U. S. ANTIMONY REPORTS NATURAL GAS AND INCREASING OUTPUT FROM MEXICAN SMELTER

September 4, 2014. Thompson Falls, Montana. United States Antimony Corporation (“USAC”, NYSE MKT “UAMY”) reported that natural gas has been turned on at its Mexican Madero Smelter. The cost of natural gas will be approximately seventy percent lower than the cost of propane, and it is expected to significantly increase gross margins at the smelter. In addition, the Company is adding four more furnaces that will increase smelter output by 50% and start reducing the inventory of smelter feed. Presently, the smelter is shipping antimony metal of a very high grade similar to Chinese Grade 1. All production at the smelter is in a sold out status.

Chief Executive Officer, John Lawrence, commented, “the Company is in a rapidly expanding growth phase and is now permitting more furnaces to further increase smelter capacity.”
