Consolidated Unit Sales is the total unit sales of completed products corresponding to consolidated net sales to external customers, which consists of unit sales of completed products of Honda and its consolidated subsidiaries. 4. Systems for ensuring that the execution of duties by directors is being conducted efficiently

The Company has established a system for operating its organizational units that reflects its fundamental corporate philosophy. For example, separate headquarters have been set up for each region, business and function, and an operating officer has been assigned to each headquarters and main division. In addition, we have implemented a system that enables prompt and appropriate decision making by having the Executive Council and Regional Operating Boards deliberate on important management issues.

To conduct management efficiently and effectively, business plans are prepared on an annual basis and for the medium term, and measures are taken to share these plans.

5. Systems for ensuring that the corporate group, comprised of the Company and its subsidiaries, conducts business activities appropriately

The Company and its subsidiaries share the Honda Conduct Guidelines and basic policies regarding corporate governance. In addition, each subsidiary works to promote activities that are in compliance with the laws of countries in which they operate and practices observed in their respective industries as they endeavor to enhance corporate governance. The Company examines the state of internal control in each subsidiary, and confirms how the Internal Control Systems are established and operated, through enlightenment efforts with subsidiary directors and liaising with the compliance officer of each subsidiary. As for the business execution of the subsidiary, the Company helps with the establishment of account settlement rules. When it comes to important management issues, the Company requests the subsidiary to obtain prior approval from the Company or to report to the Company according to its internal rules. The business control division of the Company regularly receives reports on the subsidiary's business plans to confirm the appropriateness of the operation. The Business Ethics Office of the Company works with the proposal line of the subsidiary in an effort to support an appropriate and swift response to a risk or problem. The Audit Office, an independent unit supervising operations and directly reporting to the president and CEO, effectively supervises the state of work in progress at each division and subsidiary and works with the internal supervision division of subsidiaries, aiming at the completion of the internal supervision system in the Honda Group.

In the case of a company accounted for by the equity method, the Company works to improve corporate governance throughout the Group by seeking the understanding and cooperation of such companies with Honda's basic corporate governance policies.

6. Provision of employees when assistance is requested by corporate auditors and independence of such employees from directors The Corporate Auditors' Office has been established as a supportive staff organization directly under the Board of Corporate Auditors to provide support to corporate auditors.

7. Systems for ensuring directors and employees report to corporate auditors and other systems related to the reporting to corporate auditors
In addition to regularly reporting the state of operations at the Company and its subsidiaries and the state of implementation and operation of internal control systems, including those related to compliance and risk management, any information that may have a significant impact on the Company's operations is also reported to the corporate auditors.

8. Other systems for ensuring the effectiveness of audits by corporate auditors
Corporate auditors work closely with the Audit Office, which serves as the Company's internal audit department, to conduct business audits of the Company and its subsidiaries. Additionally, corporate auditors attend the Executive Council and other important meetings.

7. POLICY REGARDING DECISIONS FOR DISTRIBUTION OF DIVIDENDS, ETC.

The Company strives to carry out its operations worldwide from a global perspective and to increase its corporate value. With respect to the redistribution of profits to our shareholders, which we consider to be one of the most important management issues, the Company's basic policy for dividends is to make distributions after taking into account its long-term consolidated earnings performance.

The Company will also acquire its own shares at the optimal timing with the goal of improving efficiency of the Company's capital structure and implementing a flexible capital policy. The present goal is to maintain a shareholders' return ratio (i.e., the ratio of the total of the dividend payment and the repurchase of the Company's own shares to consolidated net income attributable to Honda Motor Co., Ltd.) of approximately 30%. Retained earnings will be allocated toward financing R&D activities that are essential for the future growth of the Company and capital expenditures and investment programs that will expand its operations for the purpose of improving business results and strengthening the Company's financial condition.

The Company plans to distribute year-end cash dividends of ¥19 per share for the year ended March 31, 2013. As a result, total cash dividends for the year ended March 31, 2013, together with the first quarter cash dividends of ¥19, the second quarter cash dividends of ¥19 and the third quarter cash dividends of ¥19, are planned to be ¥76 per share, an increase of ¥16 per share from the annual dividends paid for the year ended March 31, 2012.

4. The Company prepares its consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America in accordance with Article 120-2 (1) of the Companies Act. The Company omits some disclosure items and notes in accordance with the second sentence of Article 120-2 (1) of the Companies Act.

5. Inventories are stated at the lower of cost, determined principally by the first-in, first-out method, or market.

6. Honda classifies its debt and equity securities in the following categories: available-for-sale, trading or held-to-maturity. Debt securities that are classified as held-to-maturity securities are reported at amortized cost. Debt and equity securities classified as trading securities are reported at fair value, with unrealized gains and losses included in earnings. Other marketable debt and equity securities are classified as available-for-sale securities and are reported at fair value, with unrealized gains or losses, net of deferred taxes, included in accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) in the stockholders' equity section of the consolidated balance sheets.

7. Goodwill, all of which is allocated to Honda's reporting units, is not amortized but instead is tested for impairment at least annually.
8. Depreciation of property, plant and equipment is calculated principally by the straight-line method based on estimated useful lives and salvage values of the respective assets.
Previously, Honda used principally the declining-balance method for calculating the depreciation of property, plant and equipment, excluding property on operating leases. In recent years, because sales of global strategic product models are increasing, Honda has been enhancing its production systems and the versatility of production equipment to have better flexibility to meet changes in global customer demand. Further, Honda has resumed more normalized capital expenditures which Honda had previously held down due to financial crisis beginning in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2009. Effective April 1, 2012, Honda changed to the straight-line method of depreciation because management believes it better reflects the future economic benefit from the usage of property, plant and equipment under this more flexible and versatile production arrangement. The effect of the change in depreciation method is recognized prospectively as a change in accounting estimate in accordance with the FASB Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 250 Accounting Changes and Error Corrections .

As a result of the change in depreciation method, depreciation expense for the year ended March 31, 2013 decreased by approximately ¥56,300 million. Net income attributable to Honda Motor Co., Ltd. and Basic net income attributable to Honda Motor Co., Ltd. per common share for the year ended March 31, 2013 increased by approximately ¥35,746 million and ¥19.83.
9. Honda applies hedge accounting for certain foreign currency forward contracts related to forecasted foreign currency transactions between the Company and its subsidiaries.
10. The allowance for credit losses on finance subsidiaries' receivables is maintained at an amount management deems adequate to cover estimated losses on finance receivables. The allowance is based on management's evaluation of many factors, including current economic trends, industry experience, inherent risks in the portfolio and the borrower's ability to pay.
11. The allowance for losses on lease residual values is maintained at an amount management deems adequate to cover estimated losses on the uninsured portion of the vehicles' lease residual values. The allowance is also based on management's evaluation of many factors, including current economic conditions, industry experience and the finance subsidiaries' historical experience with residual value losses.
12. Provisions for retirement benefits are provided based on the fair value of both projected benefit obligations and plan assets at the end of the fiscal year to cover for employees' retirement benefits. The Company recognizes its overfunded or underfunded status for the defined benefit postretirement plan as an asset or liability in its consolidated balance sheets and recognizes changes in the funded status in accumulated comprehensive income (loss), net of taxes. Prior service cost (benefit) is amortized by using the straight-line method and the estimated average remaining service years of employees. Actuarial loss is amortized if unrecognized net gain or loss exceeds ten percent of the greater of the projected benefit obligation or the market-related value of plan assets by using the straight-line method and the estimated average remaining service years of employees.

14. Honda's common stock-to-ADS exchange ratio is one share of common stock to one ADS.

Changes in Accounting PolicyAdoption of New Accounting Pronouncements

In June 2011, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued Accounting Standards Update (ASU) 2011-05 Presentation of Comprehensive Income, which amends the FASB Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 220 Comprehensive Income. This amendment requires reporting entities to report other comprehensive income as components of comprehensive income either in a single continuous statement of comprehensive income or in two separate but consecutive statements and is effective retrospectively.

In December 2011, the FASB issued ASU 2011-12 Deferral of the Effective Date for Amendments to the Presentation of Reclassifications of Items Out of Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income in Accounting Standards Update No. 2011-05, which defers the effective date of pending amendments to current accounting guidance prescribed in ASU 2011-05.

Honda adopted ASU 2011-05 as amended by ASU 2011-12, effective April 1, 2012, and discloses consolidated statements of comprehensive income as two separate but consecutive statements.

Note on Financial Instruments:Current Status of Financial Instruments

1. Policy Regarding Financial Instruments

The policy of Honda is to support its business activities by maintaining sufficient capital resources, a sufficient level of liquidity and a sound balance sheet. In its cash management activities, the Company invests principally in highly safe, short-term financial instruments. Honda meets its operating capital requirements primarily through cash generated by operations, bank loans and the issuance of commercial paper. In addition, the Company's finance subsidiaries fund those financial programs for customers and dealers primarily from medium-term notes, bank loans, securitization of finance receivables, commercial paper, corporate bonds and intercompany loans.

2. Risk Associated with Financial Instruments and Related Risk Management System

The Company reduces the credit risk arising from trade accounts and notes receivables and finance subsidiaries' receivables by requiring compliance with its internal credit management regulations. To minimize the foreign currency fluctuation risk of the foreign currency denominated receivables, the Company enters into foreign currency forward exchange contracts and foreign currency purchased option contracts. Regarding the lease receivables held by the Company's finance subsidiaries, losses may be incurred when proceeds from the sale of the returned vehicles are less than the contractual residual value. The Company's finance subsidiaries periodically review the estimated residual value of the leased vehicles to monitor the residual value risk.

Available-for-sale securities mainly consist of equity securities. Held-to-maturity securities mainly consist of government and agency debt securities. In order to manage the price fluctuation risk, the Company periodically estimates the fair value of these securities.

To manage the liquidity risk associated with short-term and long-term debt, the Company diversifies its sources of funds. To reduce the interest rate fluctuation risk, the Company enters into interest rate swap contracts. To minimize the foreign currency fluctuation risk of the foreign currency denominated payables, the Company enters into currency swap contracts.

The Company enters into derivative contracts within the actual demand of its business activities in accordance with the risk management policy. The derivative instruments contain an element of risk in the event the counterparties are unable to meet the terms of the agreement. However, Honda minimizes the risk exposure by limiting the counterparties to major international banks and financial institutions meeting established credit guidelines.

The Company applies hedge accounting for certain foreign currency forward exchange contracts related to forecasted foreign currency transactions between the Company and its subsidiaries.

Table of ContentsFair Value of Financial Instruments

The carrying amount, estimated fair value and difference of financial instruments at March 31, 2013 are as follows: Yen (millions)

	Carrying Amount	Estimate Fair Value	Difference
Finance subsidiaries receivables	4,278,460	4,326,333	47,873
Available-for-sale securities	128,848	128,848
Held-to-maturity securities	16,511	16,556	45
Short-term and long-term debt	(4,894,188)	(4,966,318)	(72,130)
Derivative instruments	54,883	54,883

Note: The book value of the previously mentioned finance subsidiaries receivables excludes direct finance leases (net) from the amount of finance subsidiaries receivables appearing on the balance sheets. The amount of direct finance leases (net) at the end of the fiscal year under review was ¥425,870 million. Also, the previously mentioned finance subsidiaries receivables include the amount of finance subsidiaries receivables, which is presented in the balance sheet items trade accounts and notes receivable and other assets. The amount of such finance subsidiaries receivables at the end of the fiscal year under review was ¥673,193 million.

The methodologies and assumptions used to estimate the fair values of financial instruments are as follows:

1. Cash and cash equivalents, trade receivables and trade payables

The carrying amounts approximate fair values because of the short maturity of these instruments.

2. Finance subsidiaries receivables

The fair values of retail receivables and commercial loans are estimated by discounting future cash flows using the current rates for these instruments of similar remaining maturities. Given the short maturities of wholesale flooring receivables, the carrying amount of those receivables approximates fair value.

3. Available-for-sale securities

The fair value of marketable equity securities is estimated by using quoted market prices. To estimate fair value of auction rate securities, Honda uses third-party developed valuation model which obtains a wide array of market observable inputs, as well as unobservable inputs, including probability of passing or failing auction at each auction.

4. Held-to-maturity securities

The fair value of Government bonds is estimated by using quoted market prices. The fair value of U.S. government agency debt securities is estimated based on proprietary pricing models provided by specialists and/or market makers and the models obtain a wide array of market observable inputs such as credit ratings and discount rates.

5. Debt

The fair values of bonds are estimated by using quoted market prices. The fair values of short-term loans and long-term loans are estimated by discounting future cash flows using interest rates currently available for loans of similar terms and remaining maturities.

6. Derivative instruments

The Company holds foreign currency and interest rate derivative instruments. The fair values of foreign currency forward exchange contracts and foreign currency option contracts are estimated using market observable inputs such as spot exchange rates, discount rates and implied volatility. The fair values of currency swap agreements and interest rate swap agreements are estimated by discounting future cash flows using market observable inputs such as LIBOR rates, swap rates, and foreign exchange rates. The credit risk of Honda and its counterparties are considered on the valuation of foreign exchange and interest rate instruments.

Non-marketable securities are excluded from the above table as it is not possible to estimate the future cash flow and it is deemed to be extremely difficult to measure the fair value. The carrying amount of non-marketable securities is ¥11,749 million at March 31, 2013.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2013, Honda recognized an impairment loss of ¥12,757 million, net of tax, on certain investments in affiliates which have quoted market values because of an other-than-temporary decline in fair value below their carrying values. The fair values of the investments were based on quoted market price. The impairment loss is included in equity in income of affiliates in the accompanying consolidated statement of income.

2. Impact on the Company's consolidated financial position or results of operations of the floods in Thailand

In October 2011, Thailand suffered from severe floods that caused damage to inventories and machinery and equipment of certain consolidated subsidiaries and affiliates of the Company. Accordingly, production activities in plant facilities at Honda and its affiliates had been temporarily affected by the floods for the year ended March 31, 2012.

Honda recognized ¥23,420 million in costs and expenses, of which ¥10,680 million is included in cost of sales and ¥12,740 million is included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statement of income for the year ended March 31, 2012. Honda recognizes insurance recoveries in excess of the incurred losses when settlements with insurance companies are reached.

3. Immaterial corrections of the prior year's Consolidated Balance Sheets and Consolidated Statements of Changes in Equity Honda corrected its attribution method used to calculate the projected benefit obligation for certain pension plans, which resulted in an increase in other liabilities for prior fiscal years. Cumulative effect adjustments have been made as of April 1, 2011, the earliest period presented, to increase other liabilities by ¥17,228 million and to decrease retained earnings by ¥10,388 million, net of tax. Honda believes that the effects of this correction were inconsequential to the Company's consolidated financial statements for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2012; therefore, no other adjustments were made to those consolidated financial statements.

4. Immaterial corrections of the prior years' Consolidated Statements of Cash Flows

Adjustments have been made to correct previous understatements in both depreciation excluding property on operating leases, which is included in cash flows from operating activities, and payments of other debt, which is included in Other, net in cash flows from financing activities, in the consolidated statements of cash flows for the year ended March 31, 2012.
