Reporting Matters

1. Business Report (from April 1, 2004 to March 31, 2005)

(1) Business Overview of Hitachi Group

Business Results

The Japanese economy was solid during the first half of the year under review but leveled off in the latter half as investment in digital product sectors came full cycle.

Against this economic backdrop, consolidated revenues rose 5% from the preceding year, to JPY9,027.0 billion. Operating income increased 51%, to JPY279.0 billion, owing to a strong performance by High Functional Materials & Components and good showings by construction machinery and other business sectors in Power & Industrial Systems. Income before income taxes and minority interests came to JPY264.5 billion, up 12% from the preceding year, and net income to JPY51.4 billion, up 224%.

Measures Taken

During the year under review, the Company on October 1, 2004 moved to ensure solid growth in the automotive products business by merging TOKICO LTD. (TOKICO) and Hitachi Unisia Automotive, Ltd., group companies operating in the engine system and drive control system sectors, into the Company. In addition, the Company, together with two other group companies, Shin-Kobe Electric Machinery Co., Ltd. and Hitachi Maxell, Ltd., established Hitachi Vehicle Energy, Ltd. as a joint-venture company for developing and manufacturing rechargeable lithium-ion batteries for hybrid electric vehicles and other applications.

The Company also responded to growing demand for flat panel TVs by joining Toshiba Corporation and Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd. in establishing IPS Alpha Technology, Ltd., a joint venture company focused on manufacture and marketing of liquid crystal display (LCD) panels, and also by in April 2005 making Fujitsu Hitachi Plasma Display Limited (FHP) a subsidiary of the Company through the acquisition of some of FHP 's stock previously held by Fujitsu Limited. Automatic teller machine (ATM) and other information equipment operations were consolidated with those of Omron Corporation (Omron) under a new company, Hitachi-Omron Terminal Solutions, Corp., established between the Company and Omron on October 1, 2004.

The Hitachi Group also stepped up its effort to become a truly local company in each geographical region of its operations. In October 2004, a former British Ambassador to Japan was appointed to represent the Hitachi Group in its relationship with the European community and customers in the region. In February 2005, the Company 's executive officers in charge of Hitachi group global business in North America and China were stationed in the United States and China to serve as the chiefs of the respective regional administration companies. Through such measures, the Hitachi Group continues to strengthen its ability to move forcefully ahead with locally led business development geared to the needs and priorities of each region. During October and November 2004, the Hitachi Exhibition China 2004 was held in Beijing, Shanghai and

Edgar Filing: HITACHI LTD - Form 6-K

Guangzhou and succeeded in winning broad recognition of the Hitachi Group's advanced capabilities and overall strength.

With consideration to the revised Japanese Patent Law that went into effect in April 2005, the Company made changes to its invention reward program in order to deepen employee understanding of the program's purpose and promote still more vigorous research and development activities. The improved system is expected to add further impetus to the development of advanced technologies and help Hitachi maintain and improve its long-standing reputation as technology-oriented company.

- (4) The businesses of each segment are set out in (2) Main Products and Services of Hitachi Group.

[Information & Telecommunication Systems]

Revenues decreased 2% from the preceding year despite good results posted by outsourcing services, owing mainly to price declines experienced by servers, hard disk drives and related products. Although hard disk drives generated considerably more profit than in the preceding year, the gain was more than wiped out by lower profit levels in the software and services sector. Operating income therefore fell 3% from the preceding year, to JPY67.7 billion.

[Electronic Devices]

While liquid crystal displays turned stagnant in the second half owing to an abrupt market downturn, Hitachi High-Technologies Corporation made strong advances in semiconductor and liquid crystal product manufacturing equipment. Revenues increased 1% and operating income rose 22%, to JPY37.0 billion.

[Power & Industrial Systems]

Revenues rose 9% from the preceding year mainly because of the merger of TOKICO and the acquisition of Guangzhou Hitachi Elevator Co., Ltd., which conducts manufacture and services operations in elevators and escalators business, to make it a subsidiary. Operating income rose 117%, to JPY73.6 billion, due particularly to the strong performance of Hitachi Construction Machinery Co., Ltd.

[Digital Media & Consumer Products]

As a result of advances made by plasma TVs and LCD projectors, and the fact that white goods maintained year-earlier levels, revenues increased 4% and operating income rose 25%, to JPY8.6 billion.

[High Functional Materials & Components]

Brisk revenues in the automotive and electronic sectors buoyed results in companies in this segment. Revenues increased 16% and operating income rose 87%, to JPY87.5 billion.

[Logistics, Services & Others]

Revenues declined 1% from the preceding year. However, good showings by Hitachi Transport System, Ltd. and other companies boosted operating income to JPY9.8 billion, considerably higher than in the preceding year.

Table of Contents

[Financial Services]

Revenues fell 4% from the preceding year. Operating income rose 39%, to JPY31.0 billion, mainly because of a profit posted in connection with the change of the pension system at Hitachi Capital Corporation.

Relationship with Subsidiaries and Affiliates

During the year under review, the Company acquired part of shares of Guangzhou Hitachi Elevator Co., Ltd., which became a consolidated subsidiary of the Company accordingly. On April 1, 2004, NEOMAX Co., Ltd. (former Sumitomo Special Metals Co., Ltd.) became a consolidated subsidiary of Hitachi Metals, Ltd. On October 1, 2004, the Company transferred all shares of Hitachi Printing Solutions, Ltd., which had been a consolidated subsidiary of the Company, to Ricoh Company, Ltd.

On November 15, 2004, Elpida Memory, Inc., an equity-method affiliate of the Company, listed its shares on the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

(6) Problems Facing Hitachi Group

Management's assessment of the future business environment is that the Japanese economy can be expected to experience a slowdown in exports and investment in new plant and equipment and that difficult circumstances are likely to continue for sometime to follow.

Edgar Filing: HITACHI LTD - Form 6-K

However, the Hitachi Group will not be deterred by this harsh outlook for fiscal 2005, the final year of the current medium-term management plan, the i.e. Hitachi Plan II, and is firmly committed to improving profitability through implementation of measures for coping with business risks and profit depressing factors and still more intense and effective cost cutting efforts. In addition, the following key measures will be pursued for ensuring the medium-to-long term growth and development of the Hitachi Group.

- The Hitachi Group Headquarters established during the year under review to coordinate Group management will play a central role in ensuring that cost reduction and other concrete benefits are realized through centralization of operations common to the whole Group, as well as in building a strong business portfolio that exploits the strengths of the Hitachi Group to the utmost.
- Systems for promoting the Hitachi Group's global strategies will be upgraded with focus on the North American, European, Chinese and other Asian markets to reinforce the ability of local regions to formulate regional strategies, including strategies in response to market trends and various risks.
- Efforts will be made to further leading-edge R&D for creating future core businesses of the Hitachi Group, to reinforce fundamental technologies for improving productivity and quality and lowering costs, and to pass down hands-on skills and techniques in manufacturing quality.
- In order to ensure fair presentation of financial statements, the ongoing Hitachi Group-wide initiative to rebuild internal control systems by, for example, upgrading existing internal systems and committing work procedures to writing, will be pursued in greater depth, and activities will be undertaken to thoroughly instill a strong awareness of the importance of corporate social responsibility (CSR) throughout the Hitachi Group both in Japan and overseas. Policy and Reasons of Appropriation of Retained Earnings

The Company's dividend policy is to ensure the stable growth of dividends and to ensure the availability of sufficient internal funds for capital investment and R&D that are essential for maintaining competitiveness and improving profitability based on the Company's medium- and long-term business plans. The Company believes that the repurchase of its shares should be undertaken, when necessary, as part of its policy on distribution to shareholders to complement the dividend payout. Such action will be taken by the Company based on a consideration of market conditions, its future capital requirement and other relevant factors.

For the 136th business term, the Company decided to pay the year-end dividend of 5.5 yen per share, taking into account various factors including its financial position, profit level and payout ratio, etc. The Company considers that it has enough funds for the planned capital investment and R&D in its focusing businesses and that the equity ratio keeps targeted level, although net income on unconsolidated basis sharply declined from the preceding year.

The Company paid the interim dividend of 5.5 yen per share on December 7, 2004.
