Wachovia Merger

I would like to take a moment to update you on the progress of our proposed merger with Wachovia.

As you undoubtedly know from media reports, Bob Kelly, David Carroll, Tom Wurtz and I have been traveling the country in the past couple of weeks to meet with groups of analysts and investors. We are explaining in detail the many merits of our merger-of-equals with Wachovia, and I can say with confidence that I believe our message is being heard. The market appears to be speaking as well: Our stock price has experienced an uptick in recent days, and the premium attached to SunTrust's hostile proposal is shrinking as its own stock price falls. In the coming weeks, we will continue our meetings with a special emphasis on reaching investors in local communities.

On the integration planning front, our business unit reviews continue, and Bud Baker and I are very pleased with their progress. We are actually ahead of where I thought we would be at this point. I can tell you from experience that the level of discussion and debate taking place in these reviews is invigorating. Our people and our companies truly are coming together in the spirit of creating something new and exciting.

As we enter the summer weeks leading up to our July 31 shareholder vote -- and Wachovia's August 3 shareholder vote -- I would like once again to remind everyone how important it is that we keep our focus on meeting customer needs. The company we are creating will stand on the solid base of helping customers achieve their goals. Now is the time to reach out to them, listen to them and keep their best interests in mind so we are ready to make the most of every opportunity.

Thank you for your energy and your enthusiasm.
