Forward Looking Statements

These materials, the prospectus supplement, the accompanying base prospectus and the documents incorporated by reference contain forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, which we refer to as the Securities Act and Section 21E of the Exchange Act, with respect to the financial condition, liquidity, results of operations, future performance and business of B. These forward-looking statements are intended to be covered by the safe harbor for forward-looking statements provided by the Private Securities I. Forward-looking statements are those that are not historical facts. These forward-looking statements include statements with respect to our belie estimates and intentions that are subject to significant risks and uncertainties and are subject to change based on various factors. We use words such as "may," "could," "should," "would," "believe," "anticipate," "estimate," "expect," "intend," "plan" and similar expressions.

While we believe our plans, objectives, goals, expectations, anticipations, estimates and intentions as reflected in these forward-looking statements, we do not have any assurance that any of them will be achieved. You should understand that various factors, in addition to those discussed elsewhere in this prospectus supplement and the accompanying base prospectus, may cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed in these forward-looking statements, including:

- adverse changes in our loan portfolios and the resulting credit risk-related losses and expenses;
- the effects of, and changes in, trade, monetary and fiscal policies, including interest rate policies of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System;
- general economic or business conditions, either nationally, regionally or in the communities in which we do business, may be different than those anticipated;
- other things, a deterioration in credit quality and loan performance or a reduced demand for credit;
- continued levels of loan quality and volume origination;
- the adequacy of loan loss reserves;
- the impact of changes in financial services laws and regulations (including laws concerning taxes, banking, securities and insurance);
- the willingness of customers to substitute competitors' products and services for our products and services and vice versa, based on changing preferences;
- unanticipated regulatory or judicial proceedings and liabilities and other costs;
- interest rate, market and monetary fluctuations;
- the timely development of competitive new products and services by us and the acceptance of such products and services by our customers;
- changes in consumer spending and saving habits relative to the financial services we provide;
- the loss of certain key officers;
- continued relationships with major customers;
- our ability to continue to grow our business internally and through acquisition and successful integration of new or acquired entities;
- compliance with laws and regulatory requirements of federal, state and local agencies;
- the ability to hedge certain risks economically;
- effect of terrorist attacks and threats of actual war;
- deposit flows;
- changes in accounting principles, policies and guidelines;
- rapidly changing technology;
- other economic, competitive, governmental, regulatory and technological factors affecting the Company's operations, pricing and financial performance.

Because such forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties, actual results may differ materially from those anticipated. The foregoing list of important factors is not exclusive and you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these factors or any of them. All dates are as of the date of this document or, in the case of documents incorporated by reference, the dates of those documents. We do not intend to update these forward-looking statements, whether written or oral, that may be made from time to time by or on behalf of us except as required by applicable law.
