TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS

Fiscal 2005 was a very good year for our company. It was a year when Radica set the pace in the toy and game industry not just by leading in innovation, as we have for years, but by leading in sales and profit growth as well. Our performance proves that our strategy of focusing on electronic entertainment is the right path to reach today's tech-savvy consumers of all ages. Our solid execution in 2005 shows that the improvements we made in operating the Company are starting to payoff. In summary Radica has shown the industry this year what is possible if you dare to innovate and stick to your convictions.

Looking back on some of the year's more notable accomplishments:

- o We achieved record sales of $162.8 million, an increase of 31.9% compared to the U.S. industry decline of 3.7%
- o According to NPD our U.S. retail sales growth was #2 in percentage growth and #3 in absolute dollar growth in the toy and game industry
- o International sales grew by 37.6% allowing us to increase the diversity of our customer base
- o Earnings per share increased by 133% to 84 cents per diluted share before goodwill impairment charges in 2004 and 2005
- o We expanded our factory capacity on schedule and delivered consistently on time to our customers in the face of major sales growth
- o We significantly improved our balance sheet in spite of our growth by lowering inventory and increasing cash and securities by 33%
- o We increased our dividend for the third straight year since instituting our first dividend in January of 2004
- o 20Q(TM) won the coveted Toy Of The Year ("TOTY(TM)") Award for the top Electronic Entertainment Toy voted by our customers and peer companies

Edgar Filing: RADICA GAMES LTD - Form 6-K

It was also a year when we improved our governance by significantly strengthening our Board of Directors with the addition of four experienced, proven executives: John Coulter, Floyd Glisson, Frank O'Connell and Richard Wenz. We are delighted with the contributions each of these gentlemen, as well as our continuing outside Directors, have made to the Company in the past year.

Moving forward to 2006, we are confident that we are on the right track to build shareholder value in the future. Since 2001, when we refocused our strategy to diversify and expand our own branded product line, we have grown our branded product line sales at a compound annual growth rate of 20% per year. As a result of this focus on our own brands, low margin manufacturing services sales have decreased as expected, yet our combined total sales have still increased at a compound annual rate since 2001 of 13% per year at much higher profit margins.

This growth has been driven by innovation and technology. We believe we are the only company in our industry with meaningful expertise in creating, engineering and manufacturing games and toys based on technology. Our competitors seem to rely exclusively on outside resources, which often lead to poor quality and hit or miss innovation. From our perspective we are the only "pure play" in the tech-toy, game and gadget business. We are passionate about creating the most exciting, innovative and high quality electronic products that are possible at low prices and accessible to consumers of all ages and economic brackets. It is really fun for our employees to pursue this mission, since each of us and our families are consumers for these great games and gadgets. We believe this focus gives us a competitive advantage that no other company seems to have.

Our passion for innovative games and gadgets is demonstrated in products such as our hit 20Q product line. In 2006, we will push the envelope again with 20Q languages and themed products. We are already up to 9 language versions and are hoping to ship a total of 20 by the end of the year. We are also planning on 4 new 20Q versions including Rock & Pop Music, Movies/TV, Sports and 20Q Junior. Since the development of these new themes takes many months of testing on the internet, we may not complete all of these by Christmas of 2006 but we are making solid progress toward our development goals already on the first of these products.

We think that Cube World(TM) could be the next great gadget from Radica. After a successful test late last year, we will roll out nationally by the fall of 2006. We have 3 different series coming in 2006 of these interactive virtual stick people. With Cube World, consumers will be able to build their own worlds of stick people, play games with them, enjoy their crazy antics and have fun showing their friends.

We have also received a lot of attention on our newest Sega(TM) joint development project, Digi Makeover(TM). This Girl Tech(R) item allows girls to experiment with new looks for themselves, using an actual digital photo of their face on their own TV set, by changing their hair, makeup and jewelry.

These are just a few examples of our use of technology to create new forms of fun for kids and adults of all ages. We are very excited about our 2006 product line and our prospects for financial performance in 2006. But, what excites us the most is our increasing access to new technologies and great ideas that seem to be growing year by year. For example, while it is still early in our development cycle, 2007 is shaping up to be the most innovative and technology driven year in our history.

Much of our focus for the future will be on the "casual gamer." This is a market that addresses the desires of tech-savvy consumers of all ages for simple, accessible, casual entertainment that does not require expensive hardware or complicated software as provided by today's video game platforms. It is considered one of the fastest growing sectors in electronics as consumers are increasingly looking to electronic gadgets as sources of entertainment. We are already a leader in this market with our electronic handheld, tabletop and Play TV games and are looking to expand our market leadership as this category continues to develop and grow.

We also believe the Youth Electronic category is ripe for strong growth that will allow us to leverage our market position in this category with our Girl Tech product line. The decreasing costs of new technologies continue to amaze us every year and open up opportunities at an amazing pace. Finding these opportunities are what we are good at doing and what we love to do as well.

We are optimistic and excited about the future at Radica. We hope you share our enthusiasm for our mission as well as for the opportunities it creates. As we move forward, we'd like to thank you for your continued and future support.

Sincerely,

APPOINTMENT AND REVOCATION OF PROXIES

The persons named as proxies in the enclosed form of proxy are directors or officers of the Company. A shareholder has the right to appoint a person (who need not be a shareholder of the Company) as proxy to attend and act for and on such shareholder's behalf at the Meeting other than the management proxies named in the accompanying form of proxy. This right may be exercised either by striking out the names of the management proxies where they appear on the front of the form of proxy and by inserting in the blank space provided the name of the other person the shareholder wishes to appoint, or by completing and submitting another proper form of proxy naming such other person as proxy.

AUDIT COMMITTEE FINANCIAL EXPERT

During 2004, our board of directors determined that Theodore J. Eischeid qualified as an audit committee financial expert and that Mr. Eischeid was independent within the meaning of the listing standards applicable to Radica as a Nasdaq National Market company. However, on January 31, 2005, Mr. Eischeid was named President and Chief Operating Officer of Radica and resigned from the Audit Committee. Timothy R. Busch was then named Chairman of the Audit Committee in replacement of Mr. Eischeid. The board determined that Mr. Busch was an independent director within the meaning of such listing standards but made no determination that Mr. Busch would qualify as an audit committee financial expert. However, the board did determine that Mr. Busch met the financial sophistication requirement of such listing standards. On May 23, 2005, the board of directors determined that Richard E. Wenz qualified as an audit committee financial expert and that Mr. Wenz was independent within the meaning of the applicable listing standards and appointed him as the audit committee financial expert.

The charter of the Audit Committee requires that all members of such committee be independent and the board expects that ordinarily at least one member will qualify as an audit committee financial expert.
