Results of Operations

The Company's sole source of income is from interest on notes receivables from affiliated entities. As the principal on these notes is not being paid down, the income from these notes are consistent and comparable to prior periods. The principal balance on these notes receivable is $2,407,540.

Comparison of the three months ended June 30, 2008 to the three months ended June 30, 2007.

Interest income remained consistent for the three months ended June 30, 2008 and 2007. This is due to using a fixed interest rate on the notes receivables.

General and administrative expense decreased by approximately $700 for the three months ended June 30, 2008 as compared to the same period ended 2007 due to fewer filing fees incurred in the current period.

Legal and professional fees decreased by approximately $4,800 for the three months ended June 30, 2008 as compared to the same period ended 2007. In the prior period, an additional $3,200 was expended on non-recurring legal and other fees, and an additional $1,200 was incurred on filing fees and an additional $400 on audit and tax related fees.

Interest expense was approximately $25,000 for the three month period ended June 30, 2008. In January of 2008, the parties to the affiliated payables balances demanded that interest at the rate of prime plus 1 percent be paid on the outstanding amounts. No interest expense had been paid or recorded prior to this event.

Income tax expense decreased by approximately $12,000 for the three month period ended June 30, 2008 as compared to the same period ended 2007. The decrease is due to the interest expense that is now being incurred on our outstanding affiliate payables. In addition, in an attempt to more closely approximate the actual expense as reported to the internal revenue service, we are using the graduated tax rate as published by the IRS (which is currently 15 percent) to estimate our liability.

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2008 to the six months ended June 30, 2007.

Interest income remained consistent for the six months ended June 30, 2008 and 2007. This is due to using a fixed interest rate on the notes receivables.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

General

Our principal liquidity needs for the next twelve months are funding of normal recurring expenses; including interest expense, legal and accounting fees, and federal income tax payments. Our principal source of cash is proceeds from interest income on our notes receivables.

Table of Contents

As of June 30, 2008 and December 31, 2007 we had total assets of approximately $2,449,000 and $2,480,000, respectively. Of that amount approximately $42,000 and $73,000 was held in cash as of June 30, 2008 and December 31, 2007, respectively. We anticipate that the cash provided by our operating activities will be sufficient to meet our cash needs.

Our significant assets consist of two notes receivable of approximately $1,823,000 and $585,000 from affiliated parties totaling approximately $2,408,000.

Cash flow Summary

The following summary discussion of our cash flows is based on the statements of cash flows as presented in Item 1 and is not meant to be an all inclusive discussion of the changes in our cash flow.

The net adjustment to our cash for our federal income tax expense is due to paying cash for federal income taxes of approximately $55,000 net of our accrued income tax expense of approximately $11,000.

The net adjustment to our accounts payable affiliated is due to paying approximately $26,000 cash to reduce our accounts payable to affiliates.

During the current period, approximately $55,000 cash was paid for federal income taxes and approximately $55,000 cash was paid in interest expense.
