CHINA REGION FUND, INC.

OBJECTIVES

Jardine Fleming China Region Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation through investments primarily in equity securities of companies with substantial assets in, or revenues derived from, the People's Republic of China (PRC or China), Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Macau--collectively, the China Region.

The Fund provides investors with an opportunity to participate in the growing economies of the China Region, especially that of the PRC, although investments are expected to be predominantly in securities listed on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong. Hong Kong enterprises have made substantial investments in the PRC, in Guangdong Province in particular, where abundant cheap labor and land are available. Hong Kong is also the largest trading partner of the PRC.

The economies of the PRC, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Macau have become increasingly linked over the past 10 years and are expected to become further integrated now that Hong Kong and Macau have reverted to Chinese sovereignty. Investments made by the Fund will seek to take advantage of opportunities resulting from this linkage among the China Region markets.

MANAGEMENT

JF International Management Inc. ("JFIM") (formerly Jardine Fleming International Management Inc.) is the investment management company appointed to advise and manage the Fund's portfolio. With the completion of the merger between Robert Fleming Holdings Ltd. and The Chase Manhattan Corporation ("Chase") in October 2000, and the subsequent merger between Chase and J.P. Morgan & Co. Incorporated in January 2001, JFIM became part of J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. ("JPMC"), one of the world's premier financial services institutions. In asset management, JPMC will operate globally under the name of JPMorgan Fleming Asset Management ("JPMFAM"), although in Asia it will use the sub-brand JF Asset Management. Funds under management for the global asset management business was US$611 billion as of June 30, 2001. The investment philosophy of JPMFAM is to maintain two distinct and separate investment processes for their equity products.

Chung Man Wing is the portfolio manager of the Fund. Mr. Chung joined JFIM in late 2000 as head of the Greater China team. Previously, he was chief

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

In February this year, the Board approved the adoption of the MSCI Golden Dragon Index as the Fund's benchmark with commencement date on March 1, 2001.

Edgar Filing: JARDINE FLEMING CHINA REGION FUND INC - Form N-30D

The Board believes that the new benchmark can better measure the Fund's investment management performance. The Board stressed that the Fund would not be seeking to replicate the performance of the new index but will continue to be actively managed to invest in the best opportunities in the China Region.

China Region equity market performance was mixed in 1H 2001. Hong Kong disappointed as the Hang Seng Index fell 13.6% despite the potential support of tumbling U.S. interest rates. Taiwan rose at first but later fell back to end 1.1% down, a victim of falling global demand for technology products, especially semiconductors. Direct China plays on the other hand had an excellent quarter. Spurred by the meteoric rise of the small domestic-oriented Shanghai and Shenzhen B share markets, Hong Kong H shares and Red Chips gained 42.3% and 11.9%, respectively.

In these challenging, volatile markets the Fund outperformed in 1H, down 3.0% in NAV terms versus an 8.2% decline in the Jardine Fleming China Region Fund benchmark. On account of our share buyback program described below, the Fund's share price did much better than the NAV, rising 9.7% as the discount narrowed.

Looking ahead, we believe that facing an uncertain global outlook, investors will focus even more on sustainable growth. As such, the China Region remains very attractive. We have increased exposure to better quality, direct China plays listed in Mainland China and Hong Kong. This has been at the expense of Taiwan which we have underweighted on a tactical basis, although the long-term investment case for that country is still sound. We are confident that our disciplined yet flexible investment approach that acknowledges the volatile nature of emerging asset classes will generate good long-term returns for our shareholders.

Following the expiration of the tender offer on December 18, 2000, the Fund resumed its repurchase program in January this year. During the six months ended June 30, 2001, the Fund repurchased a total of 148,000 shares in the open market at a per-share weighted average discount to net asset value of 20.12%.

Apart from using share buybacks as an ongoing and permanent mechanism to address the discount, the Board of Directors is also committed, beginning in 2001, to implement a partial tender offer or similar transaction if the Fund's shares trade at an average discount to net asset value in excess of 20% for any 13-week period, limited to one such transaction in each calendar year. In recognition of the fact that the average discount to net asset value for the Fund's shares exceeded 20% during the first thirteen weeks of 2001, the Board of Directors initiated a tender offer to acquire up to 20% of the Fund's outstanding shares of common stock which commenced on June 11, 2001 and remained open through July 9, 2001. Pursuant to this tender offer, the Fund purchased a total of 1,172,856 shares, representing 20% of the Fund's issued and outstanding shares, at a price equal to 95% of the Fund's net asset value per share on the closing date of July 9, 2001.

The Board noted that the discount of the Fund has improved since May this year to a level below 20%. The Board will continue to actively manage the discount to net asset value at which the Fund's shares trade in the market.

INVESTMENT REVIEW

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

The environment facing global equity markets was challenging during the first half amid the slowdown in the U.S. economy and uncertain demand outlook for technology/capital goods. Within the China Region, Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index fell by 13.6%, while Taiwan's Weighted Index was down 1.1%. On the other hand, the two smaller, domestic-oriented China B share markets in Shanghai and Shenzhen were boosted by strong domestic liquidity and unexpectedly positive policy support. The Shanghai B Index and the Shenzhen B Index were up 142.7% and 168.3%, respectively.

As a result of these mixed returns and the high intra-period volatility in the Region's markets, the net asset value of the Fund was down 3.0% although the share price rose 9.7% as the discount narrowed. This compares with an 8.2% decline in the Jardine Fleming China Region Fund benchmark.

In Hong Kong, the fall in the Hang Seng Index was disappointing given the aggressive interest rate cuts in the U.S. and Hong Kong. Low nominal interest rate failed to excite demand given the persistent deflation and continued economic restructuring. Consumer confidence was still low amid worsening unemployment. Affected by the slowdown in the U.S., external trade deteriorated. As a result, GDP growth projections were revised down and earnings forecasts for major blue chip companies were reduced. Overall sentiment towards the traditional, blue chip market therefore remained cautious. On the other hand, the Hong Kong equity market actually became two-tiered during the period. Outside of the blue chips, the China-related H shares and Red Chip stocks outperformed on the back of good macroeconomic numbers from Mainland China, expectations of positive news (China's WTO entry and Beijing's bid to host the 2008 Olympiad) and speculative liquidity inflows in wake of the strong performance of the domestic Chinese B share markets. The Hang Seng China Enterprises Index and the Hang Seng China Affiliated Corporate Index were up 42.3% and 11.9%, respectively.

Investment sentiment continued to be bullish in Mainland China given the strong economic dynamics. Although export growth momentum started to be affected by the slowdown in the U.S., China's trade surplus was still remarkably resilient when compared with other Asian economies. More importantly, foreign direct investment continued to be attracted by China's vast market potential. Private consumption as well as public spending recovered visibly and were the key drivers behind the 7.8% GDP growth during the first half. As a result, the B share markets were boosted by powerful domestic investors interest. The unexpected policy relaxation in February, which formally allowed participation in B shares by domestic hard currency holders, was a significant watershed. It reaffirmed the Chinese government's commitment to deepening financial market reforms. It also fueled expectation of eventual unification of the A and B shares markets. As a result, B shares were propelled to virtually uncharted territories in late May, the lingering issue of poor corporate governance notwithstanding.

The small year-to-date decline in the Taiwan Weighted Index did not reflect the intra-period market volatility and the deteriorating economic and political environment. After the rebound at the beginning of the year, which lifted the Index above the 6,100 level in mid February, investment sentiment worsened rapidly. First, export orders and industrial production plunged on the back of falling information technology investment spending by the U.S., which had a direct impact on Taiwan's electronic exports. For example, export orders contracted by 14% year-on-year in May, which was the most severe monthly decline since March 1990. Subsequently, heavyweight electronic stocks fell sharply as corporate earnings from the U.S. technology sector continued to disappoint over the second quarter and as growth outlook became uncertain. The drop in stock prices triggered margin call-related, indiscriminate selling by local financial institutions and corporate investors. There was further instability on the political front as former President Lee teamed up with President Chen. This intensified the conflict between the administration and a still powerful opposition party with the Legislative Yuan election approaching. This unfortunately led to policy indecisiveness and dented confidence further. As a result, the currency has been under tremendous pressure amid signs of capital flight and the Taiwan Weighted Index now looks set to test new lows.

OUTLOOK

In Hong Kong, reported economic numbers continued to be sluggish as economic recovery proves to be slow and narrow-based. Although property sales picked up marginally, asset prices remained under pressure. Despite multiple cuts in nominal interest rates, real interest rates remained high, owing to continued deflation, and investment demand was still weak. Given the slowdown in the U.S., external trade moderated. Employment prospects have not improved, with the unemployment rate staying stubbornly high at 4.6% in June. Overall, economists have been revising down their growth projections and Hong Kong's GDP growth for this year is likely to be at a sub-trend level of around 3%.

Mainland China's economic outlook remains bright. GDP momentum continues to be strong, as witnessed by the surprisingly strong 7.8% quarter-on-quarter growth in the second quarter. Although the continued economic slowdown in the U.S. has started to affect China's export growth and the trade surplus may shrink this year, buoyant consumer demand and renewed fiscal stimulus have compensated for this. Furthermore, China's imminent WTO accession will translate into significant benefits to the Chinese economy. In the short-term, capital inflows will escalate further as more and more multinationals establish themselves in China. In fact, foreign direct investment flows have been surging even before the official WTO entry, posting 20% plus year-on-year growth in recent months. We estimate that foreign direct investment alone may contribute 1 percentage point to China's GDP growth. Over the longer term, WTO will mean increased foreign competition and new MODUS OPERANDI for domestic enterprises. Corporate restructuring, albeit painful at times, will accelerate and reach virtually all segments of the economy. In order to stay competitive, Chinese enterprises will have to downsize and raise capital. This process will offer numerous investment opportunities for the Fund and eventually give rise to a more efficient Chinese corporate sector.

In Taiwan, the near term macro outlook has deteriorated sharply. Hurt by the slowdown in the U.S. economy in general and the retrenchment of global technology demand in particular, Taiwan's exports and industrial production have plummeted. As a result, GDP growth decelerated to a 26-year slow pace of 1.06% year-on-year in the first quarter of 2001. Rapidly worsening employment prospects and tight credit policy by the banks have led to sluggish consumption and investment and a mini credit crunch is possible. On the other hand, anecdotal evidence suggests that capital flows across the straits into China have been on the rise as Taiwanese investors are lured by the better prospect in the Mainland. As such, the New Taiwan Dollar currency has been under downward pressure despite Taiwan's enormous foreign exchange reserves. Added to the economic woes is an inexperienced administration, which is often at odds with a powerful opposition party. This political quagmire has been reflected in economic policy inertia and will culminate in the Legislative Yuan elections at the end of the year.

As far as the equity markets are concerned, the timing of the U.S. recovery and restructuring and reforms in China will be the two key factors that determine share price performance. After a series of interest rate reductions, the U.S. economy in general and capital goods demand in particular are expected to show signs of revival towards the end of the year. If this becomes apparent, general investor sentiment should improve. In particular, blue chip stocks in Hong Kong and export-oriented electronic and technology stocks in Taiwan should stabilize. As for China, healthy economic growth plus strong commitment to restructuring will continue to attract investors. Further financial market opening will stimulate an equity investment culture among domestic investors while increasing access to the China growth story for foreign investors. As a result, market breadth and depth will improve and China-related shares as a group should provide satisfactory returns.

Given our assessment of the overall macro environment and our expectation of returns from the different markets and asset classes, we have adopted several asset allocation changes within the Fund. In Hong Kong, while we have maintained the overall level of investments in the market, we have reduced our exposure to the blue chip stocks while increasing our investment in good quality mid-cap companies. While we continue to be positive about the financial strength and transparency of the major Hong Kong blue chip companies over the long run, their share price performance in the near and medium term is likely to be lackluster given the slow economy. On the other hand, selected mid-cap companies, including some of the coming new issues, exhibit more exciting earnings growth potential. Often these companies are increasing their business exposure in China while their stocks are still undervalued given their strong prospects.

We have significantly increased our investment in various types of China shares. The unexpected opening of the B share market to domestic investors indicates faster pace of capital market reform and has since then lifted the profile and market turnover of the B shares in Shanghai and Shenzhen. While the issue of corporate governance remains, selected B shares have now become viable investment candidates for fundamental-oriented investors, especially with relatively lower valuations to their A share counterparts. From a bottom up perspective, we have built positions in a handful of better quality B shares, with a preference for those that are exposed to the flourishing domestic consumer sector. The Hong Kong-listed H shares in general carry the same corporate governance and transparency risk as the B shares. Nonetheless, the valuation argument is compelling as they are trading at steep discount to A shares and even to B shares. With improving liquidity, some of the better quality H shares become investable while providing investors with genuine exposure to the fast growing Chinese economy. Therefore we have been gradually increasing our investments in selected H shares. With regard to the Red Chip stocks, we intend to increase our overweight as many of them are undergoing corporate restructuring, which should streamline their businesses and improve return to shareholders. Also from a capital market perspective, the Red Chips will be able to secure cheap financing if their plans to issue CDR ("Chinese Depository Receipt") are approved by the Chinese regulatory authorities. In terms of share price performance, Red Chips have lagged the B and H shares and this renders the attractive Red Chip "catch-up" plays.

On the other hand, we have tactically reduced our exposure to the Taiwanese market. Despite recent weak performance, near term potential upside is very limited. The growth outlook is still very uncertain while corporate earnings projections are still too optimistic. We are also wary that the political picture will remain murky until at least the end of the year. As such, we expect the Taiwanese market to underperform Hong Kong and China shares over the next few months. Nonetheless, we remain constructive towards the leading Taiwanese technology companies over the long run as they continue to benefit from the trend of outsourcing despite current weak demand. When global IT demand eventually recovers and when the domestic political uncertainty settles, these world-class companies will perform better. As such, the long-term investment case for Taiwan remains intact, in our view, and we are maintaining our core strategic positions in a handful of long-term winners.

To conclude, given the uncertain global outlook, investors will focus even more on sustainable homegrown growth stories. As such, we believe that investors will soon recognize the long-term attraction of the China Region, with China's adoption into the WTO serving as the catalyst. In the short-term, abundant domestic liquidity and further development in terms of corporate restructuring and capital market reforms will provide lucrative investment opportunities amongst Hong Kong and China shares. As such we are proactively positioning the Fund to benefit from these positive developments and are therefore increasing our exposure to the better quality, direct China plays, especially those that are listed in Mainland China and Hong Kong. We shall adopt a disciplined yet flexible investment approach, while acknowledging the fact that trading pattern of certain stocks may be volatile given the emerging nature of the asset classes.

We are confident that this strategy will generate good return to our shareholders over the long-term.

CHINA REGION FUND, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)

JUNE 30, 2001

1. ORGANIZATION AND CAPITAL

Jardine Fleming China Region Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") was incorporated in the State of Maryland on May 22, 1992, and is registered as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940. The Fund commenced operations on July 16, 1992.

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The following significant accounting policies, which are in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America for investment companies, are consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

I) SECURITY VALUATION

All securities for which market quotations are readily available are valued at the last sales price prior to the time of determination, or, if no sales price is available at that time, at the mean between the last current bid and asked prices. Securities that are traded over-the-counter are valued, if bid and asked quotations are available, at the mean between the current bid and asked prices. Investments in short-term debt securities having a maturity of 60 days or less are valued at amortized cost. All other securities and assets are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by the Board of Directors. In valuing the Fund's assets, quotations of foreign securities in a foreign currency are translated to U.S. dollar equivalents at the exchange rate in effect on the valuation date.

Edgar Filing: JARDINE FLEMING CHINA REGION FUND INC - Form N-30D

II) U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

No provision for federal income taxes is required since the Fund intends to continue to qualify as a regulated investment company and distribute all of its taxable income. In 2000, the Fund utilized $12,490,066 of capital loss carryforwards for federal income tax purposes. As of December 31, 2000, the Fund has capital loss carryforwards for federal income tax purposes of $53,865,512, of which $42,188,945 expires in 2006 and $11,676,567 expires in 2007. The Fund intends to retain gains realized in future periods that may be offset by available capital loss carryforward.

In order for the Fund's capital accounts and distributions to shareholders to reflect the tax character of certain transactions, the following reclassifications were made during the year ended December 31, 2000. The reclassifications relate primarily to the current net operating loss. The results of operations and net assets were not affected by the increases/(decreases) to these accounts.

Undistributed net investment income	$ 351,218
Undistributed net realized gain	103,430
Paid-in-capital	(454,648)

III) FOREIGN CURRENCY TRANSLATION

The books and records of the Fund are maintained in United States dollars. Foreign currency amounts are translated into U.S. dollars at the mid-market price of such currencies against U.S. dollars as follows:

- o investments, other assets, and liabilities at the prevailing rates of exchange on the valuation date;
- o investment transactions and investment income at the prevailing rates of exchange on the dates of such transactions.

Although the net assets of the Fund are presented at the foreign exchange rates and market values at the close of the period, the Fund does not isolate that portion of the results of operations arising as a result of changes in the foreign exchange rates from the fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices of the securities held at period-end. Similarly, the Fund does not isolate the effect of changes in foreign exchange rates from the fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices of securities sold during the period. Accordingly, realized and unrealized foreign currency gains (losses) are included in the reported net realized and unrealized gains (losses) on investments.

Unrealized currency gains (losses) from valuing foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities at period-end exchange rates are reflected as a component of accumulated net unrealized gain (loss) on investments, foreign currency holdings, and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies.

Edgar Filing: JARDINE FLEMING CHINA REGION FUND INC - Form N-30D

IV) DISTRIBUTION OF INCOME AND GAINS

The Fund intends to distribute to shareholders, at least annually, substantially all of its net investment income and expects to distribute annually any net long-term capital gains in excess of net short-term capital losses. An additional distribution may be made to the extent necessary to avoid the payment of a 4% federal excise tax. Income and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations and may differ from those determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

V) OTHER

Security transactions are accounted for on the date the securities are purchased or sold. Realized gains and losses on the sale of investment securities are determined on the identified cost basis. Interest income is recognized on the accrual basis. Dividend income and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Portfolio turnover rate is calculated by dividing the lesser of purchases and sales of investment securities having maturities greater than one year at the time of acquisition by the average monthly market value of those investment securities.

DIVIDEND REINVESTMENT AND CASH PURCHASE PLAN

Edgar Filing: JARDINE FLEMING CHINA REGION FUND INC - Form N-30D

THE FUND OPERATES AN OPTIONAL DIVIDEND REINVESTMENT AND CASH PURCHASE PLAN (THE "PLAN") WHEREBY:

- a) shareholders may elect to receive dividend and capital gain distributions in the form of additional shares of the Fund (the Share Distribution Plan).
- b) shareholders may make optional payments (any amount between $100 and $3,000) which will be used to purchase additional shares in the open market (the Share Purchase Plan).

FOR A COPY OF THE PLAN BROCHURE, AS WELL AS A DIVIDEND REINVESTMENT AUTHORIZATION CARD, PLEASE CONTACT:

State Street Bank & Trust Company
(the Plan Agent):
P. O. Box 8200
Boston, Massachusetts 02266-8200
Telephone No: 800-426-5523 (toll-free)

The following should be noted with respect to the Plan:

If you participate in the Share Distribution Plan, whenever the Board of Directors of the Fund declares an income dividend or net capital gain distribution, you will automatically receive your distribution in newly issued shares (cash will be paid in lieu of fractional shares) if the market price of the shares on the date of the distribution is at or above the net asset value of the shares. The number of shares to be issued to you by the Fund will be determined by dividing the amount of the cash distribution to which you are entitled (net of any applicable withholding taxes) by the greater of the net asset value (NAV) per share on such date or 95% of the market price of a share on such date. If the market price of the shares on such a distribution date is below the NAV, the Plan Agent will, as agent for the participants, buy shares on the open market, on the New York Stock Exchange or elsewhere, for the participant's account on, or after, the payment date. There is no service charge for purchases under this Plan.

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, shareholders receiving newly issued shares pursuant to the Share Distribution Plan will be treated as receiving income or capital gains in an amount equal to the fair market value (determined as of the distribution date) of the shares received and will have a cost basis equal to such fair market value. Shareholders receiving a distribution in the form of shares purchased in the open market pursuant to the Plan will be treated as receiving a distribution of the cash distribution that such shareholder would have received had the shareholder not elected to have such distribution reinvested and will have a cost basis in such shares equal to the amount of the distribution.

There will be no brokerage charge to participants for shares issued directly by the Fund under the Plan. Each participant will pay a pro rata share of brokerage commissions incurred with respect to the Plan Agent's open market purchases of shares in connection with the Plan. The Fund will pay the fees of the Plan Agent for handling the Plan.

You may terminate your account under the Share Distribution Plan by notifying the Plan Agent in writing. The Plan may be terminated by the Plan Agent or the Fund with notice to you at least 30 days prior to any record date for the payment of any distribution by the Fund. Upon any termination, the Plan Agent will deliver a certificate or certificates for the full shares held for you under the Plan and a cash adjustment for any fractional shares.

Edgar Filing: JARDINE FLEMING CHINA REGION FUND INC - Form N-30D

You also have the option of instructing the Plan Agent to make semiannual cash purchases of shares in the open market. There is a service charge of $1.25 for each purchase under this Share Purchase Plan.
