  - (b) a person employed by a company as auditor (whether he is or is not an officer of the company).
  - (c) it appears to the court hearing the case that the officer or person is or may be liable, but that he acted honestly and reasonably, and that having regard to all the circumstances of the case (including those connected with his appointment) he ought fairly to be excused, the court may relieve him, either wholly or partly, from his liability on such terms as it thinks fit.
- (2) If any such officer or person has reason to apprehend that any claim will or might be made against him in respect of any negligence, default, breach of duty or breach of trust
  - (a) he may apply to the court for relief, and
  - (b) the court has the same power to relieve him as it would have had if it had been a court before which proceedings against him for negligence, default, breach of duty or breach of trust had been brought.
- (3) Where a case to which subsection (1) applies is being tried by a judge with a jury, the judge, after hearing the evidence, may, if he is satisfied that the defendant (in Scotland, the defender) ought in pursuance of that subsection to be relieved either in whole or in part from the liability sought to be enforced against him, withdraw the case from the jury and forthwith direct judgment to be entered for the defendant (in Scotland, grant decree of absolvitor) on such terms as to costs (in Scotland, expenses) or otherwise as the judge may think proper.

Insurance

Under section 232 of the Companies Act 2006 the Registrant may not provide an indemnity, or include provisions in its articles of association or in separate contracts for the purpose of exempting directors from liability for their negligence, default, breach of duty or breach of trust. However, Registrant may, however, insure its directors (as well as its officers) against any such liability to the Registrant and, in the circumstances set out in section 234, to third parties. Therefore, the Registrant procures and intends to continue procuring, directors and officers liability insurance coverage for the benefit of such directors and officers, which, subject to policy terms and conditions, provides coverage to such directors and officers in circumstances in which Registrant, its subsidiaries are not permitted or are otherwise unable to meet by way of indemnity. While defence costs may be met, neither Registrant's indemnity nor the insurance provides coverage in the event that a director or officer is the subject of criminal or regulatory fines or penalties or is proved to have acted fraudulently or dishonestly. The Registrant also procures and intends to continue procuring, directors and officers liability insurance coverage for its benefit where it has indemnified directors and officers under the indemnity agreements referred to above.
