THE VALUE LINE FUND, INC.

TO OUR VALUE LINE

TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS:

Equity market returns over the first half of 2003, particularly since the lows of mid-March, have been strong. During January and February, the threat of war with Iraq had a dampening effect on the market. However, with the fighting and bombing that marked the inception of the war on March 19th, the uncertainty that Wall Street finds so unsettling was eliminated. Thus began a rally that was further fueled by the short length of the war, which appeased those who were worried about the economic impact of a protracted engagement.

For the first half of 2003, the Fund returned 8.49% versus 11.76% for the S&P 500(1).

As of June 30, 2003, the portfolio remained more heavily invested in consumer discretionary stocks -- particularly retailers and homebuilders -- than the S&P 500. Earnings growth in this group has been strong, which reflects the powerful boost the consumer has provided to the economy during this multi-year bear market. While our concentration in retailing stocks was beneficial during the first quarter of 2003, many of these stocks suffered during the June quarter as investors questioned whether the consumer would continue to spend in the face of ongoing job cuts and a lackluster economy. The portfolio was also overweighted in the health care sector, as many names in this group have shown above-average growth rates. Here, we saw stock gains in the pharmaceutical, biotechnology, pharmacy benefit manager and managed care companies. The portfolio was less invested than its benchmark in those industries that are less favored by our Timeliness Ranking System. As a case in point, we had limited exposure to technology, both information technology and telecommunications services, which was clearly a hindrance as we saw many companies in these sectors produce large gains during the spring rally. However, the improvement in earnings necessary to move stocks in this group higher in the Timeliness Ranking System has not yet materialized; that is, stock prices have increased in advance of earnings growth, precluding us from participating more fully in the technology sector.

Edgar Filing: VALUE LINE FUND INC - Form N-30D

In terms of positioning the portfolio, we believe that a recovery in the economy -- however slowly that may unfold -- will buoy sectors beyond those dependent upon the consumer. Therefore, we will be making a concerted effort to continue shifting assets from the overweighted consumer discretionary area to the currently underweighted industrials and information technology sectors as they move up in the Value Line Timeliness Ranking System. These groups should benefit as corporations begin to spend again.

First-quarter results were generally better than expected, and since then, there have been some signs that business activity is no longer declining. In the second quarter, upside earnings surprises were more prevalent than downward surprises. Revenue growth, however, remained somewhat elusive. Instead, improvements in profitability appear to be a function of the widespread business belt-tightening that we have seen over the past few years. Nonetheless, the potential for corporate profits in the future looks promising. That is, corporations have become so lean and cost-efficient that they should realize significant gains in a more favorable economic environment.

We thank you for your continued confidence in Value Line.

Sincerely,

/s/ Jean Bernhard Buttner

ECONOMIC OBSERVATIONS

The U.S. economic recovery, which had been proceeding at an uninspiring pace for the better part of two years, showed a bit more spirit in the second quarter of this year, as the nation's gross domestic product increased at a modest 2.4% rate, pushed forward by a selective recovery in manufacturing, by strong housing demand, and by improving retail sales. True, there were still pockets of weakness around, most notably in the employment area, where non-farm payrolls declined further and the unemployment rate climbed above 6%. Overall, though, the economic picture at the end of the opening half was a lot brighter than it had been at the start of the year, when talk of a possible double-dip recession was still being heard.

Now, as we make our way through the second half of 2003, we are starting to see evidence of a further improvement in business activity, with both the retail and manufacturing sectors strengthening even more, albeit still selectively, while housing remains resilient. The weak link in the recovery chain is still the employment situation, which, at best, is starting to show signs of stability following months of steady erosion. The ongoing support of the

Federal Reserve, which continues to maintain its low-interest-rate policies, along with the earlier passage of a tax cut and fiscal stimulus package, should provide the additional help needed by the economy to push GDP growth up into the 3.5% to 4% range during the second half of the year.

Inflation, meantime, remains muted, thanks, in part, to subdued labor costs. Adequate supplies of raw materials are also helping to keep the costs of production low. We caution, though, that as the U.S. economy moves further along the recovery trail over the next several years, some increase in pricing pressures may emerge. Absent a stronger long-term business recovery than we now envision, or a resumption of the earlier sharp rise in oil and gas prices stemming from a surprisingly long conflict in the Middle East, inflation should remain in check through the latter years of this decade. Long-term interest rates, which have moved higher recently, as the economy has perked up, should stabilize at modestly higher levels over the next several years.

THE VALUE LINE FUND, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Fund is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, as a diversified, open-end management investment company whose primary investment objective is long-term growth of capital.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

(A) SECURITY VALUATION. Securities listed on a securities exchange and over-the-counter securities traded on the NASDAQ national market are valued at the closing sales prices on the date as of which the net asset value is being determined. In the absence of closing sales prices for such securities and for securities traded in the over-the-counter market, the security is valued at the midpoint between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices. Securities for which market quotations are not readily available or that are not readily marketable and all other assets of the Fund are valued at fair value as the Board of Directors may determine in good faith. Short-term instruments with maturities of 60 days or less at the date of purchase are valued at amortized cost, which approximates market value. Short-term instruments with maturities greater than 60 days at the date of purchase are valued at the midpoint between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices, and commencing 60 days prior to maturity such securities are valued at amortized cost.

Edgar Filing: VALUE LINE FUND INC - Form N-30D

(B) REPURCHASE AGREEMENTS. In connection with transactions in repurchase agreements, the Fund's custodian takes possession of the underlying collateral securities, the value of which exceeds the principal amount of the repurchase transaction, including accrued interest. To the extent that any repurchase transaction exceeds one business day, the value of the collateral is marked-to-market on a daily basis to ensure the adequacy of the collateral. In the event of default of the obligation to repurchase, the Fund has the right to liquidate the collateral and apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the obligation. Under certain circumstances, in the event of default or bankruptcy by the other party to the agreement, realization and/or retention of the collateral or proceeds may be subject to legal proceedings.

(C) FEDERAL INCOME TAXES. It is the Fund's policy to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies, including the distribution requirements of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, and to distribute all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no federal income tax or excise tax provision is required.

(D) SECURITY TRANSACTIONS AND DISTRIBUTIONS. Security transactions are accounted for on the date the securities are purchased or sold. Interest income is accrued as earned. Realized gains and losses on sales of securities are calculated for financial accounting and federal income tax purposes on the identified cost basis. Dividend income and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles.
