3. Reasons

Following the year-on-year decrease in crude oil prices in the international market, the costs of the Group's raw materials which are primarily crude oil-related dropped significantly. Meanwhile, the State carried out a fuel tax reform, implemented an improved pricing mechanism for refined oil products and promulgated the Administrative Measures for Crude Oil Prices (Trial) (). In relation to the market price range of crude oil during January to May, the new measures basically brought the inverted prices of refined oil products with those of crude oil to an end, thereby improved the profitability of the oil refining operation. In relation to the petrochemical operation, after the panic sell-off and sharp decrease in prices of products triggered by the financial crisis, it has bottomed out and re-stabilized, with prices of a majority of products having risen to a certain extent as demands in the downstream industry have gradually stabilized. Also, the load of the relevant plants of the Company has increased and the profitability has therefore been enhanced.

4. Explanation on other situations

The impact of the financial crisis continues to persist and spread and there has been no marked sign of a revival of the global economy yet. Industry competition has further intensified and there is an upward trend of crude oil prices.

Investors are advised to pay attention to the risks involved in the investment in the Company's securities.
