Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On November 18, 2004, IGI, Inc. (the "Company") entered into an amendment to (i) the License and Supply Agreement, dated as of December 2, 1992 and amended on August 26, 1994, between the Company and Estee Lauder Inc. ("Estee Lauder"), and (ii) the Purchase Agreement, dated September 29, 1993, between the Company and Estee Lauder. Estee Lauder is the Company's largest customer.

Edgar Filing: IGI INC - Form 8-K

The amendment, among other things:

- (1) Grants to Estee Lauder (i) a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-bearing sublicense of the Company's rights under certain patents related to cosmetic products containing lipid vesicles (the "Products"), and (ii) the right to manufacture, or have manufactured, the Products.
- (2) Requires Estee Lauder to pay royalties to the Company equal to $5 per kilogram of Product manufactured by Estee Lauder; provided, however, that once Estee Lauder has paid $2,000,000 in royalties to the Company in any contract year, the royalty is reduced to $2 per kilogram for the remainder of the contract year.
- (3) Requires Estee Lauder to make a one-time payment of $100,000 to the Company for the right to fabricate equipment capable of manufacturing the Products.
- (4) Requires the Company, in 2005, to exercise a $1,000,000 option to extend for ten years the Company's exclusive license to certain lipid vesicle technology pursuant to the License Agreement, dated December 13, 1995, between one of the Company's subsidiaries and Micro-Pak, Inc.

The amendment, dated November 18, 2004, is effective as of July 1, 2004.

The amendment, and the Company's press release announcing the amendment, are attached hereto as Exhibits 10.1 and 99.1, respectively, and are hereby incorporated by reference.
