The following letter was made available to employees of INC Research Holdings, Inc. in connection with the merger of INC Research Holdings, Inc. and Double Eagle Parent, Inc.:

Colleagues,

Last week, we announced a merger that moved the market, was rapidly embraced by clients and was recognized by employees as an opportunity to build an entirely new type of organization to speed important therapies to patients.

It's a bold statement. By combining INC Research and inVentiv Health, we're creating a leading global biopharmaceutical solutions organization like no other. Our global scale, therapeutic depth and ability to accelerate our clients' performance will allow us to partner with biopharmaceutical companies of all sizes.

Guiding our shared future path is WHY we've decided to join forces.

As biopharmaceutical companies face increasingly complex challenges to bring products to market, they're seeking comprehensive outsourced solutions across the clinical and commercial spectrum. Our new company will be purpose-built to address these market realities, where clinical and commercial must work together sharing expertise, data and insights to improve client performance. We will be the partner who not only meets, but also anticipates, our clients' needs.

To support this new vision, today we're announcing the go-forward Executive Team who will report to Alistair Macdonald, the CEO of our combined company, at close. This is the first in a series of announcements to educate you about our new organization and to share information about integration planning. Our next communication will detail our Clinical and Commercial leadership teams. It's important that we take the time to make these decisions thoughtfully and in the best interests of the organization. We'll be sharing information as it becomes available.

The go-forward Executive Team will design and drive our new organization's guiding principles. This is a blended team with combined Clinical and Commercial expertise to support enterprise efforts.

Mike Bell, President, Commercial Division: Mike will lead the Commercial Division, designing valuable commercialization solutions. For those of you new to the Commercial Division, Business Lines include Selling Solutions, Communications, Medication Adherence (Patient Outcomes) and Consulting.

Chris Gaenzle, Chief Administrative Officer and General Counsel: Chris will be responsible for Legal, Human Resources, Corporate Quality, Corporate Services (procurement and facilities) and Operations Management (Trusted Process[®] and non-billable clinical support). Chris will also serve as the Executive Liaison to the new Board of Directors.

Through the integration process, we'll develop some key guiding principles that are important to how we combine our companies. A first principle is to define a Corporate function that's more centralized, with a strong business partner focus, to benefit our clients and our people. We'll also leverage best practices to identify opportunities and efficiencies that will enhance our performance. Executive Team responsibilities will be further refined as we develop our integration plan.

As we start to write our next chapter, we'd like to reinforce that none of this would have been possible without the drive, dedication and expertise of our inVentiv Health and INC Research employees. In the future, as we work together to solve client problems, there will be more for all of you to learn from one another to become more valuable to our clients and each other. In the meantime, let's all keep focused on meeting and exceeding our clients expectations. We look forward to working with the Executive Team, and all of you, to take our organization to the next level.

Regards,

Alistair Macdonald, CEO*

Mike Bell, Executive Chairman of the Board; President, Commercial Division*
