RAMIUS FORCED TO RETRACT FALSE STATEMENT ABOUT ORTHOFIX CHAIRMAN

Orthofix Calls on Activist Hedge Fund to Correct Other False and Misleading Statements Made to Shareholders

BOSTON, Mar 31, 2009 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- Orthofix International N.V. (NASDAQ: OFIX) (the Company) announced today that the activist hedge fund, Ramius, has been forced to retract a blatantly false and misleading statement about Orthofix Chairman James Gero – a statement that Ramius previously included in a presentation to at least one proxy advisory firm in connection with their ongoing proxy contest with Orthofix.

Ramius' presentation to RiskMetrics Group, filed as definitive additional soliciting material with the SEC on March 12, 2009, falsely stated that James F. Gero is "Chairman of Clearwire, Inc. - [whose] stock price has declined 88% since the IPO." In fact, Mr. Gero was not chairman, a board member nor a member of management of this company at the time of its IPO in 2007, and has not been at any time since. By falsely linking Mr. Gero with the sharp price decline of this company, Ramius disparaged Mr. Gero's professional reputation and misled shareholders about his background. This statement was clearly false and could have easily been confirmed through public sources.

In a March 30th filing with the SEC, Ramius retracted that false statement, saying "While James Gero was not chairman or a board member of Clearwire, Inc. at the time of its IPO in 2007 or since then, he has been a director of Orthofix since 1998 and has served as Chairman since 2004." This retraction was made after Orthofix criticized Ramius for the blatantly false statement, and Ramius has now been forced to correct itself. Nonetheless, Orthofix wants to ensure that shareholders have the complete facts on the situation as Ramius made only passing reference to the error, did not specifically note that they were correcting a past false statement, and included the statement in a document filed with the SEC but not issued via press release on any major newswire. In this proxy contest, Ramius has consistently issued communications to shareholders via news release in addition to filing them with the SEC, and Orthofix questions why they would choose not to follow this practice in this situation.

"Orthofix is disappointed with the way that Ramius has chosen to behave throughout this proxy contest, including making blatantly false statements about myself, another Orthofix director, and the company's operations," said Orthofix Chairman James Gero. "We want shareholders to understand the true facts, and today we call on Ramius to correct the record on the other false statements it has made about Orthofix as well. Additionally, Ramius should state clearly whether their corrective statement made yesterday was made as a result of the SEC forcing them to take such action, as we believe that shareholders would want to know."

In addition to the false statements that Ramius made about Chairman Gero in its shareholder communications, Orthofix also previously criticized Ramius for three additional false statements, and the Company is calling on Ramius to correct the record on these other demonstrably inaccurate communications as well:

1. False Statement about Thomas J. Kester, Orthofix Board Member

In its March 12, 2009 shareholder presentation, subsequently filed with the SEC, Ramius made a blatantly false statement about Orthofix Director Thomas J. Kester. After referencing his experience as a KPMG audit partner, Ramius stated that Mr. Kester “has no other public or private board experience.” In fact, Mr. Kester currently serves as a director, and until recently had been chairman of the board, of a non-profit organization with a multi-million dollar annual budget, and another affiliated non-profit corporation. Once again, Ramius’ statement was false and gives Orthofix shareholders a false and misleading description of Mr. Kester’s professional background and experience.

2. False Statement about Orthofix Corporate Office and Boston Real Estate

Again in the same March 12 filing, Ramius criticized Orthofix for the choice of its Boston office location, calling it “arguably some of the most expensive real estate in Boston.” In fact, the Orthofix office lease in Boston is $27 per square foot. This is approximately 50% of the average cost of comparable nearby real estate, according to Cushman & Wakefield, and is actually less than the cost per square at the Company’s Huntersville, NC office. Making this sort of objectively false statement again calls attention to Ramius’ reckless behavior in this proxy contest.

3. False Statement about Orthofix Regarding the Special Meeting of Shareholders

Ramius’ March 9, 2009 letter to Orthofix shareholders and accompanying press release, also filed with the SEC, accused the Orthofix Board of delaying the scheduling of the Special Meeting of shareholders, stating: “The current Board scheduled the Special Meeting on a date that is as far out as possible under Netherlands Antilles law...” In fact, no provision of Netherlands Antilles law or the Company’s articles of association mandates a maximum time period or number of days by which a special meeting must be held. By saying “as far out as possible under Netherlands Antilles law,” Ramius is misleading shareholders to believe that the Board scheduled the meeting as late as possible under the law, when in fact the exact opposite is true. The Company scheduled the special meeting as soon as practical, given the SEC’s rules, in an effort to deal fairly and honestly with shareholders and move beyond this distracting and costly contest as soon as possible. Ramius’ statement misleads shareholders and hides the fact that Ramius initiated this wasteful Special Meeting process when its proposals could have been considered at the Annual Meeting 1-2 months later with significantly less cost to Orthofix shareholders.

“Orthofix believes that Ramius made these false statements with a reckless disregard for the facts, which could have easily been confirmed through public sources. This behavior stands in stark contrast to Ramius’ stated belief in good corporate governance and shareholder advocacy. We call on them to correct the record immediately. Orthofix shareholders deserve to have accurate and informative communications from all sides in this proxy contest, not falsehoods and misleading statements,” said Chairman Gero.

Significant Progress at Orthofix

By executing the strategy of the current Board of Directors, Orthofix has made significant progress in recent months.

- On February 12, the Company released its full year 2008 results and 2009 guidance, showing substantial improvement in the operating performance of the spinal implant and biologic business, including increased revenue, a higher gross profit margin and lower adjusted operating expenses.
 - On February 11, 2009, Orthofix announced the acceleration of the launch date of Trinity(R) Evolution(TM), the next generation adult stem cell-based allograft developed in collaboration with the Musculoskeletal Transplant Foundation (MTF). The limited market release is now expected to occur by May 1st of this year, two months ahead of schedule. This development followed a December 15, 2008 announcement that Orthofix and MTF had achieved a major development milestone, which was also ahead of schedule.
 - Orthofix also initiated the limited market release of two new products, the Firebird(TM) pedicle screw system and the PILLAR(TM) SA interbody device, both of which are expected to be fully launched in the first quarter of 2009.
 - In December 2008 Orthofix made a $10 million partial debt repayment, ahead of the scheduled maturity date. At December 31, 2008 our debt-to-EBITDA ratio as defined in our amended credit facility was 3.4 versus the maximum allowable ratio of 4.0. This gave us approximately $49 million of available debt capacity at December 31, 2008. When the maximum allowable debt-to-EBITDA ratio decreases to 3.5 at September 30th of this year, we expect the last 12 months' total EBITDA used in the calculation of the leverage ratio to be significantly higher than the amount used in the calculation at December 31, 2008. This is because the calculation will no longer include the increase in inventory reserve of $11.5 million recorded in the third quarter of 2008.
 - In February 2009, the Company made a second, $7 million, partial debt repayment and announced a consolidation plan that will create cost savings and synergies between the operating groups of the Company.

- On March 24, 2009, the Company announced it had made a third, $5 million, partial debt repayment ahead of maturity.

Orthofix continues to urge its shareholders to vote on the BLUE proxy card as recommended by the Board of Directors and as also recommended by PROXY Governance and Egan-Jones Proxy Services.
