CryptoLogic selects Ireland for its global headquarters

European headquarters will provide the company strategic flexibility to accelerate expansion and strengthen customer support in major growth markets

September 25, 2006 (Toronto, ON) CryptoLogic Inc., a leading software developer to the global Internet gaming market, today announced its proposal to advance its global strategy by establishing its headquarters in the Republic of Ireland in January 2007, subject to regulatory and shareholder approvals. The company also proposes to adopt the Alternative Investment Market (AIM) of the London Stock Exchange as its primary market, and intends to maintain its Toronto and NASDAQ listings. CryptoLogic's software development team will remain in Canada.

CryptoLogic's business is increasingly centered in Europe, and establishing our organization in that market is the logical next step to support our international growth plans, said Lewis Rose, CryptoLogic's President and CEO. For CryptoLogic, this is about being closer to our customers, and to the world's most thriving Internet gaming markets. By expanding our presence in gaming-friendly jurisdictions, CryptoLogic enhances its flexibility to pursue all strategic opportunities and broaden the services offered to our customers.

Strategic Purpose of Proposal

The management and Board of Directors believe that locating the company's headquarters in Europe will advance its global strategy by bringing considerable strategic benefits, which include:

Edgar Filing: CRYPTOLOGIC INC - Form 6-K

Bringing the company closer to the world's major markets that embrace Internet gaming, and therefore, closer to its key customers, investment community and prospects;
A gaming-friendly environment that enables the company to provide a wider range of marketing support and brand management services to licensees;
Broadening the company's strategic acquisition opportunities; and
Aligning the company's primary stock exchange listing with its peer group.

After record revenue and earnings in 2005, CryptoLogic conducted a comprehensive review over the past year of the key strategic steps needed to maintain and strengthen its leadership position in the Internet gaming industry.

CryptoLogic's management team and Board of Directors concluded that establishing its base in Ireland would give the company a broader range of strategic options to accelerate its growth and support its customers. This includes offering marketing and brand management services, such as supporting the company's largest customer, InterCasino, in its marketing efforts, and working closely with the newest customer, Playboy, in Europe to develop and implement its non-US marketing initiatives.

CryptoLogic has already established major components of its system infrastructure in Ireland, including its electronic cash processing system and its recently announced Distributed Poker platform. Ireland is recognized as an attractive Internet gateway to Europe with state-of-the-art technology infrastructure and skilled personnel to support CryptoLogic's expansion in the fast-growing and global Internet gaming market.

Reorganization of Headquarters

The headquarter functions of the Chief Executive Officer, the Chief Financial Officer, the Vice President of Human Resources, Business Development, and the Head of Investor Relations will be transitioned to Ireland. Mr. Rose is committed to remain as President and CEO into 2007 to assist with an orderly transition until a new CEO based in Ireland can be recruited. For family reasons, Mr. Rose is unable to move to Ireland permanently. The search for a new CEO is already underway. Stephen Taylor, CryptoLogic's CFO, will be based in Ireland. Other senior executives (including the Chief Technology Officer) will continue in their current positions and locations, and the company's remaining operations in Canada, Cyprus and the UK will be unaffected.

The Chairman will continue in place, and the current Board of Directors will continue until some Directors may be succeeded by new European non-executive Directors to reflect CryptoLogic's growing European-oriented business.

Primary Listing on AIM

By adopting a primary listing on London's AIM, CryptoLogic joins a broad peer group that is researched extensively by UK-based analysts. The UK has emerged as the global centre for Internet gaming and is leading the way in implementing a world-class regulated market for online gaming. CryptoLogic has long advocated regulation as the best solution for the safe, secure and responsible use of this form of online entertainment. CryptoLogic's certification to the highest government standards and a record of public company transparency and disclosure give the company a competitive advantage in working with major, brand name customers that will lead the next phase of Internet gaming industry growth.

International diversification has been one of CryptoLogic's core business strategies for the past four years. More than 65% of its licensee revenue now comes from international sources, a steady rise from just 30% in 2001. With more than 60% of licensee revenues derived from the UK and continental Europe today, it makes sense for CryptoLogic to be nearer its customers and future prospects.

Terms of the Reorganization

CryptoLogic proposes to exchange all existing common shares for shares in the new Irish-based company, to be called CryptoLogic PLC. This would be done on a tax deferred basis for shareholders. It is intended that the share exchange would be effected by way of a Plan of Arrangement using an exchangeable share structure that will be subject to Canadian court approval. Details will be set out in an Information Circular to be mailed to shareholders. An application is planned for the shares of CryptoLogic PLC to be traded on AIM in London. A special meeting of shareholders is planned for late November or early December. The company anticipates that, subject to the receipt of all required regulatory and shareholder approvals, the reorganization will be effective January, 2007.

Financial Estimates

One-time expenses related to the reorganization and to establish an Irish headquarters are estimated to range from $8.0 to $8.5 million. Approximately 10% of these non-recurring costs have been expensed by June 30, 2006. Approximately 50% is expected to be expensed for the full year 2006, largely related to professional fees. The remaining 50% will be expensed in 2007. In addition, there will be one-time capital expenditures of approximately $1.0 million associated with the set up of new premises in Ireland.

There will be incremental operations and staff costs associated with an Irish-based headquarters, which are expected to be approximately $2.5 to $3.0 million per annum. CryptoLogic believes that the strategic benefits, as outlined above, of locating in a gaming-friendly environment, are expected to yield a significant return on investment by positioning the company for the future.

In August, CryptoLogic reported record results for Q2 2006. Revenue rose 52% to $30.4 million for the three months ended June 30, 2006, compared with the same period in 2005. Earnings rose 73% to $8.2 million compared with Q2 2005. At June 30, 2006, CryptoLogic's total cash position was $126.9 million.

Excluding the one-time expenses related to today's announcement, Q3 2006 guidance remains unchanged.
