ITEM 1. BUSINESS

Summit Bancshares, Inc. (the "Company") is a one bank holding company under the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended and is subject to the regulations of and examination by, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. It was incorporated under the laws of the State of California on July 22, 1981. Its principal office is located at 2969 Broadway, Oakland, California 94611, and its telephone number is (510) 839-8800. At present, the Company does not engage in any material business activities other than the ownership of the Bank from whom the Company also purchases loan participations. On March 17, 2000 the Company became a Financial Holding Company within the meaning of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999.

The Bank's main branch is located at the Company's address in Oakland. In addition, the Bank has full service branches located at 675 Ygnacio Valley Blvd. Ste. B105 Walnut Creek, CA 94598, in the Watergate III Tower at 2000 Powell Street, Emeryville, California 94608.

Summit Bancshares, Inc. owns all of the capital stock of Summit Bank (the "Bank"), its subsidiary bank, and its activities during 2001 were limited to acting as the Bank's holding company.

The Bank has conducted the business of a commercial bank since July 1, 1982. The Bank provides commercial credit and other banking services to small and mid-sized businesses and professionals, including professional firms of physicians, attorneys, accountants, retailers and service firms, wholesalers and distributors, as well as real estate developers. Because of the concentration of medical facilities and related organizations, the growth of real estate opportunities and commercial/industrial businesses in the Bank's service area, the Bank primarily focuses its marketing efforts on health service businesses, real estate construction and commercial industrial loans; however, the Bank also offers a broad spectrum of financial services to the business community at large. The Bank offers various checking and savings accounts for both personal and business purposes, time certificates of deposit, cashier's checks, money orders, travelers checks, safe deposit boxes, installment collection services, night depository, depository pickup and courier services, telephone transfers, collection services for notes, Individual Retirement and Business Planning (formerly Keogh) Accounts.

The Bank has not requested and does not have regulatory approval to offer trust services, although it may provide such services in the future. The Bank assists customers requiring services not offered by the Bank in obtaining such services from its correspondent banks and other financial services firms. Although the Bank does not actively solicit consumer business from the general public, it does offer banking services and facilities compatible with the need of its consumer customers.

The Oakland and Emeryville branches offer the above services. The Walnut Creek all of the services listed above, with the exception of safe deposit boxes.

On March 30, 1989, the State Banking Department, now known as the Department of Financial Institutions, approved the Bank's application to establish a new subsidiary, Summit Equities, Inc, whose purpose is to engage in real property investment activities as authorized by Section 751.3 of the California Financial Code. On November 13, 1992 the FDIC imposed regulations limiting real estate investment to those authorized by national banks, thus no real estate transactions are allowed to be transacted under this subsidiary. The corporation is exploring other avenues or types of approved investment activities. As of this date, the subsidiary has not conducted any business.

SERVICE AREA

The primary geographic market served by the Bank is considered to be all of Alameda County and most of Contra Costa County, except for several cities in the northern and easternmost sections of that county. The excluded areas are Pinole, Hercules, Rodeo, Crockett, Port Costa, West Pittsburg and the sparsely populated areas east of Mt. Diablo. The areas served by the Bank include a substantial number of commercial businesses, a large health services complex and substantial residential population. In Alameda County, the health services complex includes four major hospitals, approximately 380 physicians and a wide variety of health related and other professionals, and small and medium-sized businesses. Contra Costa County includes three major hospitals, approximately 375 physicians, some of which are also affiliated with the hospitals in Alameda County, and other professionals and small and medium-sized businesses.

The Walnut Creek office is about 16 miles northeast of the head office in Oakland and located in the central business district in Walnut Creek. The site is approximately one mile west of John Muir Hospital, which is a 343-bed hospital employing approximately 1375 people and accommodates a large staff of approximately 315 visiting physicians. The surrounding service area includes 4 convalescent hospitals, an acute psychiatric care facility, and the 204-bed Kaiser Foundation Hospital, which employs over 900 people in downtown Walnut Creek and is staffed by approximately 85 physicians.

The Emeryville office is a further extension of the Bank's plan to expand into areas, which will further utilize specialized services directed at medium-sized businesses and professionals. Located west of Interstate 880 at 2000 Powell Street, it services a commercial sector and an up-scale employee population.

The Bank also obtains business clients from the various areas within the city of Oakland, adjacent to the John Muir and Kaiser areas of Walnut Creek, and in the industrial and commercial areas of Emeryville. The Bank's customers are primarily business and professional persons working in the vicinity of each branch, officers and employees of businesses and professional firms serviced by the Bank, and residents of areas close to the Bank.

COMPETITION

The banking business in the Oakland/East Bay metropolitan area is very competitive with respect to both loans and deposits, and is dominated by relatively few major banks which have offices operating throughout California. Among the advantages such banks have are their ability to finance wide-ranging advertising campaigns, to offer certain services (for example, trust services) which are not offered directly by the Bank, and to have substantially higher legal lending limits due to their greater capitalization. There are eleven independent banks in Oakland, Walnut Creek, Pleasanton, and one in Emeryville.

In competing for deposits, the Bank is subject to certain limitations not applicable to non-bank financial institution competitors. Over the past years, legislative changes have enabled the Bank to compete more effectively for deposits with savings and loan institutions, but the Bank still remains at a competitive disadvantage when competing with money market funds.

To compete with major financial institutions and other independent banks in its primary service areas, the Bank relies upon the experience of its executive officers in serving business clients, its specialized services, local promotional activity, and personal contacts by its officers, directors, and employees of the Company. For customers whose loan demands exceed the Bank's legal lending limit, the Bank arranges for such loans on a participation basis with correspondent banks as well as other independent banks.

REGULATION AND SUPERVISION

The Company. The Company is a bank holding company within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended (the BHC Act), and is registered as such with the Federal Reserve Board (FRB). On March 17, 2000 the Company became a Financial Holding Company within the meaning of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999. A bank holding company is required to file with the FRB annual reports and other information regarding its business operations and those of its subsidiaries. It is also subject to examination by the FRB and is required to obtain FRB approval before acquiring, directly or indirectly, ownership or control of any voting shares of any bank, if after such acquisition, it would directly or indirectly own or control more than 5% of the voting stock of that bank. The BHC Act further provides that the FRB shall not approve any such acquisition that would result in or further the creation of a monopoly, or the effect of which may be to substantially lessen competition, unless the anti competitive effects of the proposed transaction are clearly outweighed by the probable effect in meeting the convenience and needs of the community to be served.

Furthermore, under the BHC Act, a bank holding company is, with limited exceptions, prohibited from (i) acquiring direct or indirect ownership or control of more than 5% of the voting shares of any company which is not a bank, or (ii) engaging in any activity other than managing or controlling banks. With the prior approval of the FRB, however, a bank holding company may own shares of a company engaged in activities which the FRB has determined to be so closely related to banking or managing or controlling banks as to be a proper incident thereto.

The FRB has by regulation determined that certain activities are so closely related to banking as to be a proper incident thereto within the meaning of the BHC Act. These activities include, but are not limited to: operating an industrial loan company, industrial bank, Morris Plan Bank, savings association, mortgage company, finance company, credit card company or factoring company; performing certain data processing operations; providing investment and financial advice; operating as a trust company in certain instances, selling traveler's checks, United States savings bonds and certain money orders; providing certain courier services; providing management consulting advice to nonaffiliated depository institutions in some instances; acting as insurance agent for certain types of credit-related insurance; leasing property or acting as agent, broker or advisor for leasing property on a full pay-out basis; acting as a consumer financial counselor, including tax planning and return preparation; performing futures and options advisory services, check guarantee services and discount brokerage activities; operating a collection or credit bureau; or performing personal property appraisals. The Company has no present intention to engage in any of such permitted activities at this time.

The FRB also has determined that certain activities are not so closely related to banking to be a proper incident thereto within the meaning of the BHC Act. Such activities include: real estate brokerage and syndication; land development; property management; underwriting of life insurance not related to credit transactions; and with certain exceptions, securities underwriting and equity funding. In the future, the FRB may add or delete from the list of activities permissible for bank holding companies. Under the BHC Act, a bank holding company and its subsidiaries are prohibited from acquiring any voting shares of or interest in all or substantially all of the assets of any bank located outside the state in which the operations of the bank holding company's banking subsidiaries are principally conducted, unless the acquisition is specifically authorized by the law of the state in which the bank to be acquired is located or unless the transaction qualifies under federal law as an emergency interstate acquisition of a closed or failing bank. The California interstate banking bill is described under Interstate Banking (below).

A bank holding company and its subsidiaries are prohibited from certain tie-in arrangements in connection with any extension of credit, sale or lease of a property or furnishing of services. For example, with certain exceptions, a bank may not condition an extension of credit on a promise by its customer to obtain other services provided by it, its holding company or other subsidiaries, or on a promise by its customer not to obtain other services from a competitor. In addition, federal law imposes certain restrictions on transactions between the Company and its subsidiaries, including the Bank. As an affiliate of the Bank, the Company is subject, with certain exceptions, to provisions of federal law imposing limitations on, and requiring collateral for, extensions of credit by the Bank to its affiliates.

Directors of the Company, and the companies with which they are associated, have had and will continue to have banking transactions with the Bank in the ordinary course of the Bank's business. It is the firm intention of the Company that any loans and commitments to loan included in such transactions be made in accordance with applicable law, on substantially the same terms, including interest rates and collateral, as those prevailing at the time for comparable transactions with other persons of similar creditworthiness, and on terms not involving more than the normal risk of collectability or presenting other unfavorable features. At December 31, 2001, loans to directors totaled $2,018,391 or 11.1% of the Company's shareholders' equity.

The Bank. The Bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), which currently insures the deposits of each member bank to a maximum of $100,000 per depositor. For this protection, the Bank pays a semi-annual assessment and is subject to the rules and regulations of the FDIC pertaining to deposit insurance and other matters.

The Bank is subject to regulation, supervision and regular examination by the Department of Financial Institutions (the Department). Although the Bank is not a member of the Federal Reserve System, it is subject to regulation, supervision, but not examination by the FRB. The regulations of these agencies govern most aspects of the Bank's business, including the making of periodic reports by the Bank and the Bank's activities, branching, mergers and acquisitions, reserves against deposits and numerous other areas.

Subject to the regulations of the Department of Financial Institutions (DFI) of the State of California, the Bank may invest in capital stock, obligations or other securities of other corporations, provided such corporations are not insurance companies, agents or brokers. In addition, the Bank may acquire any or all of the securities of a company that engages in activities that the Bank may engage in directly under California law without the prior approval of the FRB. California state-chartered banks are also specifically authorized to provide real estate appraisal services, management consulting and advisory services and electronic data processing services.

The Company's primary source of income (other than interest earned on Company capital) is the receipt of dividends and management fees from the Bank. The ability of the Bank to pay management fees and dividends to the Company and its affiliates is subject to restrictions set forth in the California Financial Code and, under certain circumstances, is subject to approval of the Department. The board of directors of a state-chartered bank may declare a dividend out of so much of net profits as such board deems appropriate, subject to California law which restricts the amount available for cash dividends to the lesser of retained earnings or the bank's net income less cash dividends paid for its last three fiscal years.

In the event that a bank has no retained earnings or net income for the prior three fiscal years, cash dividends may be paid out of net income for such bank's last preceding fiscal year or current fiscal year upon the prior approval of the Department. Although there are not specific regulations restricting dividend payments by bank holding companies other than state corporation law, supervisory concern focuses on the holding company's capital position, its ability to meet its financial obligations as they come due and the capacity to act as a source of financial strength to its subsidiary banks.

The FRB and the DFI have authority to prohibit a bank from engaging in business practices, which are considered to be unsafe or unsound. Depending upon the financial condition of the Bank and upon other factors, the FRB or Superintendent could assert that the payments of dividends or other payments by the Bank to the Company might be such an unsafe or unsound practice. Also, if the Bank were to experience either significant loan losses or rapid growth in loans or deposits, or some other event resulting in a depletion or deterioration of the Bank's capital account were to occur, the Company might be compelled by federal banking authorities to invest additional capital in the Bank necessary to return the capital account to a satisfactory level.

Impact of Economic Conditions and Monetary Policies. The earnings and growth of the Company are and will be affected by general economic conditions, both domestic and international, and by the monetary and fiscal policies of the United States Government and its agencies, particularly the FRB. One function of the FRB is to regulate the national supply of bank credit in order to mitigate recessionary and inflationary pressures. Among the instruments of monetary policy used to implement those objectives are open market transactions in United States Government securities and changes in the discount rate on member bank borrowings. The monetary policies of the FRB have had a significant effect on the operating results of commercial banks in the past and are expected to continue to do so in the future. However, the effect, if any, of such policies on the future business and earnings of the Company cannot be accurately predicted.

Accounting Changes. Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities (SFAS 133 as amended by SFAS 138). Among other things, establishes accounting and reporting standards for derivative instruments and for hedging activities. It requires that an entity recognizes all derivatives as either assets or liabilities in the statement of financial position and measures those instruments at fair value. The accounting for changes in the fair value of a derivative (that is, gains and losses) depends on the intended use of the derivative and the resulting designation. The provisions of SFAS 133 as amended are effective for all fiscal quarters or all fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. SFAS 133 is not anticipated to have a significant impact on the Company's consolidated financial condition or results of operations.

Legislation and Proposed Changes. From time to time, legislation is enacted which has the effect of increasing the cost of doing business, limiting or expanding permissible activities or affecting the competitive balance between banks and other financial institutions. Proposals to change the laws and regulations governing the operations and taxation of banks, bank holding companies and other financial institutions are frequently made in Congress, in the California legislature and before various bank regulatory agencies. No prediction can be made as to the likelihood of any major changes or the impact such changes might have on the Company. Certain changes of potential significance to the Company which have been enacted recently or others, which are currently under consideration by Congress or various regulatory or professional agencies, are discussed below.

Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989. On August 9, 1989, past President George Bush signed into law the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989 ( FIRREA ). FIRREA contains provisions, which among other things: (1) establish two separate financial industry insurance funds, both administered by the FDIC - the Bank Insurance Fund and the Savings Association Fund; (2) abolish the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and establish the Office of Thrift Supervision as an office of the Treasury Department, with responsibility for examination and supervision of all savings and loan associations; (3) increase the insurance premiums paid by FDIC-insured institutions; (4) permit bank holding companies to acquire healthy savings and loan associations; (5) enhance federal banking agencies' enforcement authority over the operations of all insured depository institutions and increase the civil and criminal penalties that may be imposed in connection with violations of laws and regulations; (6) curtail investments and certain activities of state-chartered savings and loan associations; and (7) increase the capital requirements of savings and loan associations. Management of the Company does not believe that the provisions of FIRREA have had or will have a material adverse impact on the Company's consolidated financial position or results of operations.

Competitive Equality Banking Act. The Competitive Equality Banking Act of 1987 contained provisions which, among other things: (1) permanently closed the loophole which formerly allowed for the creation of non-bank banks ; (2) limited the restrictions imposed on banks on the availability of funds deposited by check; and (3) provided explicit leasing authority for national banks. The enactment of this legislation has not had a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial condition or results of operations.

Interstate Banking. In September 1986, California adopted an interstate banking law. The law allows California banks and bank holding companies to be acquired by banking organizations in other states on a reciprocal basis (i.e., provided the other state's laws permit California banking organizations to acquire banking organizations in that state on substantially the same terms and conditions applicable to banking organizations solely within that state). The law took effect in two stages. The first stage, which became effective July 1, 1987, allowed acquisitions on a reciprocal basis within a region consisting of all 11 states (Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Utah and Washington) which currently permit acquisitions by California banking organizations of banks and bank holding companies in such states. The second stage, which became effective January 1, 1991, allows interstate acquisitions on a national reciprocal basis. The Company believes that this legislation will further increase competition as out-of-state financial institutions enter the California market. Most recently U.S. Bancorp purchased California Bancshares, Inc.; a community-based holding company with approximately 21 independent banks in the surrounding area in which the Bank operates. U. S. Bancorp was subsequently purchased by First Bank headquartered in Minneapolis. It is anticipated that such a purchase may in fact be beneficial to the Bank as it may open opportunities to prospects that enjoy dealing with a community bank. If there is a negative effect on the Bank it might be that this merger might increase the resources available to the 21 independent banks being purchased.

Capital Adequacy Guidelines. The FRB has issued capital adequacy guidelines establishing a risk-based capital framework consisting of a definition of capital comprised of a core component (essentially shareholders' equity less goodwill) ( Tier 1 capital ), a supplementary component ( Tier 2 capital ), a system for assigning assets & off-balance sheet items to four weighted risk categories (with higher levels of capital being required for the categories being perceived as representing greater credit risk) and a schedule for achieving a minimum risk-based capital ratio of 7.25% by the end of 1990 (which at least 3.625% should be in the form of common shareholders' equity) and 8% by the end of 1992 (which at least 4% should be in the form of common shareholders' equity). An institution's risk-based capital would be determined by dividing its qualifying capital by its risk-weighted assets.

The guidelines make regulatory capital requirements more sensitive to the differences in risk profiles among banking institutions, take off-balance sheet items into account when assessing capital adequacy and minimize disincentives to holding liquid low-risk assets. In addition, the guidelines may require some banking institutions to increase the level of their common shareholders' equity. It is not anticipated that the guidelines will have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial condition or results of operations over the short term. At the end of 2001, the guidelines provided for a minimum risk-based capital ratio of 8%, and this provision may limit the Company's ability to increase its assets or require the Company to raise additional equity to facilitate growth.

On August 2, 1990, the FRB adopted standards for compliance by banking organizations with risk-based capital guidelines to include a minimum leverage ratio of 4%. An institution's leverage ratio is determined by dividing Tier 1 capital by total average assets. The FRB emphasized that the leverage ratio constitutes a minimum requirement for well-run banking organizations having diversified risk, including no undue interest rate risk exposure, excellent asset quality, high liquidity, good earnings and a favorable composite rating under the applicable regulatory rating system. Banking organizations experiencing or anticipating significant growth, as well as those organizations, which do not exhibit the characteristics of a strong well-run banking organization, described above, will be required to maintain minimum capital ranging from 100 to 200 basis points in excess of the leverage ratio.

The FRB leverage ratio establishes a new limit on the ability of banking organizations to increase assets and liabilities without increasing capital proportionately. In management's opinion, the leverage ratio will have no material effect on its capital needs in the foreseeable future. The Bank's leverage ratio at December 31, 2001 was 8.501% (See Summit Bancshares, Inc. 2001 Annual Report Footnote #8).

EMPLOYEES

On December 31, 2001 the Bank employed 45 full time employees and 1 part time employee for a total equivalent of 45.4 full time employees. At the present time there are no salaried employees of the Company.

Commitments and Lines of Credit

The Bank is a party to financial instruments with off-balance-sheet risk in the normal course of business to meet the financing needs of its customers. These financial instruments include commitments to extend credit and standby letters of credit. These instruments involve, to varying degrees, elements of credit risk in excess of the amount recognized in the statement of financial position. The contract amount of these instruments reflects the extent of involvement the Company has in particular classes of financial instruments.

The Bank's exposure to credit loss in the event of nonperformance by the other party to the financial instrument for commitments to extend credit and standby letters of credit is represented by the contractual notional amount of those instruments. The Company uses the same credit policies in making commitments and conditional obligations as it does for on balance sheet instruments. At December 31, 2001 financial instruments whose contract amounts represent credit risk:

	Contract Amount
Commitments to extend credit in the future	$47,228,036
Standby letters of credit	1,659,670

Commitments to extend credit are agreements to lend to a customer as long as there is no violation of any condition established in the contract. Commitments generally have fixed expiration dates or other termination clauses and may require payment of a fee. Since many of the commitments are expected to expire without being drawn upon, the total commitment amounts do not necessarily represent future cash requirements. The Bank evaluates each customer's credit worthiness on a case by case basis. The amount of collateral obtained if deemed necessary by the Bank upon extension of credit is based on management's credit evaluation of the counter party. Collateral held varies but may include accounts receivable, inventory, property, plant, and equipment, and income producing commercial properties. Standby letters of credit are conditional commitments issued by the Bank to guarantee the performance of a customer to a third party. Most all guarantees expire within one year. The credit risk involved in issuing letters of credit is essentially the same as that involved in extending loan facilities to customers.

NON-PERFORMING LOANS AND SUMMARY OF LOAN LOSS EXPERIENCE (In thousands of dollars) as of December 31,

	2001	2000	1999	1998	1997
Non-Accrual Loans	$ 0	$ 0	$ 158	$ 651	$ 176

Total non-performing Assets	$ 145	$ 45	$ 158	$ 1,525	$ 1,806

The Bank's policy is to recognize interest income on an accrual basis unless the full collectibility of principal and interest is uncertain. Loans that are delinquent 90 days as to principal or interest are placed on a non-accrual basis, unless they are well secured and in the process of collection, and any interest earned but uncollected is reversed from income. Collectibility is determined by considering the borrower's financial condition, cash flow, quality of management, the existence of collateral or guarantees and the state of the local economy.

The allowance for loan losses is maintained at a level considered adequate to provide for losses that can be reasonably anticipated. The reserve is increased by provisions and reduced by net charge-offs. The Bank makes credit reviews of the loan portfolio, considers current economic conditions, loan loss experience, and other factors in determining the adequacy of the reserve balance. The allowance for loan losses is based on estimates and ultimate losses may vary from current estimates. As adjustments become necessary, they are reported in earnings in the periods in which they become known.

Any loans classified for regulatory purposes as loss, doubtful, substandard, or special mention that have not been disclosed under Item III of Industry Guide 3 do not (i) represent or result from trends or uncertainties which management reasonably expects will materially impact future operating results, liquidity or capital resources, or (ii) represent material credits about which management is aware of any information which causes management to have serious doubts as to the ability of such borrowers to comply with the loan repayment program.

ITEM 7: MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The section labeled Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation appearing in the Registrant's Annual Report to shareholders for the year ended December 31, 2001 are incorporated by reference herein.

ITEM 7a: QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Interest rate and credit risks are the most significant market risks impacting the Company's performance. Other types of market risk, such as foreign currency exchanges rate risk and the commodity price risk, do not arise in the normal course of the Company's business activities. The Company relies on loan reviews, prudent loan underwriting standards and an adequate allowance for loan losses to mitigate credit risk.

Interest rate risk is managed by subjecting the Company's balance sheet to hypothetical interest rate shocks. The Company's primary objective in managing interest rate risk is to minimize the adverse impact of changes in interest rates on the Company's net interest income and capital, while structuring the Company's asset/liability position to obtain the maximum yield-cost spread on that structure.

Rate shock is an instantaneous and complete adjustment in market rates of various magnitudes on a static or level balance sheet to determine the effect such a change in rates would have on the Company's net interest income for the succeeding twelve months, and the fair values of financial instruments.

The Company utilizes asset/liability-modeling software to determine the effect of a shift in market interest rates, with scenarios of interest rates increasing 100 and 200 basis points and decreasing 100 and 200 basis points. The model utilized to create the table presented below is based on the concept that all rates do not move by the same amount or at the same time. Although certain assets and liabilities may have similar maturities or periods to repricing, they may not react correspondingly to changes in market interest rates. In addition, interest rates on certain types of assets and liabilities may fluctuate with changes in market interest rates, while interest rates on certain types of assets may lag behind changes in market rates. Further, in the event of a change in interest rates, prepayment and early withdrawal levels would likely deviate from those assumed in the table. The ability of certain borrowers to make scheduled payments on the adjustable rate loans may decrease in the event of an interest rate increase due to adjustments in the amount of the payments.

The model attempts to account for such limitations by imposing weights on the gaps between assets and liabilities. These weights are based on the ratio between the amount of rate change and each category of asset/liability, and the amount of any change in the federal funds rate, local conditions and the strategy of the Company determine the weights for loan and core deposits; the others are set by national markets. In addition, a timing factor has been used, as (a) fixed rate instruments do not reprice immediately; (b) renewals may have different term than original maturities; and (c) there is a timing factor between rates on different instruments (i.e. core deposits usually reprice well after there has been a change in the federal funds rate). Due to the various assumptions used for this simulation analysis, no assurance can be given that actual results will correspond with projected results.

The following table shows the estimated impact of various interest rate shocks on net interest income and the fair values of financial instruments at December 31, 2001:

	Fair Values of Financial Instruments
	Net Interest Income		Assets		Liabilities
	Amount	% Change	Amount	% Change	Amount	% Change
+ 200 basis points	$ 6,885	15.1%	$ 143,119	(1.1%)	$ 123,355	(2.2%)
+ 100 basis points	6,431	7.5	143,936	(0.5)	124,706	(1.1%)
Static	5,981	0.0	144,778	0.0	126,112	0.0
100 basis points	5,606	(6.3)	145,647	0.6	127,440	1.1
200 basis points	5,014	(16.2)	146,540	1.2	128,706	2.1

Loans and certificates of deposit represent the majority of interest rate exposure. Investments only represent 9.5% of interest earning assets and therefore, the impact of the investments on net interest income of moving rates would not be significant. Historically, savings and interest-bearing checking accounts have not repriced in proportion to changes in overall market interest rates. Net change in net interest income can be attributed to the balance of loans and certificates of deposit maturing/repricing.

As a result, in an increasing/decreasing interest rate environment net interest income would increase/decrease.

The change in fair values of financial assets is mainly a result of total loans representing 63.9% of total interest-earning assets. Of these loans, $19.7 million have fixed interest rates, which decline in value during a period of rising interest rates.

While asset/liability models have become a main focus of risk management, the Company believes that statistical models alone do not provide a reliable method of monitoring and controlling risk. The quantitative risk information provided is limited by the parameters established in creating the related models. Therefore, the Company uses these models only as a supplement to other risk management tools.
