Smith & Nephew - Trading Update

13 September 2005

Ahead of an analysts visit to the US later this week, Sir Christopher O'Donnell, Group Chief Executive of Smith & Nephew plc (LSE: SN, NYSE: SNN) the global medical technology business, made the following comments on trading today:

"Sales growth over the summer has been below expectations, partly influenced by Hurricane Katrina during August. In Orthopaedics sales growth of knee products was slower following new product roll-outs by competitors. In consequence, and coupled with the continuing difficulties in Louisiana and Mississippi, Smith and Nephew is reducing its full year guidance for underlying sales growth for Orthopaedics by 1% to 17%. In Wound Management a continued decline in US distributor inventories has caused us to reduce full year guidance for underlying sales growth for Wound Management by 1% to 5%."

"The benefit of translational currency has reduced from 11/2% to 1/2% of sales, for the full year, following the recent decline in the US dollar versus Smith and Nephew's reporting currency, sterling. A further consequence is that the trading margin for the full year will be slightly lower at approximately 20.6% and full year EPS growth will be 12 - 13%."

Smith & Nephew will start its close period on 30 September ahead of announcing results for the third quarter on 27 October.

A conference call for analysts will be held today at 12.00pm BST / 7.00am EST. For details contact Samantha Hardy on +44 (0) 20 7960 2257. The call will be audio webcast live at www.smith-nephew.com and a recording will be available shortly afterwards.
