TEVA Announces Planned Retirement of President & CEO in 2007

Shlomo Yanai to Succeed as President & CEO

Jerusalem, Israel, October 18, 2006 - Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd. (Nasdaq: TEVA) announced today that Israel Makov, 67, has announced his plans to retire as President and CEO during the course of 2007. Shlomo Yanai, 55, will join the company as President and CEO Designate during the first part of 2007.

Mr. Makov will continue to work with Teva as a senior strategic advisor to the company for the next two years and, during the transition period, Messrs. Makov and Yanai, along with the board, will work together to ensure a seamless leadership transition.

Mr. Makov said: "My 11 years at Teva have been a wonderful experience. I am gratified at the opportunity I have had to lead Teva through a very exciting period in its history, a period during which it has become a truly global company, and the industry leader. It has been a pleasure--and a privilege--to lead Teva's outstanding management team in developing what I believe is a very strong foundation for continued profitable growth. And it is my great pleasure today to welcome Shlomo Yanai to Teva. I wish him every success, and offer him all my support in leading this exceptional company into a very bright future."

Eli Hurvitz, Chairman of the Board of Teva, said: "Today's announcement is part of our planned succession strategy. This is just the first opportunity of many that we will have to thank Israel Makov for the role he has played in dramatically increasing the scope and scale of Teva's business and solidifying our position as the world's leading generic pharmaceutical company. During his tenure as CEO, Teva's sales will have increased over four-fold, to approximately $8.5 billion; its adjusted net income will have increased approximately six-fold; and the average annual return to investors has been 24%. Israel has considerably expanded and enhanced our balanced business model, both in terms of our lines of business, including our broad generic portfolio, our strength in active pharmaceutical ingredients, and our increasingly significant branded and innovative product businesses; and in terms of our geographic reach which now extends beyond our historic core markets of North America and Western Europe to markets with extraordinary growth opportunities such as Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Latin America."

"We are delighted to welcome Shlomo Yanai who is recognized as one of Israel's outstanding business leaders, and brings his extraordinary complement of operational, management development and strategic planning talents. These capabilities will be invaluable to Teva during what we anticipate will be a time of great change in the pharmaceutical industry, driven by ongoing cost containment pressures and the globalization of resources."

Mr. Yanai will join Teva from Makhteshim Agan Industries Ltd., a publicly traded company on the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange, which is the world's leading manufacturer and distributor of generic crop protection chemicals. This company had sales in more than 100 countries aggregating in excess of $1.7 billion in 2005. Since 2003, in his role as CEO of Makhteshim Agan, Mr. Yanai directed a thorough strategic repositioning of the company and achieved a two-fold increase in sales and a three-fold increase in profits, without any commensurate increase in headcount. Prior to that, Mr. Yanai served for 32 years with the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) where he achieved the rank of Major General and successively held two of the most senior positions within the IDF: Commanding Officer of the Southern Command and then Head of the Division of Strategic Planning of the IDF.

Mr. Yanai said, "I am extremely excited about the opportunity to take the helm of a company like Teva whose strong position, global supply chain and excellent execution capabilities are reflected in its role as a worldwide leader in the healthcare industry. While I am somewhat daunted to be filling the shoes of Israel Makov and Eli Hurvitz before him, I am most appreciative of their support and look forward to their advice and counsel during the transition period and beyond."

The appointment of Shlomo Yanai is the culmination of an ongoing succession planning process which has been led by the Compensation Committee comprised of independent directors acting as an informal Succession Planning Committee of the Board of Directors. This committee has been working for the past few years to ensure that the next generation of leadership for Teva is clearly in place.
