General Information

Lowe's Companies, Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company or Lowe's) is a Fortune 50 company and the world's second largest home improvement retailer. As of January 29, 2010, we operated 1,710 stores, comprised of 1,694 stores across 50 U.S. states and 16 stores in Canada. Our 1,710 stores represent approximately 193 million square feet of retail selling space.

Lowe's was incorporated in North Carolina in 1952 and has been publicly held since 1961. The Company's common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange - ticker symbol "LOW."

See Item 6, "Selected Financial Data," of this Annual Report on Form 10-K, for historical revenues, profits and identifiable assets. For additional information about the Company's performance and financial condition, see also Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations."

Customers, Market and Competition

Our Customers

We serve homeowners, renters and Commercial Business Customers. Homeowners and renters primarily consist of do-it-yourself (DIY) customers and do-it-for-me (DIFM) customers who utilize our installed sales programs, as well as others buying for personal and family use. Commercial Business Customers include those who work in the construction, repair/remodel, commercial and residential property management, or business maintenance professions.

Our Market

Using the most recent comprehensive data available, which is from 2008, we estimate the size of the U.S. home improvement market to be approximately $630 billion annually, comprised of $492 billion of product demand and $138 billion of installed labor opportunity. Data from a variety of primary and secondary sources, including trade associations, government publications, industry participants and other sources was analyzed as the basis for our estimate. This data captures a wide range of categories relevant to our business, including major appliances and garden supplies. Based on the most recently available data, we believe that the size of the U.S. home improvement market decreased approximately 11% in 2009.

There are many variables that impact consumer demand for the products and services we offer. Key indicators we monitor include employment, real disposable personal income, housing turnover, and home ownership levels. We also monitor demographic and societal trends that are indicators of home improvement industry growth.

§ Employment is an indicator of home improvement sales. The forecasted average unemployment rate of 10.0% for 2010 from the February 2010 Blue Chip Economic Indicators™ is higher than the 9.3% average seen in 2009 and suggests that Americans will continue to face challenging employment prospects this year.

§ Although real disposable personal income continues to grow, it is projected to grow at a slower pace for 2010 than the long-term average annual increase of 3.4%, during the period from 1960 to 2009. Real disposable personal income growth is forecasted to be 2.1% for calendar 2010, compared with 1.3% for calendar 2009, based on data from the February 2010 Blue Chip Economic Indicators™.

- § Housing turnover, which peaked in calendar year 2005, remains significantly below peak levels according to The National Association of Realtors®. However, recent data suggests that housing turnover in 2010 will increase over 2009.
- § According to the U.S. Census Bureau, while U.S. home ownership levels over the past year have continued their decline from 2007, they remain above their historical average. Home ownership provides an established customer base for home maintenance and repair projects. The vast majority of our customers are homeowners and most are not willing to let what is often their most valuable financial asset deteriorate.

Currently, all of these indicators suggest continued weakness in consumer demand. In this challenging economic environment, we are balancing implementation of our long-term growth plans with our near-term focus on conserving capital and maintaining liquidity.

Our Competition

The home improvement retailing business includes many competitors. We compete with other chains of home improvement warehouse stores and lumberyards in most of our trade areas. We also compete with traditional hardware, plumbing, electrical and home supply retailers. In addition, we compete, with respect to some of our products, with general merchandise retailers, mail order firms, warehouse clubs, and online retailers. The principal competitive factors in our industry include location of stores, price and quality of merchandise, in-stock levels, merchandise assortment and presentation, and customer service. See further discussion of competition in Item 1A of this Annual Report on Form 10-K, "Risk Factors."

Products and Services

Our Products

Product Selection

To meet customers' varying home improvement needs, we offer a complete line of products for home decorating, maintenance, repair, remodeling, and property maintenance. We offer home improvement products in the following categories: appliances, paint, lumber, flooring, building materials, millwork, lawn & landscape products, hardware, fashion plumbing, tools, lighting, seasonal living, rough plumbing, nursery, outdoor power equipment, cabinets & countertops, rough electrical, home environment, home organization, and windows & walls. A typical Lowe's store stocks approximately 40,000 items, with hundreds of thousands of items available through our Special Order Sales system and Lowes.com. Our Special Order Sales product offerings provide our customers the opportunity to select a wider assortment of product options beyond the items we carry in our stores through electronic product catalogs and Lowes.com. We continue to enhance integrated design tools and ordering systems storewide in order for customers to envision projects, as well as to efficiently receive price quotes and complete an order. See Note 15 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements included in Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data", of this Annual Report on Form 10-K for historical revenues by product category for each of the last three fiscal years.

We are committed to offering a wide selection of national brand name merchandise, as well as building long-term value for Lowe's through the development of proprietary brands.

National Brand Name Merchandise

In many product categories, customers look for a brand they know and trust to instill confidence in their purchase. Each Lowe's store carries a wide selection of national brand name merchandise such as Whirlpool®, Stainmaster®, Valspar®, Pella® and many more. Our merchandise selection provides the DIY, DIFM and Commercial Business Customer a one-stop shop for a wide variety of national brand name merchandise needed to complete home improvement, repair, maintenance or construction projects.

Proprietary Brands

We also sell many brands that are exclusive to Lowe's to further differentiate our product offerings from our competitors'. These unique brands cover several categories, including lighting, flooring and tools, and give our customers great quality and value. Examples of brand names exclusive to Lowe's are Aquasource®, Garden Treasures®, Harbor Breeze®, Kobalt®, Portfolio®, Reliablilt®, Top-Choice®, and Utilitech®.

Product Sourcing

We source our products from over 7,000 merchandise vendors worldwide, with no single vendor accounting for more than 7% of total purchases. We believe that alternative and competitive suppliers are available for virtually all of our products. Whenever possible, we purchase directly from manufacturers to provide savings for our customers and gross margin improvement for Lowe's.

Supply Chain

To efficiently move product from our vendors to our stores and maintain in-stock levels, we own and operate 14 highly-automated regional distribution centers (RDCs). On average, each RDC serves 121 stores. In addition, we utilize a third-party distribution facility to serve our Canadian stores. We also operate 15 flatbed distribution centers (FDCs) to distribute merchandise that requires special handling due to size or type of packaging such as lumber, boards, panel products, irrigation pipe, vinyl sidings, ladders and building materials. Additionally, we operate three facilities to support our import business, Special Order Sales and internet fulfillment. We also utilize three third-party transload facilities. These facilities do not hold inventory, but are the first point of receipt for imported products. The transload facilities sort and allocate products to RDCs based on individual store demand and forecasts.

On average in fiscal 2009, over 74% of the total dollar amount of stock merchandise we purchased was shipped through our distribution network, while the remaining portion was shipped directly to stores from our vendors.

Our Service Offerings

Installed Sales

We offer installation services through independent contractors in many of our product categories, with flooring, millwork and cabinets & countertops generating the highest sales. Our Installed Sales model, which separates selling and project administration tasks, allows our sales associates to maintain their focus on project selling, while project managers ensure that the details related to installing the products sold are efficiently executed. Installed Sales, which includes both product and labor, accounted for approximately 6% of total sales in fiscal 2009.

Commercial Business Customers

We strive to be a valued business partner to Commercial Business Customers. Because we understand the challenges they face in the current economic environment and the importance of timeliness to these customers, we continue to evaluate and tailor our support program to best meet their needs. These programs focus on in-stock and special order merchandise, contractor packs, business credit, and other convenience services such as fast ordering and 7-day delivery. We also offer a Quote Support Program which provides quotes to Commercial Business Customers for larger projects and helps to ensure our pricing on these projects is competitive. In addition, we offer a district commercial account specialist program in many of our markets which expands our close-support program for Commercial Business Customers. We also have a dedicated web site for these customers, LoweForPros.com, that makes it easier for them to use the programs we have designed specifically for them.

Credit Financing

We offer a proprietary credit card for retail customers. In addition, we offer a Lowe's Project Card in all stores. The Lowe's Project Card provides a major project, in-store financing solution to complement our Lowe's Consumer Revolving Credit Card.

We also offer proprietary credit programs for Commercial Business Customers. They include a Lowe's Business Account, which is ideal for small- to medium-size businesses and offers minimum monthly payments, and Lowe's Accounts Receivable, which is ideal for medium- to large-size businesses that pay in full each month. We also offer the Lowe's Business Rewards Card from American Express®, which is a business credit card with a rewards program that enables business owners to earn points on virtually all card purchases.

In addition, we accept Visa®, MasterCard®, Discover® and American Express® credit cards, as well as debit cards from all major networks.

For additional information regarding our credit programs, see the summary of our significant accounting policies in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements included in Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data."

Distribution Channels

Stores

Our 1,710 retail home improvement stores are open seven days per week, 363 days per year, and average approximately 113,000 square feet of retail selling space, which includes approximately 32,000 square feet of outdoor garden center selling space. Our stores offer similar products and services, with certain minor variations based on local market factors.

Lowe.com

Lowes.com seeks to empower consumers by providing a 24/7 shopping experience and helping reduce the complexity of product decisions and home improvement projects by providing online product information, customer ratings and reviews, online buying guides and how-to videos and information. These tools help consumers make smarter, more informed purchasing decisions and give consumers confidence as they undertake simple to more complex home improvement projects. We also enable consumers to choose from a variety of multichannel fulfillment options, including buy online and pick-up in-store as well as direct shipment to customers' homes. As our business evolves, we continue to look for opportunities beyond fulfillment to leverage emerging technologies and online trends to build strong relationships with consumers that will make us the first choice for their home improvement needs. Lowes.com sales accounted for less than 1% of total sales in fiscal 2009.

New Store Expansion

We opened 62 new stores in fiscal 2009, including five Canadian stores. Our 2009 store openings included three primary prototypes: 117,000-square-foot (117K) and 103,000-square-foot (103K) stores for large markets and a 94,000-square-foot (94K) store to serve smaller markets. The following table illustrates our store expansion over the last three years:

	2009	2008	2007
Number of stores, beginning of fiscal year	1,649	1,534	1,385
Stores opened	62	115	153
Stores relocated	-	-	(4)
Stores closed	(1)	-	-
Number of stores, end of fiscal year	1,710	1,649	1,534
Consists of:
Domestic	1,694	1,638	1,528
Canadian	16	11	6

We expect to open 40 to 45 new stores in fiscal 2010. That estimate includes continued expansion of our store base in Canada, including our first stores in Western Canada, as well as our first stores in Monterrey, Mexico. Our fiscal 2010 store openings will be comprised primarily of 117K, 103K and 94K stores. As we continue our expansion and strive to maximize our return on investment, we consider market demographics and land availability, among other factors, to determine the appropriate prototype for a particular market. The reduction in store openings in 2010 as compared to 2009 reflects the continued challenging current economic environment.

Employees

As of January 29, 2010, we employed approximately 166,000 full-time and 73,000 part-time employees, none of which in the U.S. or Canada are covered by collective bargaining agreements. Management considers its relations with its employees to be good.

Seasonality and Working Capital

The retail business in general is subject to seasonal influences, and our business is to some extent seasonal. Historically, we have realized the highest volume of sales during our fiscal second quarter (May, June and July) and the lowest volume of sales during our fiscal fourth quarter (November, December and January). Accordingly, our working capital requirements have historically been greater during our fiscal fourth quarter as we build inventory in anticipation of the spring selling season and as we experience lower fiscal fourth quarter sales volumes. We fund our working capital requirements primarily through cash flows generated from operations, but also with short-term borrowings, if needed. For more detailed information, see the Financial Condition, Liquidity and Capital Resources section in Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations."

Intellectual Property

The name “Lowe’s” is a registered service mark of one of our wholly-owned subsidiaries. We consider this mark and the accompanying name recognition to be valuable to our business. This subsidiary has various additional registered trademarks, trade names and service marks, most of which are used in our proprietary brand program. Examples of brand names exclusive to Lowe’s are Aquasource®, Garden Treasures®, Harbor Breeze®, Kobalt®, Portfolio®, Reliabilt®, Top-Choice®, and Utilitech®.

Environmental Leadership

We continue to build on a history of environmental leadership by helping consumers reduce their energy and water use and their environmental footprint while saving money through a growing number of product and service solutions. We offer a wide selection of environmentally responsible and energy-efficient products for the home, from ENERGY STAR® appliances to low VOC paint.

Some highlights of our environmental leadership include:

§The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency awarded us the 2010 ENERGY STAR® Sustained Excellence Award in Retail, which recognizes our long-standing leadership as a retailer of energy-efficient products, as well as eight consecutive ENERGY STAR® awards (2003-2010), including four ENERGY STAR® Partner of the Year awards for educating consumers about the benefits of energy efficiency.

§We participate in the Carbon Disclosure Project, an independent not-for-profit organization holding the largest database of primary corporate climate change information in the world.

§We provide in-store recycling for plastic bags, CFLs and rechargeable batteries.

§ We were recognized as a Top 10 retailer participating in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Green Power Partnership program.

In addition to operating our stores as efficiently as possible by reducing our energy and water usage, we are striving to get products to our stores in an environmentally responsible manner. Our conservation strategies and continued contributions to the transportation industry have been honored by multiple SmartWay Environmental Excellence Awards, an innovative program launched by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in 2004 that represents environmentally cleaner, more fuel efficient transportation options. To earn those awards, we implemented initiatives that resulted in reduced carbon dioxide emissions and less overall highway congestion. These included increasing shipping by rail, increasing efficiency of truckload shipments, allowing more products to be shipped on fewer trailers, and continuing to use a higher percentage of SmartWay carriers.

Compliance with Environmental Matters

Our operations are subject to numerous federal, state and local laws and regulations that have been enacted or adopted regulating the discharge of materials into the environment, or otherwise relating to the protection of the environment. They have in the past and may in the future increase our costs of doing business in a variety of ways, including indirectly through increased energy and product costs as producers of energy, cement, iron, steel, pulp, paper, petroleum and other major emitters of greenhouse gases are subjected to increased or new regulation or legislation that results in greater regulation of greenhouse gas emissions. We do not anticipate any material capital expenditures during fiscal 2010 for environmental control facilities or other costs of compliance with such laws or regulations.

Reaching Out

We believe community involvement extends beyond the boundaries of our stores. In 2009, Lowe's and Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation (LCEF) contributed more than $30 million to schools and community organizations in the United States and Canada. LCEF was created in 1957 to assist communities through financial contributions while also encouraging employees to become involved through volunteerism. In 2009, LCEF supported more than 2,300 community and education projects. The Foundation funds our signature grant program, Lowe's Toolbox for Education®, and partnerships with organizations including SkillsUSA®, Rebuilding Together®, the Home Safety Council and The Nature Conservancy. Since 2003, Lowe's has worked with Habitat for Humanity® International to combat substandard housing. Our commitment through 2013 will bring Lowe's Habitat contributions to nearly $40 million since the partnership began. We also partner with customers to support the American Red Cross and the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), contributing more than $9 million to MDA since 2001 and nearly $21 million to the American Red Cross since 1999. Lowe's also encourages employee volunteerism through the Lowe's Heroes program, a company-wide initiative. For more information on our community involvement, please see the Lowe's Social Responsibility Report at www.Lowes.com/socialresponsibility.

Item 1A – Risk Factors

We are exposed to a variety of risks and uncertainties. Most are general risks and uncertainties applicable to all retailers, but some are more particular to retailers serving the home improvement industry. Our operations may also be affected by factors that are either not currently known to us or which we currently consider immaterial to our business. We describe below some of the specific known factors that could negatively affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. All forward-looking statements made by us in this Annual Report to the Securities and Exchange Commission on Form 10-K, in our Annual Report to Shareholders and in our subsequently filed quarterly and current reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission, as well as in our press releases and other public communications, are qualified by the risks described below.

Our sales are dependent upon the health and stability of the general economy.

General economic factors and other conditions, both domestically and internationally, may adversely affect the U.S. economy, the global economy and our financial performance. These include, but are not limited to, periods of flat economic growth or recession, volatility and/or lack of liquidity from time to time in U.S. and world financial markets and the consequent reduced availability and/or higher cost of credit to Lowe's and its customers, slower rates of growth in real disposable personal income, higher rates of unemployment, higher consumer debt levels, increasing fuel and energy costs, inflation or deflation of commodity prices, natural disasters, acts of terrorism and developments in the war against terrorism in Asia, the Middle East and other parts of the world.

The global recession that began in the U.S. in December 2007 and the slow recovery that (we believe) is currently under way, together with the financial/credit crisis that erupted during the fall of 2008 and led to the collapse, government bailout or acquisition of numerous weakened financial institutions, have had and will continue to have significant adverse effects on our results of operations. Continued high rates of unemployment, the psychological effect of falling home prices, volatility in consumer confidence indices, consumer deleveraging and reduced access to credit have combined to lead to sharply reduced consumer spending, particularly by our customers on many of the discretionary, big-ticket items we sell that tend to be larger home improvement project driven. For these reasons consumer confidence and willingness to spend on discretionary items remain relatively low. And although we expect them to be stronger in 2010 than 2009, our sales and results of operations will continue to be adversely affected throughout the 2010 fiscal year.

Adverse changes in economic factors specific to the home improvement industry may negatively impact the rate of growth of our total sales and comparable store sales.

Sales of many of our product categories and services are driven by housing turnover and activity level of home improvement projects. The expiration of government stimulus programs specific to the housing sector during the second half of fiscal year 2010 may adversely affect the rate of housing turnover. Steep declines over the last three years in home prices, the increasing number of households with negative equity, increasing mortgage delinquency and foreclosure rates, reduction in the availability of mortgage financing, rising interest rates on variable rate mortgages, and significantly lower housing turnover, have limited and may continue to limit consumers' discretionary spending, particularly on discretionary items, and affect their confidence level to spend on larger home improvement projects. The impact of these economic factors specific to the home improvement industry is exacerbated by what is expected to be a gradual and prolonged period of economic recovery with slow employment growth.

Unseasonable weather conditions and adverse weather events can negatively affect our total sales and comparable store sales.

If weather conditions are uncharacteristic of the time of year during any season, they can hurt our sales by making it difficult to sell seasonal merchandise. Although the impact of unseasonable weather conditions is mitigated somewhat by the broad geographic dispersion of our stores, they continue to be a significant risk to the overall performance of our business, particularly when they occur across a broad region of the U.S. Adverse weather events, such as a prolonged and widespread drought, can hurt our sales of particular products as well.

Our store expansion and relocation strategy depends upon our ability to successfully open and operate new stores each year.

Our growth in total sales depends not only on a recovery from the current recessionary period but also to a substantial degree on successfully and cost-effectively implementing our ongoing expansion program. We have scaled back our expansion plans significantly in the last two years and plan to scale them back further during fiscal year 2010 in response to the weak macroeconomic environment. As we expand further, we must adapt our merchandising, marketing and distribution initiatives to new markets both domestically and internationally, as we continue to expand into Canada and Mexico. International expansion presents unique challenges that may increase the anticipated costs and slow the anticipated rate of such expansion.

We also plan to increase the number of our stores in markets in which we currently operate. Our ability to open additional stores depends, in large measure, upon our ability to locate and acquire new store sites on acceptable terms. Local land use and other regulations restricting the construction of buildings in the formats with which we operate may affect our ability to open new stores in some markets. As we develop more new stores in metropolitan markets, we may incur increased costs to remediate environmental pollution on some of the sites we are redeveloping that was caused by previous owners of those sites. Our ability to continue to expand our operations depends also on our ability to attract and retain qualified employees. If we are unable to open new stores at the rate we currently plan and staff them with qualified employees, the growth in our sales and our competitive position could be adversely affected.

If we fail to hire, train and retain qualified managers, sales associates and other employees we could lose sales to our competitors.

Customers' perceptions of the quality of service provided by employees can determine any retailer's success or failure. If we fail to attract, train and retain qualified managers and sales associates our financial performance could be adversely impacted. Consumers shopping for goods and services for home improvement projects expect to have sales associates serving them who are knowledgeable about product categories located throughout our stores. Excessive turnover, which has historically been high among employees in entry-level or part-time positions, increases the risk that sales associates will not have the training and experience needed to provide competitive, high quality customer service.

Our success in serving the needs of Commercial Business Customers is dependent upon our ability to attract and retain qualified commercial sales specialists.

Commercial Business Customers in the home improvement industry require that we have well-trained commercial sales specialists at our project desks. By doing so, we can better serve the needs of this customer on a consistent basis. Our commercial sales specialists have a great depth of knowledge about the products needed by Commercial Business Customers. If we fail to staff our project desks with experienced and knowledgeable employees, we run the risk that we will lose Commercial Business Customers.

We have many competitors, who, if we fail to execute our merchandising, marketing and distribution strategies effectively, could take sales and market share from us.

We operate in a highly competitive market for home improvement products and services and have numerous large and small, direct and indirect competitors. The competitive environment in which we operate is particularly challenging during recessionary and economic recovery periods with heavy promotions, particularly of discretionary items, and competitor closings. The principal competitive factors in our industry include location of stores, price and quality of merchandise, in-stock consistency, merchandise assortment and presentation, and customer service. Our failure to respond effectively to competitive pressures and changes in the retail markets could affect our financial performance. Moreover, changes in the promotional pricing and other practices of our competitors, including the effects of competitor liquidation activities, may impact our expected results.

An unusual number of product liability or breach of warranty claims for defective products could expose us to expensive claims and damage our standing with customers.

We are exposed to product liability and product warranty claims relating to the products we sell that could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. Because we do not have direct control over the quality of products manufactured or supplied to us by our vendors and because we self-insure for such product liability and warranty claims, we are exposed to risks relating to the quality of such products. Product liability claims can be expensive to defend and can divert the attention of management and other personnel for significant periods, regardless of the ultimate outcome. Claims of this nature, as well as mandatory or voluntary recalls of defective products we have sold, could also have a negative impact on customer confidence in the products we stock and in our reputation.

Our financial performance could suffer if we fail to properly maintain our critical information systems or if those systems are seriously disrupted.

An important part of our efforts to achieve efficiencies, cost reductions, and sales and cash flow growth is the identification and implementation of improvements to our management information systems to improve operations such as inventory replenishment systems, merchandise ordering, transportation, and receipt processing. Our financial performance could be adversely affected if our management information systems are seriously disrupted or we are unable to improve, upgrade, maintain, and expand our systems.

Our business and our reputation could be adversely affected by the failure to protect sensitive customer, employee or vendor data or to comply with evolving regulations relating to our obligation to protect such data.

While we have invested heavily in the protection of our information technology and maintain what we believe are adequate security controls over individually identifiable customer, employee and vendor data provided to us, a breakdown or a breach in our systems that results in the unauthorized release of individually identifiable customer or other sensitive data could nonetheless occur and have a material adverse effect on our reputation, operating results and financial condition. Such a breakdown or breach could also materially increase the costs we incur to protect against such risks. Also, the regulatory environment relating to our obligation to protect such sensitive data is becoming stricter. A material failure on our part to comply with these evolving regulations could subject us to fines or other regulatory sanctions and potentially to lawsuits.

If the domestic or international supply chain for our products is disrupted, our sales and gross margin would be adversely impacted.

We source the approximately 40,000 products we stock and sell from approximately 7,000 domestic and international vendors. We source many of those products directly from foreign manufacturers. Political or financial instability among suppliers, trade restrictions, tariffs, currency exchange rates and transport capacity and costs are beyond our control and could negatively impact our business if they seriously disrupted the movement of products through our supply chain. The global recession from which we are beginning to recover and the credit crisis that began in late 2008 and continues to some extent have adversely affected the operations and financial stability of some of our vendors by reducing their sales and restricting their access to capital. We may have to replace some of our smaller vendors, and some of our vendors may not be able to fulfill their financial obligations to us or to do so in a timely manner.

Our inability to effectively manage our relationships with selected suppliers of brand name products could negatively impact our ability to differentiate ourselves from competitors.

Part of our expansion strategy includes continued differentiation from competitors. To better distinguish our product offering, we form strategic relationships with selected suppliers to market and develop products under a variety of recognized and respected brand names. The inability to effectively and efficiently manage the relationships with these suppliers could negatively impact our business plan and financial results.

Changes in existing or new laws and regulations could adversely affect our business.

Laws and regulations at both the state and federal levels change frequently and can impose significant costs and other burdens of compliance on our business and our merchandise vendors. Any changes in regulations, the imposition of additional regulations, or the enactment of any new legislation that affects employment/labor, trade, product safety, transportation/logistics, energy costs, health care, tax or environmental issues, could have an adverse impact, directly or indirectly, on our financial condition and results of operations.
