OMX: Choppy Quarter and Soft Guidance; Lower Estimates and Price Target

We see minimal consequences for the stock, which is trading on expectations based on the pending merger, incorporating synergy targets put forth by management.

Matt Fassler, Goldman Sachs

May 8, 2013

On a stand-alone basis, OMX management has taken a number of steps to enhance shareholder value and improve the business (despite challenging industry and economic conditions) .

Brad Thomas, KeyBanc Capital Markets

OfficeMax's sluggish sales disappoint

Major players in the office supply industry have been battered by a soft economy as well as tough competition from the likes of Amazon and Wal-Mart.

New Format Store Launch

OfficeMax unveils small-store prototype

OfficeMax Inc.

has unveiled its first smaller-format store in Milwaukee, a major step in its efforts to remain relevant in the digital age by transforming from a product-based company into a service- and technology-based one.

OfficeMax: beyond post-its and pens to full-service business center

Over several months, OfficeMax interviewed more than 3,000 small businesses about their needs and have trained employees to address them and offer solutions.

OfficeMax tries new format targeting small businesses in Milwaukee

Instead of a place just to buy printer ink, paper and other office supplies and equipment, it now is a location where an entrepreneur also can get help setting up a website, establishing off-site data backup and enlisting a personal small-business adviser

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain statements made in this document and other written or oral statements made by or on behalf of OfficeMax and Office Depot constitute "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the federal securities laws, including statements regarding both companies' future performance, as well as management's expectations, beliefs, intentions, plans, estimates or projections relating to the future. OfficeMax and Office Depot cannot guarantee that the macroeconomy will perform within the assumptions underlying their respective projected outlook; that their respective initiatives will be successfully executed and produce the results underlying their respective expectations, due to the uncertainties inherent in new initiatives, including customer acceptance, unexpected expenses or challenges, or slower-than-expected results from initiatives; or that their respective actual results will be consistent with the forward-looking statements and you should not place undue reliance on them. In addition, forward-looking statements could be affected by the following additional factors, among others, related to the business combination: the occurrence of any event, condition or other circumstances that could give rise to the termination of the merger agreement or the failure to satisfy closing conditions; the inability to obtain regulatory approvals or third-party approvals for the transaction and the timing and conditions for such approvals.

ability to obtain approval of the merger by the stockholders of OfficeMax and Office Depot; the risk that the synergies from the transaction may not be realized, may take longer to realize than expected, or may cost more to achieve than expected; disruption from the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers; the ability to successfully integrate the businesses; unexpected costs or unexpected liabilities that may arise from the transaction, whether or consummated; the inability to retain key personnel; future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect OfficeMax, Office Depot; and business plans of the customers and suppliers of OfficeMax and Office Depot. The forward-looking statements made herein are based on current expectations and speak only as of the date they are made. OfficeMax and Office Depot under no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of future events, new information otherwise. Important factors regarding OfficeMax and Office Depot that may cause results to differ from expectations are included in the companies' respective Annual Reports on Form 10-K for the year ended December 29, 2012, under 1A "Risk Factors", and the companies' other filings with the SEC.
