Background

In January 2016, Leidos signed an agreement to combine with the Information Systems & Global Solutions business of Lockheed Martin Corporation (the Transaction). The Transaction is expected to close mid-August. In connection with the Transaction and subject to the closing of the Transaction, Leidos declared a special dividend on all shares of Leidos common stock outstanding as of the special dividend record date. This includes all shares held in the Leidos Common Stock Fund and the Leidos Closed Stock Fund of the Leidos, Inc. Retirement Plan (the Plan).

Record Date	August 15, 2016

Special Dividend Election

If you invest in the Leidos stock funds, you previously elected to either reinvest any dividends into the stock fund or to receive a cash distribution of any dividends declared. You may review or change your dividend election by logging into your account at Vanguard.com® and then selecting Plan Details, Investments, Asset class (in View by), and Dividend election (in Company stock section). If you wish to change your dividend election for the special dividend, you must do so by 4 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time on the day before the Ex-Dividend Date. This dividend election will remain in place until you change it for any future dividends issued.

Reinvestment of Special Dividend

When the special dividend is paid on August 22nd, the cash for those participants who have elected to reinvest the dividend back into the stock fund will be added to the Leidos Common Stock Fund and reinvested over time into additional shares of Leidos common stock. Vanguard will follow reasonable and authorized trading practices in reinvesting these funds. Due to the size of the dividend, it may take several weeks to reinvest the entire amount of the special dividend. During this time, the Leidos Common Stock Fund will have an elevated cash position as a result of the special dividend funds and therefore, the daily rate of return of the stock fund may not track as closely to the Leidos stock price performance.

The accounts of participants who have chosen to reinvest the special dividend into the stock fund will reflect reinvestment trading as it occurs. Besides any Plan specific rules in transacting in the stock funds, there will be no additional restrictions imposed. However, please note that employees should review the Leidos Insider Trading Policy before making or changing their investment in the company stock funds and all individuals should be advised to not trade in company stock while in possession of material, non-public information.

Cash Distribution of Special Dividend

For those participants who have elected to take a cash distribution of the special dividend, Vanguard will mail a check directly to your address of record as soon as possible after the special dividend payable date of August 22, 2016. This amount will be reported as ordinary income on a Form 1099-R sent by Vanguard for the 2016 calendar year. Due to the size of the special dividend, estimated tax payments may be required to avoid penalties for taxes due on this income. Please consult your tax advisor regarding the implications of the special dividend on your personal tax situation.

Suggested Actions

All investing is subject to risk, including the possible loss of the money you invest. Now may be a good time to check your investment allocation to make sure it still matches your financial goals. Log on to your account at vanguard.com/retirementplans, select the Review my performance tab, and then click Get help planning for retirement for information and help.
