Item 1.01. Entry into Material Definitive Agreement.

Agreement and Plan of Amalgamation

Validus Holdings, Ltd. ( Validus ) announced on July 9, 2009 that it had entered into an Agreement and Plan of Amalgamation (the Amalgamation Agreement ) with IPC Holdings, Ltd. ( IPC ) and Validus Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of Validus, pursuant to which, subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein, IPC will amalgamate with Validus Ltd. (the Amalgamation ). A copy of the press release announcing the entry into the Amalgamation Agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and incorporated by reference herein.

Subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the Amalgamation Agreement, at the effective time of the Amalgamation, each outstanding common share of IPC (each, an IPC Common Share ), other than any IPC Common Shares owned by Validus or its subsidiaries and any IPC Common Shares with respect to which appraisal rights under Bermuda law shall be perfected, shall be converted into the right to receive 0.9727 voting common shares, par value $0.175 per share, of Validus and $7.50 in cash, less any applicable withholding tax and without interest.

The boards of directors of both Validus and IPC have unanimously adopted the Amalgamation Agreement, and have deemed it fair, advisable and in the best interests of their respective companies and shareholders to enter into the Amalgamation Agreement and to consummate the transactions contemplated thereby, including, in Validus case, the issuance of Validus voting common shares in connection therewith. Validus must obtain the approval of at least a majority of votes cast at a special general shareholders meeting of Validus to authorize the issuance of Validus common shares as consideration to consummate the Amalgamation. IPC intends to seek the approval of its shareholders to amend its bye-laws prior to the IPC shareholder vote on adopting the Amalgamation Agreement. In the event that such amendment is approved by a majority of votes cast by IPC shareholders at a special general meeting of shareholders of IPC, the adoption of the Amalgamation will require at least a majority of the votes cast at a special general meeting of shareholders of IPC (which will be sought at the same special general meeting at which the bye-law amendment described above is submitted for approval). If such bye-law amendment is not approved by IPC shareholders, the vote of at least 75% of the votes cast at a special general meeting of IPC shareholders is required for approval of the Amalgamation.

The Amalgamation is expected to close in the third quarter of 2009, subject to customary closing conditions, including IPC and Validus shareholder approvals and the amendment of Validus credit facilities.

Each of Validus and IPC has made representations and warranties in the Amalgamation Agreement. Each of Validus and IPC has also agreed to various covenants and agreements, including, among others things, subject to certain exceptions, to conduct their respective businesses in the ordinary course of business between the execution of the Amalgamation Agreement and consummation of the Amalgamation and not to engage in certain kinds of transactions during such period. Each of Validus and IPC is permitted to pay regular quarterly cash dividends until the consummation of the Amalgamation.

IPC has agreed that neither it nor any of its subsidiaries nor any of the officers and directors of it or its subsidiaries shall initiate, solicit, encourage or facilitate (including by providing information) any effort or attempt to make or implement any competing proposal or offer, as further described in the Amalgamation Agreement. These restrictions are subject to a fiduciary out provision that allows IPC to provide non-public information and participate in discussions and negotiations with respect to competing proposals that IPC's board of directors, after consultation with its outside legal counsel and financial advisors, concludes in good faith that such action is reasonably likely to be required in order for IPC's directors to comply with their fiduciary duties under applicable law. IPC's board of directors does not have the right to terminate the Amalgamation Agreement to accept a competing proposal or upon a change or withdrawal by IPC's board of directors of its recommendation of the Amalgamation. Therefore, the Amalgamation will be submitted to a vote of IPC's shareholders. However, IPC's board of directors may, subject to certain procedural requirements set forth in the Amalgamation Agreement, change its recommendation to IPC shareholders to approve the Amalgamation in the event that the board of directors of IPC concludes that a bona fide written acquisition proposal for IPC that did not result from a breach of the Amalgamation Agreement by IPC could be reasonably likely to constitute a Superior Proposal (as defined in the Amalgamation Agreement).

The Amalgamation Agreement contains specified termination rights for the parties, including the right of either party to terminate the Amalgamation Agreement if the Amalgamation has not been consummated on or prior to January 31, 2010. The Amalgamation Agreement also provides that, if the Amalgamation Agreement is terminated under certain circumstances, IPC will be required to pay Validus a termination fee of $16 million or Validus will be required to pay IPC a termination fee of $16 million.

Following the execution and delivery of the Amalgamation Agreement, IPC paid $50,000,000 (the Max Termination Fee) to Max Capital Group Ltd. (Max) pursuant to the prior agreement and plan of amalgamation among IPC, Max and IPC Limited that was terminated by Max on June 12, 2009. Pursuant to the terms of the Amalgamation Agreement, Validus has paid $50,000,000 (the Reimbursement Amount) to IPC in respect of, and in reliance upon, the payment of the Max Termination Fee by IPC. IPC will be required to repay the Reimbursement Amount to Validus under certain circumstances specified in the Amalgamation Agreement in the event the Amalgamation Agreement is terminated.

The foregoing description of the Amalgamation Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby does not purport to be complete and is subject to and qualified in its entirety by reference to the Amalgamation Agreement, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit 2.1 and the terms of which are incorporated herein by reference.

The Amalgamation Agreement has been included to provide investors and security holders with information regarding its terms. It is not intended to provide any other factual information about Validus, IPC or Validus Ltd. or any of their respective subsidiaries or affiliates. The representations, warranties and covenants contained in the Amalgamation Agreement were made only for purposes of that agreement and as of specific dates; were solely for the benefit of the parties to the Amalgamation Agreement; may be subject to limitations agreed upon by the contracting parties, including being qualified by confidential disclosures made for the purposes of allocating contractual risk between the parties to the Amalgamation Agreement instead of establishing these matters as facts (such disclosures include information that has been included in Validus' and IPC's public disclosures, as well as additional non-public information); and may be subject to standards of materiality applicable to the contracting parties that differ from those applicable to investors. Investors are not third party beneficiaries under the Amalgamation Agreement (except for the right to receive the transaction consideration from and after the consummation of the Amalgamation) and should not rely on the representations, warranties and covenants or any descriptions thereof as characterizations of the actual state of facts or condition of Validus, IPC or Validus Ltd. or any of their respective subsidiaries or affiliates. Moreover, information concerning the subject matter of the representations, warranties and covenants may change after the date of the Amalgamation Agreement, which subsequent information may or may not be fully reflected in Validus' public disclosures.

Item 8.01 Other Events.

Termination of Exchange Offer and Scheme of Arrangement

Validus announced on July 9, 2009 that it will be withdrawing and terminating its exchange offer for all of the outstanding IPC Common Shares and will instruct BNY Mellon Shareowner Services to promptly return all IPC Common Shares previously tendered to Validus. Additionally, Validus has terminated its solicitation efforts in connection with its other previously announced alternative steps to complete a transaction with IPC, including a scheme of arrangement.

Voting Agreement

In connection with the Amalgamation Agreement, affiliates of Aquiline Capital Partners LLC, Vestar Capital Partners, and New Mountain Capital, LLC, which collectively owned approximately 38% of Validus' outstanding voting common shares as of April 30, 2009, have agreed to vote in favor of the issuance of Validus voting common shares in connection with the Amalgamation. Each of the voting agreements will terminate upon the earlier of: (i) the mutual consent of IPC and a shareholder; (ii) the holding of a duly called meeting of the shareholders of Validus (or an adjournment or postponement thereof) relating to the approval of the issuance of Validus voting common shares in connection with the Amalgamation at which a shareholder is present and votes its Validus voting common shares in favor of such issuance; and (iii) the date of termination of the Amalgamation Agreement in accordance with its terms.
