- Information for shareholders of Deutsche Börse AG -

Why do Deutsche Börse and NYSE Euronext match?

Both exchange operators perfectly complement each other. Even today Deutsche Börse AG and NYSE Euronext together are market leaders for the complete range of the stock exchange business:

At trading, NYSE Euronext's "Wall Street" is a trading center for shares with a worldwide reputation. Deutsche Börse leads in trading and risk management of derivatives.

Post trading, the customers of both stock exchanges benefit from the combined offers for settlement. Deutsche Börse's Clearstream subsidiary is active in custody and administration of securities all over the world. Efficient technologies allow it to execute such post-trading-processes smoothly.

The main features at a glance

- Shares of Deutsche Börse AG will be exchanged into shares of the new holding company at an exchange ratio of 1:1.
- The exchange of the shares must be declared in writing to the custodian bank.
- According to plan the exchange of the shares will be possible until mid July 2011.
- As a shareholder it is risky to miss the exchange.

Deutsche Börse AG and NYSE Euronext intend to create the leading exchange group in the world. As a shareholder of Deutsche Börse AG, you have the historic opportunity to participate in a new, global exchange group. You will not only profit from direct value enhancement resulting from the expected synergies but also from improved growth potential of the combined group. The new company will be based in Frankfurt and New York and will be listed on exchanges in both locations Frankfurt and New York. Furthermore the combination will strengthen both financial centers.

This flyer answers key questions about the planned combination.

Financial and Balance sheet key figures 2010

		NYSE Euronext	Deutsche Börse
Net revenues	MM	1,888	2,166
Operating result EBITDA	MM	838	1,221
Market Capitalisation ¹⁾	MM	6,408	11,710
Employees		2,971	3,490

¹⁾ as of 15 February 2011

Why should I exchange?

The combination increases value to shareholders. As soon as the first year after closing of the combination, a positive effect is expected on a pro forma basis. Both partners expect cost synergies of approximately 300 million, which will fully take effect beginning at the end of the third year. The synergies result from, among other things, the combination of the different technology platforms. Moreover Deutsche Börse and NYSE Euronext expect future growth, which will further positively affect the earnings in the amount of at least 100 million annually. Further opportunities for joint growth are expansion in emerging markets and the joint development of new asset classes such as off-market traded derivatives.

What is going to happen if I don't exchange?

Every single share counts! To be successful the vast majority of Deutsche Börse-Shares need to be exchanged. If the exchange is not successful to this extent, the transaction, which is in the interest of the companies and shareholders, will occur. The realization of considerable cost synergies would fail as well.

What risk do I bear if I keep Deutsche Börse-Shares despite the exchange?

In this case you remain shareholder of Deutsche Börse AG. According to the new holding structure Deutsche Börse AG will have a majority shareholder, who owns more than 75% of the shares and therefore the majority of the voting rights in Deutsche Börse AG, which entitles such shareholder to pass resolutions at shareholder meetings on its own. Moreover there is a high probability that trading in the remaining shares of Deutsche Börse AG will be significantly less liquid than it is currently.

How may I exchange my shares?

To exchange Deutsche Börse shares, you must instruct your custodian bank in writing to accept the offer. The form is available at your custodian bank.

How does the combination work?

A holding company with a registered seat in the Netherlands (initially known as Alpha Beta Netherlands Holding N.V.) has made a public takeover offer to the shareholders of Deutsche Börse AG. This exchange offer provides for a minimum exchange threshold of 75 percent of the Deutsche Börse-Shares. Simultaneously holders of a majority of the shares of NYSE Euronext must approve the merger of NYSE Euronext with a US subsidiary of the Dutch holding company at special shareholders meeting. As a result Deutsche Börse and NYSE Euronext will be brought together under the roof of the new holding company. The Netherlands will be the legal seat of the holding company; the headquarters of the newly created exchange group will be in Frankfurt and New York.

What is the Timeline?

The acceptance period during which you as shareholder of Deutsche Börse AG may exchange your shares is expected to commence at the beginning of May and lasts 10 weeks until mid July 2011. Simultaneously with the exchange offer, the companies will seek antitrust and regulatory approvals in Europe and the United States. The transaction is expected to close at the end of 2011.

I still have questions. Where do I get further information?

Therefore, both bodies support the exchange offer and recommend you to accept the exchange offer.

If you have already tendered your shares of Deutsche Börse AG for exchange, please regard this letter as irrelevant.

Expiry of the exchange offer

The acceptance period for the exchange expires on Wednesday, 13 July 2011. After closing of the transaction, those shares will be exchanged into shares of Alpha Beta Netherlands N.V. and will be listed on the stock exchanges in Frankfurt and New York as well as in Paris.

As soon as more than 50 percent of the shares of Deutsche Börse are tendered, prior to the end of the acceptance period, the “tendered shares” will replace the current shares of Deutsche Börse in the DAX®.

Special dividend

If you have tendered your Deutsche Börse-Shares, and therefore after closing of the transaction will receive shares of Alpha Beta Netherlands Holding N.V. in exchange for your Deutsche Börse Shares, you are entitled to receive a special dividend in the amount of €2.00 per share. This dividend will be distributed after closing of the combination of NYSE Euronext and Deutsche Börse by Alpha Beta Netherlands Holding N.V.
