Subject: Creating a new health service company

I am pleased to share with you that today Cigna and Anthem announced the agreement to form a premier global health service company, capable of fully responding to the growing market demands for greater choice, access and affordability. This move is consistent with our long history of evolving through mergers, acquisitions, new businesses in new geographies and other initiatives, all driven by the dynamic needs of our customers and clients.

We were able to enter into this agreement because of your hard work and commitment to serving our customers, clients, and business and physician partners, and the great results you have achieved. Over the past five years, we have consistently outperformed our competition and delivered best-in-class results for our clients and shareholders. It is a great track record, and I am even more confident and excited about the opportunities that our combined companies will be able to create.

The transaction will close once all regulatory reviews are complete and the transaction is approved. Once the transaction closes, I will be appointed President and Chief Operating Officer, leading the combined business operations, and Joseph Swedish will be Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, leading the governance and corporate functions. Together, we will be accountable for delivering on a successful integration and the results of the enterprise after closing.

The combination will bring together complementary strengths of two great companies. Most importantly, the merger will be good for our customers, enabling us to offer a wider choice of better solutions at a lower price in more service areas, all while enhancing quality of care. Cigna's consumer engagement and health advocacy capabilities, premier specialty portfolio, and broad geographic U.S. and international presence combined with Anthem's powerful brand, best-in-class Medicaid capabilities and leading individual presence in the U.S., will allow us to deliver a high-quality, sustainable health care system that will benefit us all. Additionally, both companies share a commitment to positively impact the health of people, communities and our environment.

There will not be any immediate changes to your day-to-day role as a result of today's announcement. The companies will remain separate and independent until closing, and we will continue on our present, positive path until the reviews are complete and the merger is approved. There is strong equity in the Cigna brand and the combined company will continue to use the Cigna brand across key markets, products and services.

We expect the transaction to be completed in the second half of 2016. Both organizations will work to develop a smooth integration plan for the combined company. We will keep you updated as we have developments to share. In the meantime, we ask you to stay focused on supporting our business and delivering the excellent service our customers know and value every day.

Thank you for your contributions to our success to date, and I hope you are as excited about the future as I am. We are committed to meeting the challenges of consumers who are as ready as we are to work toward a new era of improved health, well-being and sense of security.

You can speak to your manager about any questions you have and find more information about today's news, and FAQs related to the announcement, on Your Cigna Life.

Sincerely,

David
