. In concluding that the Fund's overall investment performance supported renewal of the Wellington Advisory Agreement and approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreement under the restructuring proposals, the Board ascribed greater weight to the long-term performance of the Fund against its benchmarks and other financial services funds.

Costs of Services Provided and Profits Realized by Wellington. In evaluating the costs of the services to be provided to the Fund by Wellington, the Board relied on statistical and other information regarding the Fund's total expense ratio and its various components, including the Advisory Fee and Sub-Advisory Fee and investment-related expenses. The Board also noted that in 2006, in connection with a proposed increase in advisory fees under the Wellington Advisory Agreement that was ultimately approved by the Board and stockholders, it had conducted a detailed evaluation of the Fund's expense ratio and the advisory fees charged by Wellington. The Board noted that the Sub-Advisory Fee is in the range of advisory fees for funds in the Closed-End Peer Group and is comparable to the fees earned by Wellington on other portfolios managed by Mr. Adams, including certain WHM Hedge Funds. The Board also noted that the Advisory Fee to be charged by the Advisers is at the higher end of the spectrum of fees charged by similarly situated investment advisers of closed-end funds but that the

The Board also obtained information regarding the overall profitability of Wellington to assist the Board in determining the overall benefits to Wellington from its relationship to the Fund. The Board compared the overall profitability of Wellington to the profitability of certain publicly traded investment management firms. Based on its analysis of this information, the Board determined that the overall level of profits earned by Wellington did not appear to be unreasonable based on the profitability of other investment management firms and the quality of the services rendered by Wellington. Based on these factors, the Board concluded that the fee under the Sub-Advisory Agreement was reasonable and fair in light of the nature and quality of the services provided by Wellington.

Economies of Scale. The Board considered whether there have been economies of scale with respect to the management of the Fund, whether the Fund has appropriately benefited from any economies of scale, and whether the Sub-Advisory Fee is reasonable in relation to the Fund's assets and any economies of scale that may exist. The Board noted that the Sub-Advisory Fee includes breakpoints. In evaluating economies of scale, the Board noted that Wellington's internal costs of providing investment management services to the Fund had continued to increase, particularly costs associated with attracting and retaining talented investment personnel and compliance costs. The Board concluded that the breakpoints in the fee schedule are acceptable and appropriately reflect any economies of scale expected to be realized by Wellington in managing the legacy holdings if the Fund's net assets increase.

Support by Significant Stockholder. The Board placed considerable weight on the views of the Horejsi Affiliates, the Fund's largest stockholders, which are affiliated with Mr. Horejsi and the Advisers. As of May 31, 2009, the Horejsi Affiliates held approximately 35.51% of the Shares. The Board understood from Mr. Horejsi that the Horejsi Affiliates are supportive of the restructuring proposals and engaging Wellington to manage the legacy holdings under the Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Approval. The Board based its decision to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreement on a careful analysis, in consultation with independent counsel to the Fund and the Independent Directors, of these and other factors. In approving the Sub-Advisory Agreement, the Board concluded that the terms of the Sub-Advisory are reasonable and fair and that approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreement is in the best interests of the Fund and its stockholders.

On May 3, 2010, stockholders of the Fund approved the Advisory Agreements and Sub-Advisory Agreement. Please see for Note 1. to the Financial Statements for further information.
