Media Release

Credit Suisse accelerates implementation of strategic plan; substantial reduction of risk and cost base; update on fourth-quarter performance

Zurich, December 4, 2008 Credit Suisse today announced a number of strategic measures to reflect the continuing evolution of the financial markets over the past year.

§ Continued commitment to integrated business model: investment in growth of Private Banking globally and Swiss businesses; substantial reduction of risk, volatility and costs in Investment Banking through the evolution of the business portfolio; continued focusing and alignment of Asset Management.

§ Investment Banking will further increase its focus on client and flow trading businesses. It will substantially reduce the scale of its operations in more complex products, including a general reduction in risk capital usage and the exit of certain proprietary and principal trading activities; Investment Banking will remain a valuable contributor to the integrated bank with lower volatility and attractive risk returns.

§ Credit Suisse has continued to cut risk in Investment Banking significantly:

§ Underlying one-day value-at-risk (VaR) as of end-November 2008 has been cut by 34% quarter to date and by 60% year to date.

§ Risk-weighted assets, measured on a consistent methodology basis, have been reduced from USD 236 billion as of end-2007 to USD 193 billion as of 3Q08, and are expected to decline further to USD 170 billion by end-2008 and to USD 135 billion by end-2009, a decline of 43% since the end of 2007.

§ Planned reduction in headcount of 5,300, primarily in Investment Banking, representing an 11% reduction of the bank's current overall headcount.

§ These reductions, together with other cost efficiency measures, will reduce costs by CHF 2 billion, representing 9% of the bank's reported nine-month annualized 2008 cost base.

§ Strategic measures outlined today will further reinforce the strong position of Credit Suisse from a risk, cost, capital and earnings perspective as it enters 2009.

Update on 4Q08 performance

§ Estimated net loss of approximately CHF 3 billion as of end-November 2008, reflecting the impact of adverse market conditions in the quarter and costs associated with the risk reduction program, primarily in Investment Banking; Credit Suisse was modestly profitable in November.

§ Good operating performance and solid asset inflows in Private Banking.

§ Deposit base and funding remain very solid and capital position remains strong; tier 1 ratio is expected to be around 13% as of end-2008.

Update on executive compensation

§ In light of Credit Suisse's 2008 performance to date, the Chairman, Group CEO and CEO of the Investment Bank have informed the Board of Directors that it would not be appropriate for them to receive variable compensation for 2008.

Commenting on the steps outlined today, Brady W. Dougan, CEO of Credit Suisse Group, said: Our strategy remains clear and consistent: we will continue to judiciously invest in the growth of Private Banking globally and our Swiss businesses, reduce volatility and risk, and increase our focus on client and flow trading businesses in Investment Banking. The strategic steps we are outlining today will further reinforce the strong position of Credit Suisse from a risk, cost, capital and earnings perspective. These actions will better position us to weather the continuing challenging market conditions, capture opportunities that arise amid the continuing disruption, and prosper when markets improve. Our approach is firmly rooted in the integrated model, which we believe is the most effective means of delivering best-in-class service to our clients, while realizing enhanced operating efficiencies.

Key measures to be accelerated

Credit Suisse will continue to judiciously invest in the growth of its Private Banking business globally and its Swiss businesses. In Private Banking, Credit Suisse has made good progress with its international growth strategy and has strengthened its team of professionals this year by hiring 370 relationship managers in Wealth Management, net, as of the end-November 2008, thereby exceeding its target of 330 for 2008. The measures announced today are also designed to further improve the efficiency of the Private Banking business and to position it for further growth in 2009.

In Investment Banking, Credit Suisse is accelerating the implementation of its strategy to reposition the business in light of the changed competitive and market environment. The strategic measures reflect, among other factors, the impact of weaker macroeconomic conditions, continued market volatility and fundamental shifts in client demand away from more complex products towards the greater use of exchange-based and flow trading. This shift towards more liquid products will build upon the momentum that Credit Suisse has already achieved in areas such as algorithmic trading, cash equities, prime services, rates, foreign exchange, high grade credit and strategic advisory businesses. The Investment Banking division will also continue to reduce its origination capacity in complex credit and structured product businesses and cut risk capital usage, including exiting certain proprietary and principal trading operations. The new operating model will reduce earnings volatility, improve capital efficiency and better leverage the strengths of the integrated bank. Risk-weighted assets, measured on a consistent methodology basis, declined from USD 236 billion as of end-2007 to USD 193 billion as of the third quarter of 2008, and are expected to decline to USD 170 billion by end-2008 and to USD 135 billion by end-2009, a 43% reduction since end-2007. Furthermore, as announced in October, Credit Suisse has already reduced its trading risk positions substantially and underlying one-day VaR as of end-November 2008 declined 34% from the third quarter of 2008 and 60% from the fourth quarter of 2007.

The cost efficiency initiatives will be implemented across all divisions throughout the bank and will result in a headcount reduction of 5,300, an 11% reduction of the bank's workforce. These reductions, the vast majority of which will have taken place by the end of the first half of 2009, will be primarily in Investment Banking and in related support areas. Together with additional reductions in compensation and non-compensation costs, these measures will reduce costs by CHF 2 billion, representing 9% of the bank's reported nine-month annualized 2008 cost base. Costs associated with the strategic measures will amount to approximately CHF 900 million and the majority will be taken in the fourth quarter. These costs are not reflected in the estimated quarter-to-date result as of end-November.

Update on Credit Suisse's fourth-quarter 2008 performance

Based on preliminary information on its operating performance, Credit Suisse estimates that it had a net loss of approximately CHF 3 billion in the fourth quarter as of end-November. Investment Banking had a significant pre-tax loss, reflecting the challenging conditions in the financial markets in the quarter and costs associated with risk reduction. Credit Suisse had a modest net profit in November. The Private Banking division continues to perform well and attracted solid asset inflows in the fourth quarter as of end-November. Credit Suisse has maintained its strong capital base and expects to have a tier 1 ratio of around 13% at year-end. The bank's deposit base and funding remain very solid.

These results are preliminary and are subject to a number of adjustments, contingencies and review processes.

Compensation for 2008

In light of Credit Suisse's 2008 performance to date, the Chairman, Group CEO and CEO of the Investment Bank have informed the Board of Directors that it would not be appropriate for them to receive variable compensation for 2008.

forward-looking statements will not be achieved. We caution you that a number of important factors could cause results to differ materially from the plans, objectives, expectations, estimates and intentions expressed in such forward-looking statements. These factors include:

the ability to maintain sufficient liquidity and access capital markets;

market and interest rate fluctuations;

the strength of the global economy in general and the strength of the economies of the countries in which we conduct our operations, in particular the risk of a continued US or global economic downturn in 2008 and beyond;

the direct and indirect impacts of continuing deterioration of subprime and other real estate markets;

further adverse rating actions by credit rating agencies in respect of structured credit products or other credit-related exposures or of monoline insurers;

the ability of counterparties to meet their obligations to us;

the effects of, and changes in, fiscal, monetary, trade and tax policies, and currency fluctuations;

political and social developments, including war, civil unrest or terrorist activity;

the possibility of foreign exchange controls, expropriation, nationalization or confiscation of assets in countries in which we conduct our operations;

operational factors such as systems failure, human error, or the failure to implement procedures properly;

actions taken by regulators with respect to our business and practices in one or more of the countries in which we conduct our operations;

the effects of changes in laws, regulations or accounting policies or practices;

competition in geographic and business areas in which we conduct our operations;

the ability to retain and recruit qualified personnel;

the ability to maintain our reputation and promote our brand;

the ability to increase market share and control expenses;

technological changes;

the timely development and acceptance of our new products and services and the perceived overall value of these products and services by users;

acquisitions, including the ability to integrate acquired businesses successfully, and divestitures, including the ability to sell non-core assets;

the adverse resolution of litigation and other contingencies; and our success at managing the risks involved in the foregoing.

We caution you that the foregoing list of important factors is not exclusive. When evaluating forward-looking statements, you should carefully consider the foregoing factors and other uncertainties and events, as well as the information set forth in our Form 20-F Item 3 Key Information Risk Factors.
