Item 8.01 Other Events

On April 3, 2006, American Dealerships Corporation (American Dealerships) and Jules Meyers (Meyers) (collectively, the Plaintiffs) filed suit against Coach Industries Group, Inc. (the Company) and Francis O Donnell (O Donnell) and Susan Weisman (Weisman). Also named as a nominal defendant was American Springfield LLC (American Springfield), a limited liability company having as its members American Dealerships and Springfield Coach Builders, Inc., which was a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company at that time.

On April 13, 2007, the action came to trial in Department 15 of the Superior Court of the State of California, County of Los Angeles, Unlimited Jurisdiction, Central District (the Court). The Company was unable to participate at trial because it has lacked the adequate financial resources to retain counsel. Weisman appeared in person and O Donnell appeared via court call. The Court severed O Donnell and Weisman from this trial and rescheduled their trial for July 30, 2007. Neither O Donnell nor Weisman were parties to this judgment.

As the Company did not appear, the Court rendered judgment in favor of Meyers with respect to his allegations that the Company breached both the Operating Agreement of American Springfield and the Employment Agreement entered into between the Company and Meyers, and also committed frauds of intentional misrepresentation, false promise and concealment, and awarded Meyers $1,993,500 in damages. Additionally, the Court rendered a judgment in favor of American Dealership with respect to its allegation that the Company breached both the Independent Consulting Agreement and Dealer Agreement entered into between the Company and American Dealerships, and further committed the frauds of intentional misrepresentation, false promise and concealment, and awarded American Dealerships $2,548,572 in damages.

If the Plaintiffs seek to enforce this action against the Company, the Company may be required to seek protection under applicable bankruptcy laws.
