Executive Officers and Directors

Currently, all of our directors hold office until the next annual meeting of our stockholders and until their successors have been duly elected and qualified. Our officers are elected and serve at the discretion of our board of directors. There are no family relationships among any of our directors and executive officers.

Board Committees

Our board of directors has established three standing committees: an audit committee; a compensation committee; and a nominating and corporate governance committee.

Audit Committee. The audit committee oversees, reviews and evaluates our financial statements, accounting and financial reporting processes, internal control functions and the audits of our financial statements. The audit committee is responsible for the appointment, compensation, retention and oversight of our independent registered public accounting firm. The members of our audit committee are John Bolger, John P. Stenbit and Kenneth R. Thornton. Our board of directors has determined that (i) Mr. Bolger is an audit committee financial expert, as defined by the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and (ii) Mr. Bolger is independent as independence is defined in the Nasdaq Stock Market qualification standards.

Compensation Committee. The compensation committee reviews and makes recommendations to our board of directors concerning the compensation and benefits of our executive officers and directors, administers our stock option and employee benefits plans, and reviews general policy relating to compensation and benefits. The members of our compensation committee are John Bolger, John P. Stenbit and Kenneth R. Thornton.

Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee. The nominating and corporate governance committee identifies prospective board candidates, recommends nominees for election to our board of directors, develops and recommends board member selection criteria, considers committee member qualification, recommends corporate governance principles to our board of directors, and provides oversight in the evaluation of our board of directors and each committee. The members of our nominating and corporate governance committee are John Bolger, John P. Stenbit and Kenneth R. Thornton.

Section 16(a) Beneficial Ownership Reporting Compliance

Section 16(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 requires our executive officers, directors and persons who beneficially own more than 10% of our common stock to file initial reports of ownership and reports of changes in ownership with the SEC. Such persons are required by SEC regulations to furnish us with copies of all Section 16(a) forms filed by such person.

Based solely on our review of such forms furnished to us and written representations from such reporting persons, we believe that all filing requirements applicable to our executive officers, directors and more than 10% stockholders were met in a timely manner.

Code of Ethics

The Board of Directors has adopted a Code of Ethics that applies to all of our employees, officers and directors. The Code of Ethics is available at the Company's website at www.cogentsystems.com/investors/.

Item 11. Executive Compensation

COMPENSATION DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Overview

This compensation discussion and analysis explains the material elements of the compensation awarded to, earned by, or paid to each of our executive officers who served as our named executive officers during the last completed fiscal year.

Compensation Program Objectives and Philosophy

The compensation committee of our board of directors currently oversees the design and administration of our executive compensation program. Our compensation committee's primary objectives in structuring and administering our executive officer compensation program are to:

1. attract, motivate and retain talented and dedicated executive officers;
2. tie annual and long-term cash and stock incentives to achievement of measurable corporate and individual performance objectives; and
3. reinforce business strategies and objectives for enhanced stockholder value.

To achieve these goals, our compensation committee maintains compensation plans that tie a portion of executives' overall compensation to key strategic goals such as financial and operational performance, as measured by metrics such as revenue and operating income. Our compensation committee evaluates individual executive performance with a goal of setting compensation at levels the committee believes are comparable with those of executives at other companies of similar size and stage of growth, while taking into account our relative performance and our own strategic goals.

The principal elements of our executive compensation program are base salary, annual cash bonus awards, long-term equity incentives in the form of stock options, other benefits and perquisites, post-termination severance and acceleration of stock option vesting for certain named executive officers upon termination and/or a change in control. Our other benefits and perquisites consist of life and health insurance benefits and a qualified 401(k) savings plan.

We view these components of compensation as related but distinct. Although our compensation committee does review total compensation, we do not believe that significant compensation derived from one component of compensation should negate or offset compensation from other components. We determine the appropriate level for each compensation component based in part, but not exclusively, on competitive benchmarking consistent with our recruiting and retention goals, our view of internal equity and consistency, and other considerations we deem relevant, such as rewarding extraordinary performance.

Determination of Compensation Awards

Our compensation committee currently performs at least annually a strategic review of our executive officers' compensation to determine whether they provide adequate incentives and motivation to our executive officers and whether they adequately compensate our executive officers relative to comparable officers in other similarly situated companies. Our compensation committee's most recent review occurred in February 2007 when our compensation committee retained a compensation consulting firm to assist it in evaluating our compensation practices.

Typically, our compensation committee meetings have included, for all or a portion of each meeting, the committee members, our chief executive officer and our chief financial officer. For compensation decisions relating to executive officers other than our chief executive officer, our compensation committee typically considers recommendations from our chief executive officer.

When determining compensation for our chief executive officer, our compensation committee also takes into account the distinct nature of our ownership, which has existed since prior to our initial public offering in 2004 (the IPO) and continues today. Specifically, Mr. Hsieh, our chief executive officer, was our sole stockholder prior to our IPO, continues to hold a majority of our common stock and has received significant liquidity since our IPO.

It is our policy generally to qualify compensation paid to executive officers for deductibility under Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code. Section 162(m) generally prohibits us from deducting the compensation of officers that exceeds $1,000,000 unless that compensation is based on the achievement of objective performance goals. We believe our 2004 Equity Incentive Plan is structured to qualify stock options, restricted share and stock unit awards under such plan as performance-based compensation and to maximize the tax deductibility of such awards. However, we reserve the discretion to pay compensation to our officers that may not be deductible.

Benchmarking of Compensation.

The compensation committee believes it is important when making its compensation-related decisions to be informed as to current practices of similarly situated companies. As a result, the compensation committee reviews third-party surveys and other information collected from public sources for executive officers at peer companies. The compensation committee also receives the recommendation of our chief executive officer on compensation for other executive officers. Historically, the compensation committee has not engaged third party consultants to advise the compensation committee on compensation matters. However, in early 2007, the compensation committee commissioned a study conducted by an outside consulting firm that specializes in executive compensation. This study reviewed the cash and equity compensation practices of two groups of companies with annual revenues ranging from $100 million to $200 million: (i) a group of 32 companies in the industries in which we compete and (ii) a group of 65 technology companies. While benchmarking may not always be appropriate as a stand-alone tool for setting compensation due to the aspects of our business and objectives that may be unique to us, we generally believe that gathering this information is an important part of our compensation-related decision-making process.

Base Compensation

We provide our named executive officers and other executives with base salaries that we believe enable us to hire and retain individuals in a competitive environment and to reward individual performance and contribution to our overall business goals, while taking into account the unique circumstances of our company. We review base salaries for our named executive officers annually and increases are based on our performance and individual performance. We also take into account the base compensation that is payable by companies that we believe to be our competitors and by other public companies with which we believe we generally compete for executives. The base salary of our chief executive officer, Mr. Hsieh, is reviewed and recommended by our compensation committee, whose members are all of our independent directors.

For 2006, our compensation committee determined that it was appropriate to increase Mr. Hsieh's annual base salary from $257,500 to $265,226 in light of his experience and contributions to our growth. Additionally, our compensation committee recommended, and our board approved, base salary increases for Messrs. Kim and Hollowich. Mr. Kim's annual base salary in 2005 was set at $214,300 and was increased to $222,000 for 2006. Mr. Hollowich's annual base salary in 2005 was set at $180,536 and was increased to $190,534 for 2006. Mr. Jasinski's annual base salary in 2005 was set at $183,600 and was increased to $189,134 for 2006. For 2006, the base salaries accounted for 100% of total compensation for our chief executive officer and approximately 80% on average for our other named executive officers.

In February 2007, the compensation committee increased Mr. Hsieh's base annual salary by 3% to $273,000, Mr. Hollowich's base annual salary by 3% to $197,000 and Mr. Jasinski's base annual salary by 4% to $197,000. In awarding these increases, the committee considered our performance in 2006, the base salaries paid by our peer companies to similarly situated executives and Mr. Hsieh's position as the holder of a majority of our outstanding common stock. With respect to Mr. Kim, the compensation committee increased his salary by 13%, to $250,000, so that it would be at or near the 50th percentile of salaries for chief financial officers at our peer companies (based, in part, on the salary information provided by our outside compensation consultants in early 2007). The compensation committee believes that this increase in Mr. Kim's salary was necessary to continue to retain his services in a competitive market.

Annual Cash Bonus Awards

In early 2006, our compensation committee met and determined that as part of our compensation program and in order to maintain appropriate financial incentives, our executive officers should be eligible for cash bonus compensation based upon the achievement of certain performance objectives during the fiscal year. At each of its meetings in 2006 the compensation committee discussed the appropriate performance objectives to be considered in evaluating potential cash bonus awards for our executive officers. Financial performance objectives were emphasized for our chief executive officer, while operating objectives were emphasized for our other executive officers. In December 2006, consistent with our historical practices, the compensation committee received the recommendation of our chief executive officer regarding cash bonuses for our executive officers for our 2006 fiscal year. Our compensation committee adopted the recommendation of our chief executive officer and paid cash bonuses of $50,000 to each of Messrs. Kim, Hollowich and Jasinski. We did not pay a cash bonus to Mr. Hsieh for the 2006 fiscal year. For our executive officers (other than our chief executive officer) in 2006, their cash bonus, on average, accounted for approximately 25% of their respective total compensation.

In February 2007, our compensation committee evaluated our cash bonus compensation practices in light of the objectives of our compensation program. Based on this evaluation, our compensation committee determined that it was appropriate for our executive officers to be eligible for cash compensation pursuant to an annual cash bonus plan. Under the terms of the bonus plan, the compensation committee establishes performance objectives and annual target bonus amounts for each executive officer. In determining the appropriate level of target bonus for each officer, the compensation committee considers information provided through independent, third-party surveys and other information collected from public sources for similar positions at peer companies.

In the first quarter of 2007, the compensation committee worked with senior management to establish the annual target bonus amounts and performance objectives under the bonus plan. For fiscal 2007, each executive officer's target bonus under the bonus plan will be a specified percentage of the executive officer's base salary, and will range from 2% to 70% of an individual's base salary.

The performance objectives for fiscal year 2007, described below, were approved in February 2007. For each performance objective there is a formula that establishes a specific cash payout for each executive officer based on a percentage of the individual's base salary. For the 2007 fiscal year, the formula for payments under the bonus plan will be based on the achievement of the following objectives: (1) meeting certain financial targets, (2) winning key contracts and (3) expanding our customer base. With respect to these objectives, we have to achieve a specified minimum for the year in order for the objective to be considered in the determination of bonuses. We believe that the performance objectives are moderately difficult to achieve and that performance at a high level while devoting full time and attention to their responsibilities will be required for our executive officers to earn their respective cash bonuses.

Equity Compensation

We believe that equity ownership by our executive officers provides important incentives to build stockholder value and align the interests of executive officers with those of our stockholders. The compensation committee develops its equity award determinations based on its judgments as to whether the complete compensation packages provided to our executives, including prior equity awards, are sufficient to retain, motivate and adequately award the executives. This judgment is based in part on information provided by reviewing the equity compensation practices of companies that we believe to be our competitors and by other public companies with which we believe we generally compete for executives.

We have not granted any equity awards to our named executive officers since our IPO. Prior to the IPO, our named executive officers (excluding our chief executive officer) were granted substantial equity awards. In light of the appreciation in value and increase in liquidity resulting from our IPO, we believe that the pre-IPO grants, which continue to vest through 2008, have continued to sufficiently incentivize our executives (excluding our chief executive officer), and thus the objectives of our equity compensation program have been met without granting additional equity awards to our named executive officers. As previously discussed, our chief executive officer was our sole stockholder prior to our IPO and continues to control a majority of our outstanding capital stock. In light of these circumstances, our compensation committee has taken the position that it was not necessary to grant equity awards to Mr. Hsieh in order to fulfill the objectives of our executive compensation program.

We grant equity compensation to our executive officers and other employees under our 2004 Equity Incentive Plan, which we refer to as the 2004 Plan. Our stock options have a 10-year contractual term. In general, the option grants are also subject to post-termination and change in control provisions. Beginning on January 1, 2006, we began accounting for stock-based payments in accordance with the requirements of FASB Statement 123R.

For 2007, our compensation committee has not determined what, if any, equity incentives it will award to our named executive officers. However, our compensation committee continues to believe that it is not necessary to grant Mr. Hsieh equity awards in order to fulfill the objectives of our executive compensation program.

Executive Benefits and Perquisites

We provide the opportunity for our named executive officers and other executives to receive certain perquisites and general health and welfare benefits. We also offer participation in our defined contribution 401(k) plan. After one year of service we match employee contributions under our 401(k) plan, up to an amount equal to 3% of an individual's annual base salary. We provide these benefits to create additional incentives for our executives and to remain competitive in the general marketplace for executive talent.

Change in Control and Severance Benefits

Pursuant to the employment agreement entered in connection with his hiring in January 2004, we provide the opportunity for our chief financial officer to receive additional compensation and benefits in the event of severance or change in control. Our severance and change in control provisions for our chief financial officer are summarized below in Employment Agreements and Potential Payments Upon Termination or Change in Control. Our analysis indicates that our severance and change in control provisions are consistent with the provisions and benefit levels of other companies disclosing such provisions as reported in public SEC filings. We believe our arrangements with our chief financial officer are reasonable.

The following table shows information concerning the annual compensation for services provided to us by our Chief Executive Officer, our Chief Financial Officer and our two other executive officers during 2006.

Mr. Hsieh is not considered independent because he is currently employed by the Company. Cogent is a controlled company under the Nasdaq Stock Market qualitative listing standards, and therefore it is entitled to exemptions from certain of the Nasdaq Stock Market qualitative listing standards. These requirements are generally intended to increase the likelihood that a Board of Directors will make decisions in the best interests of stockholders. Specifically, Cogent is not required to have a majority of its directors be independent or to have compensation, nominating and corporate governance committees comprised solely of independent directors.
