PROXY STATEMENT

VOTING MATTERS AND PROCEDURES

What is the purpose of the annual meeting?

At Capital One's annual meeting, stockholders will act upon the matters outlined in the accompanying Notice of Annual Stockholder Meeting. In addition, Capital One's management will report on our performance during 2002 and respond to questions from stockholders.

Who can attend the annual meeting?

Stockholders may attend the meeting, and may be accompanied by one guest. We may ask for proof of identity and ownership of Capital One stock. There are no other restrictions on who may attend the meeting or any formal requirements to attend the meeting. The members of the Board of Directors and senior management of Capital One, as well as representatives of Ernst & Young LLP, Capital One's independent auditors during 2002, will attend the meeting.

Who is requesting my vote?

This proxy statement and the proxy card are being mailed and made available on the Internet at Capital One's website (www.capitalone.com) on or about March 20, 2003. The Board of Directors of Capital One is requesting your vote on the matters presented in this proxy. The cost of preparing, assembling and mailing the proxy card, this proxy statement, and other enclosed materials, and all clerical and other expenses of solicitations will be at the expense of Capital One. We have retained Innisfree M&A Incorporated to assist us in the solicitation of proxies for an aggregate fee of $9,000, plus reasonable out-of-pocket expenses.

Who is entitled to vote?

All holders of record of Capital One's common stock at the close of business on February 28, 2003 are entitled to vote. All stockholders are entitled to one vote for each share of common stock held by them for all matters submitted for a vote at the meeting. Cumulative voting for the election of directors is not permitted. On February 28, 2003, there were 226,383,064 shares of Capital One's common stock issued and outstanding.

Will a list of stockholders be made available?

We will make a list of stockholders available at the annual meeting and, for ten days prior to the meeting, at our Northern Virginia offices located at 1680 Capital One Drive, McLean, Virginia 22102. Please contact Capital One's Corporate Secretary at (703) 720-1000 if you wish to inspect the stockholders list prior to the annual meeting.

What constitutes a quorum?

A quorum of stockholders is necessary to transact business at the annual meeting. A quorum exists if the holders of a majority of the shares entitled to vote are present in person or represented by proxy, including proxies on which abstentions (withholding authority to vote) are indicated.

Table of Contents

How do I vote?

You can vote by either:

Signing and returning the enclosed proxy card or following the directions on the card for telephone or Internet voting (see below); or Casting your vote in person at the annual meeting.

The individuals identified on the proxy card will vote your shares as you designate when you cast your vote by signing and mailing the proxy card, by telephone or via the Internet. If you submit a duly executed proxy card but do not specify how you wish to vote your shares, the proxy holders will vote your shares in favor of Items 1 and 2 on the proxy card, against Item 3 and at their discretion for any other matters properly submitted to a vote at the meeting.

If you vote by proxy, you may revoke your proxy or change your vote at any time prior to the final tallying of votes by (1) delivering a written notice to Capital One's Corporate Secretary at the address on the Notice of Annual Stockholder Meeting, (2) executing and delivering to the Corporate Secretary a later-dated proxy or (3) attending the meeting and voting in person.

If you hold Capital One stock in street name through a broker, bank or other nominee, you will need to obtain a proxy form from the institution that holds your shares if you wish to vote in person at the annual meeting.

Can I vote by telephone or via the Internet?

Instead of submitting your vote on the enclosed paper proxy card, you can vote by telephone or electronically via the Internet. See Internet and Telephone Voting on page 33 of this proxy statement for additional information. The telephone and Internet voting procedures are designed to authenticate your identity, to allow you to vote your shares or give voting instructions, and to confirm that your instructions have been properly recorded. Please note that there are separate telephone and Internet voting arrangements depending upon whether your shares are registered in your own name through Capital One's stock transfer agent, EquiServe Trust Company, N.A. (EquiServe), or held in street name through a broker, bank or other nominee.

How do I vote my 401(k) shares?

If you participate in the Capital One Associate Savings Plan (the Savings Plan), you may vote the number of shares of common stock equivalent to your interest in the Capital One Pooled Stock Fund as credited to your account on the record date. You may vote by giving instructions to American Express Trust Company, the trustee, via the voting instruction card being mailed with this proxy statement to plan participants, by telephone or via the Internet. The trustee will vote your shares in accordance with your duly executed instructions received by April 23, 2003. If you do not send instructions, the trustee will not vote the share equivalents credited to your account.

Can I get Capital One's annual meeting materials delivered to me electronically next year?

If you vote electronically via the Internet, you can consent to electronic delivery of future Capital One proxy statements, proxy cards and annual reports by responding affirmatively to the request for your consent when prompted. See Electronic Delivery of Future Annual Meeting Materials on page 35 of this proxy statement for additional information. If you consent and Capital One delivers some or all of its future annual meeting materials to you by electronic mail or by posting materials to the Internet, you will not receive paper copies of these materials through the mail in the future. Because electronic delivery could save Capital One a significant portion of the costs associated with printing and mailing materials, we encourage you to consent to electronic delivery.

Table of Contents

What vote is necessary to approve each item?

Votes will be tabulated by the Inspector of Elections. The Board of Directors has appointed a representative of EquiServe to serve as the Inspector of Elections.

Item 1 on the proxy card requests your vote for the two directors who are up for election this year. You may cast or withhold your vote for each of the nominees. The affirmative vote of a plurality of the votes cast at the meeting is required to elect directors. An abstention, therefore, will not be voted with respect to the director indicated, although it will be counted for purposes of determining whether there is a quorum.

Item 2, the ratification of the selection of Ernst & Young LLP as independent auditors for 2003, and Item 3, the consideration of a stockholder proposal, will be approved if the holders of a majority of the shares present at the annual meeting in person or represented by proxy vote in favor of Item 2 or Item 3, as appropriate. Abstentions, therefore, have the same effect as a vote against the proposal.

Under New York Stock Exchange rules, if you hold your shares through a broker and you do not submit a proxy, your broker will have discretionary authority to vote your shares according to the recommendations of Capital One's Board of Directors for each Item presented at the annual meeting.

What are the Board's recommendations?

Unless you give other instructions on your proxy card, the people named as proxy holders on the proxy card will vote in accordance with the recommendations of the Board of Directors as follows:

for election of the nominated slate of directors (see page 28);

for ratification of the selection of Ernst & Young LLP as Capital One's independent auditors for 2003 (see page 29); and against the stockholder proposal (see page 30).

With respect to any other matter that properly comes before the meeting, the proxy holders will vote as recommended by the Board of Directors or, if no recommendation is given, at their own discretion.

Board Meetings

The Board of Directors oversees Capital One's business and directs its management. The Board does not involve itself with the day-to-day operations and implementation of the business. Instead, the Board meets periodically with management to review Capital One's performance and its future business strategy. Members of the Board also regularly consult with management to keep informed about Capital One's progress. The full Board of Directors met twelve times during 2002. Each director attended at least 75% of the aggregate of the meetings of the Board and the committees on which he served during the year, except Mr. Kimsey, who attended approximately 72%.

Committee Meetings

The Board also conducts business through three committees: the Audit Committee, the Compensation Committee and the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee. The Audit Committee met twelve times, the Compensation Committee met six times and the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee met twice during 2002.

Table of Contents

The Audit Committee

Members: Messrs. Dietz (Chairman), Flick and Gross. The Audit Committee assists the Board of Directors in monitoring various financial, internal controls and risk areas, including: the integrity of Capital One's financial statements and internal controls; Capital One's compliance with legal and regulatory requirements; the qualifications, independence and performance of Capital One's independent auditor; and the performance of Capital One's internal auditor. The Audit Committee also monitors Capital One's risk assessment and risk management activities, as well as its capital, liquidity and funding positions. All three members of the Audit Committee are independent under current and proposed rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the New York Stock Exchange. In addition, all three members of the Audit Committee have been designated by the Board of Directors as financial experts under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and rules of the SEC thereunder. The Board of Directors and the Audit Committee approved an amended and restated Charter for the Audit Committee in March 2003, which is filed as Appendix A to this Proxy Statement.

The Compensation Committee

Members: Messrs. Westreich (Chairman), Kimsey and Dietz. The Compensation Committee recommends officers for election or re-election and approves all salary levels and incentive awards for executive officers, subject to the Board's approval of compensation for Messrs. Fairbank and Morris. The Compensation Committee also administers Capital One's 1994 Stock Incentive Plan, 1999 Stock Incentive Plan, 2002 Non-Employee Directors Stock Incentive Plan and Associate Stock Purchase Plans, and makes recommendations to the full Board on incentive-compensation plans and equity-based plans, including those that may provide for awards to Messrs. Compensation of the Board

Annual Fees and Option Grants

Directors who are not employees of Capital One receive a retainer of $35,000 each year, options to purchase 21,900 shares every three years, and reimbursement of their expenses to attend meetings. They do not receive any additional fees for attending meetings or for being members of a committee, other than reimbursement of taxes arising from certain income attributable to them in connection with the Board's annual offsite meeting.

On November 7, 2002, each non-employee director received a grant of 60,000 options to purchase shares of Capital One common stock, to reflect additional demands on the director for service through April 2005. The options vest over a three-year period ending in 2005, and were granted at an exercise price of $31.765, which was the common stock's fair market value on the date of grant (determined on the basis of the average of the high and low sales prices as reported by the New York Stock Exchange Composite Transaction Tape). Additionally, in 2001 each non-employee director agreed to give up his retainer and stock options for the years 2002, 2003 and 2004 in exchange for a one-time grant of performance-based options to purchase 61,000 shares of Capital One's common stock under the 1999 Directors Plan. These options were granted on October 18, 2001 and have an exercise price of $48.535, which was the common stock's fair market value on that date. These options will vest on October 18, 2010, or earlier under the following circumstances: (i) immediately upon a change of control of Capital One; (ii) 20 days after Capital One achieves cumulative earnings per share of $5.03 or more in four consecutive fiscal quarters on or before December 31, 2004, or (iii) if Capital One's common stock achieves the following fair market value for any five (5) trading days on or before the following dates:

October 18, 2004	$ 83.87
October 18, 2005	$ 100.64
October 18, 2006	$ 120.77
October 18, 2007	$ 144.92
October 18, 2008	$ 173.91
October 18, 2009	$ 208.70
October 18, 2010	$ 250.43

If a director ceases to serve as a director before the annual stockholder meeting in 2005, he will relinquish a pro rata portion of any unvested options based on the number of full years he has served as a director since April 2002. The options are generally exercisable until the earlier of October 18, 2011 or three years after the director ceases to serve as a director, but may terminate sooner if the director dies or ceases to serve as a director before the options become fully exercisable.

Directors who are employees of Capital One receive no additional compensation for their service as directors.

Other Benefits

Under our 1994 Deferred Compensation Plan, directors who are not employees of Capital One may voluntarily defer all of their annual fees and receive deferred income benefits. Director's accounts are credited monthly with an interest equivalent in an amount determined from time to time by Capital One. Directors electing this deferral will begin to receive their deferred income benefits in cash when they cease to be directors, or earlier if authorized by the Compensation Committee. Benefits are generally payable in monthly installments beginning within 90 days after retirement and extending no later than the date the individual reaches age 80. If a director dies before he receives these benefits, they will be paid to his beneficiaries or estates. Upon a change of control of Capital One and unless otherwise directed by a director, Capital One shall pay to each director within thirty days of the change of control, a lump sum cash payment equal to such director's account balance as of the date of the change of control.

Related Party Transactions

From time to time, Capital One has retained American Management Systems, Inc., a consulting company specializing in information technology, applications and systems integration, to provide certain services. Mr. Gross, a director of Capital One, was a director and principal executive officer of AMS until November 24, 2002 and remains a Senior Advisor to AMS. Capital One and its subsidiaries entered into an agreement with AMS on April 5, 1995. Under this agreement, AMS agreed to perform general consulting and other tasks agreed to through work orders. During 2002, Capital One paid AMS a total of $194,428 for services under this agreement. Capital One intends to continue its relationship with AMS in the future and believes that the terms of existing AMS agreements are, and that any future arrangements will be, fair and reasonable and no less favorable to Capital One than those we could obtain from unrelated third parties.

The Board of Directors has reviewed the arrangement between Capital One and AMS and has determined in its business judgment that it did not interfere with Mr. Gross' exercise of independent judgment as a member of the Audit Committee. In discharging its responsibility for making this determination under the New York Stock Exchange listing standards, the Board of Directors considered, among other factors, the materiality of the relationship to Capital One, to Mr. Gross, and to AMS.

David M. Willey was Capital One's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer until he resigned on March 3, 2003. His spouse was employed during 2002 as a Vice President of Capital One. During 2002, Mr. Willey's spouse resigned from her position and forfeited certain options which had not yet vested in accordance with the terms of her option agreements. Vesting and/or exercise of other options was extended consistent with Capital One's separation practices. Mr. Willey's spouse had been employed by Capital One or its predecessor since 1990. During 2002, Mr. Willey's spouse earned a total salary and bonus of approximately $593,713. She also received 4,683 options to purchase stock. From time to time, Mr. Willey's spouse has exercised stock options that have been granted to her during the course of her career with Capital One. Capital One believes that she has been compensated fairly and reasonably for her services as compared to similarly situated executives at Capital One.

- (1) The dollar amounts under these columns are calculated based on assumed rates of stock appreciation prescribed by the SEC and are not intended to be a forecast of possible future stock price appreciation.
- (2) Equal to the fair market value of the common stock on the date of grant determined on the basis of the average of the high and low sales prices as reported by the New York Stock Exchange Composite Transaction Tape.
- (3) These options are time-based options that vest in equal annual increments over three years, are transferable only to or for the benefit of immediate family members and have a reload feature.
- (4) These options are reload options that were granted under the 1994 Stock Incentive Plan. Reload options are granted at the time an executive officer surrenders shares of common stock that have been owned for at least six months as payment for the exercise price of a previously granted option. One reload option with an exercise price equal to the fair market value on the date of grant is issued for each such share surrendered. Rather than enhance his or her holdings, reload options are intended to enable an associate who exercises an option by tendering previously owned shares to remain in the same economic position, or equity position, with respect to potential appreciation in the common stock as if he or she had continued to hold the original option unexercised. As such, reload options meet Capital One's objective of fostering continued stock ownership by our associates, but the receipt of reload options by an associate does not result in a net increase in his or her equity position. Reload options are exercisable, in full, six months after their grant date and immediately upon a change of control. Reload options do not have a reload feature.

Table of ContentsOption Exercise and Option Value Table

The following table sets forth information concerning exercises of stock options made by the Named Executive Officers in 2002 and the values of unexercised options held by the Named Executive Officers at 2002 year end.

Dennis H. Liberson	44,106	$ 1,244,967	294,510/505,857	$945,227/$0

- (1) The value realized is the net value of the shares (market price less the exercise price) received.
- (2) In-the-Money Options are those for which the 2002 year-end market price of the underlying shares of common stock exceeded the exercise price of the option. The value of the In-the-Money Options is the difference between the market price (determined on the basis of the average of the high and low sales prices as reported by the New York Stock Exchange Composite Transaction Tape on the last business day of 2002) of the common stock ($30.00 per share) and the exercise price of the option multiplied by the number of shares underlying the option.

Company Arrangements with Executive OfficersEmployment Agreements

Capital One does not have employment agreements with any of its executive officers, except for Mr. Lawson. The compensation arrangements with these other officers encourage their continued employment with Capital One. Mr. Lawson's arrangement is automatically renewable on an annual basis unless terminated upon 30 days' notice by either party and provides, for 2003, an annual base salary of $252,000 and a target bonus of up to 50% of that amount, plus the grant, in 1998, of an option to purchase 16,000 shares of Capital One stock. The agreement contains provisions addressing termination procedures, non-disclosure, non-solicitation and non-competition as well as third party rights under the contract.

Change of Control Employment Agreements

All of the executive officers identified on pages 7 and 8 of Information About Our Directors and Executive Officers have change of control employment agreements. The agreements are designed to ensure that if a change of control of Capital One occurs, our business will continue with minimal disruption because these agreements provide greater employment security to key operational and management executives. A change of control will occur if one or more of the following events take place: (i) an acquisition of 20% (or, if shares are purchased from Capital One, 40%) or more of Capital One's common stock or the combined voting power of the voting securities by a person or group, (ii) certain changes in the majority of the Board of Directors, (iii) certain mergers involving Capital One, or (iv) the liquidation, dissolution or sale of all or substantially all of Capital One's assets.

Table of Contents

The agreements with Messrs. Fairbank, Morris and Finneran entitle them to receive (i) their base salary and a pro rata bonus through the date of termination, (ii) a lump sum payment of three times their current annual salary and highest recent bonus, (iii) any deferred compensation and accrued vacation not yet paid and (iv) certain retirement and welfare benefits, if within three years after the change of control (or within one year prior to and in anticipation of the change of control) they are terminated without cause, or if they voluntarily leave for good reason (which includes leaving for any reason during the 30-day period beginning one year after a change of control). Any cash payments attributable to salary or bonus will be net of amounts previously foregone (if any) in exchange for Capital One stock options. The agreements also provide a tax gross-up feature to cover excise or similar taxes (including excise taxes and income taxes imposed upon the gross-up payment) that the officer may have to pay resulting from payments received or options that vest due to a change of control.

All other executive officers identified on pages 7 and 8 of Information About Our Directors and Executive Officers have change of control agreements that entitle them to receive (i) their base salary and a pro rata bonus through the date of termination, (ii) a lump sum payment of two (or, in the case of Messrs. Crawford and Lawson, one and one-half) times their current annual salary and highest recent bonus, (iii) any deferred compensation and accrued vacation not yet paid and (iv) certain retirement and welfare benefits, if within two years (or, in the case of Messrs. Crawford and Lawson, within 18 months) after the change of control (or within one year prior to and in anticipation of the change of control) they are terminated without cause, or if they voluntarily leave for good reason. Any cash payments attributable to salary or bonus will be net of amounts previously foregone (if any) in exchange for Capital One stock options. The change of control agreements also provide a tax gross-up feature to cover excise or similar taxes (including excise taxes and income taxes imposed upon the gross-up payment) that the officer may have to pay resulting from payments received or options that vest due to a change of control. All of Capital One's equity-based awards will vest immediately if a change of control, as defined in the applicable stock incentive plan, occurs.

Pension PlansGeneral

In 1995, Capital One made a number of changes to its pension and deferred compensation plans. Among the changes were that we stopped making further pay-based contributions to Capital One's cash balance pension plan (the Cash Balance Pension Plan) and the related excess cash balance pension plan (the Excess Cash Balance Plan). Capital One also eliminated the Executive Employees Supplemental Retirement Plan and the ability of executive officers to defer compensation under the 1994 Deferred Compensation Plan.

Cash Balance Pension Plan and Excess Cash Balance Plan

Before each was amended in November 1995, Capital One offered a Cash Balance Pension Plan and an Excess Cash Balance Pension Plan to all full-time salaried associates and certain executive officers, respectively, of Capital One and its subsidiaries. The Cash Balance Pension Plan is a type of defined benefit plan intended to qualify under Section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, under which participants were credited with certain pay-based credits for all annual paid compensation up to $150,000, as indexed for cost of living increases. The Excess Cash Balance Plan provided additional benefits to participants to the extent benefits under the Cash Balance Pension Plan were restricted because of limitations imposed by provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

In November 1995, Capital One amended the Cash Balance Pension Plan and the Excess Cash Balance Plan to eliminate further pay-based credits to participants as of December 31, 1995, and to provide that there would be no new participants in such plans on or after January 1, 1996. Interest credits continue to be credited on plan balances on a quarterly basis. Based on account balances as of January 1, 2003, the projected annual retirement benefits under the Cash Balance Pension Plan and the Excess Cash Balance Plan, respectively, are $3,799 and $9,356 for Mr. Fairbank; $3,793 and $4,970 for Mr. Morris; $2,712 and $1,508 for Mr. Finneran; and $1,838 and $76 for Mr. Liberson. Messrs. Fairbank and Morris are currently credited with fourteen years of service under the plans; Messrs. Finneran and Liberson are currently credited with eight and seven years of service under the plans, respectively. These projected benefits assume interest credits under the Cash Balance Plan to be 4.77% per annum and under the Excess Cash Balance Plan to be 4.75% per annum.

In lieu of the pay-based credits under the Cash Balance Pension Plan and the Excess Cash Balance Plan, beginning January 1, 1996, Capital One began making automatic contributions equal to 3% of an associate's eligible compensation to the associate's account in the Savings Plan and, if applicable, the Excess Savings Plan.

Since the initial stockholder approval of this Plan, the Board increased by 25,500,000, in the aggregate, the number of shares of common stock that may be issued with respect to awards granted pursuant to the plan, 2,329,860 of which remain available for issuance as of December 31, 2002. Description of Non-Stockholder Approved Equity Compensation Plans Set forth below is a brief description of the material features of each Capital One equity compensation plan that was adopted without the approval of Capital One's stockholders and that was in effect as of December 31, 2002.

1999 Stock Incentive Plan

The 1999 Stock Incentive Plan (the "1999 SIP") was adopted by the Board on April 29, 1999. Under the plan, Capital One has reserved 600,000 shares of Capital One common stock for issuance in the form of non-qualified stock options. The number of shares available for issuance under the plan includes shares granted under the plan subject to options that expire or otherwise terminate unexercised and shares surrendered by a participant or retained by Capital One in payment of applicable exercise price or tax withholding liabilities. Shares issued pursuant to the plan may consist of authorized, but unissued, shares or treasury shares.

Stock options may be granted under the 1999 SIP to all employees and consultants of Capital One. The exercise price of stock options granted under the plan may not be less than the fair market value, as defined in the 1999 SIP, of Capital One common stock on the date of grant. The maximum term of each stock option is ten years. All options granted under the plan to date were granted on April 29, 1999 and expire on April 29, 2009. These options vested immediately upon the optionee's execution of an intellectual property protection agreement with Capital One.

The plan is administered by a committee consisting solely of two or more non-employee directors of Capital One as determined by the Board (the "Committee"). The Committee may, in its discretion, grant options which by their terms become fully exercisable upon a change of control, as defined in the 1999 SIP, of Capital One. The Committee may also, in its discretion, grant options containing, or amend options previously granted to provide for, a reload feature. Reload options are granted at the time a participant surrenders shares of common stock that have been owned for at least six months as payment for the exercise price of previously granted options. The Committee has retained the right to cancel any awards outstanding under the plan in exchange for a cash payment equal to any such award's value as of the date of cancellation.

1999 Non-Employee Director Stock Incentive Plan

The 1999 Non-Employee Director Stock Incentive Plan (the 1999 Director Plan) was adopted by the Board on April 29, 1999, and was most recently amended on September 19, 2002. The plan authorizes a maximum of 825,000 shares of Capital One's common stock for the grant of non-qualified stock options, restricted stock and deferred stock to members of the Board who are not otherwise, at the time an award is granted, an employee of Capital One or any subsidiary of Capital One. The number of shares available for issuance under the plan includes shares granted under the plan subject to options that expire or otherwise terminate unexercised and shares forfeited pursuant to restrictions on restricted stock or deferred stock. Shares issued pursuant to the plan are treasury shares. The plan is administered by the Board.

The exercise price of stock options granted under the plan may not be less than the fair market value, as defined in the 1999 Director Plan, of Capital One common stock on the date of grant. The maximum term of each stock option is ten years and vesting schedules are determined at the time of grant. The Board may, in its discretion, grant options that by their terms become fully exercisable upon a change of control, as defined in the 1999 Director Plan.

The Board may award restricted stock to eligible directors. During the restricted period, a director may not dispose of any restricted shares and must forfeit any restricted shares granted to such director, if he or she ceases to be a member of the Board. The Board has the authority to establish the terms and conditions upon which these restrictions will lapse. The Board may also, at any time, accelerate the time at which any or all restrictions will lapse or remove any and all such restrictions. Subject to any applicable restrictions, a participant who receives an award of restricted stock shall have all of the rights of a stockholder with respect to the shares subject to the award, including but not limited to the right to vote the shares and the right to receive all dividends and other distributions paid with respect to the shares.

The Board may award deferred stock to eligible directors under the plan. The Board has the authority to establish, in its discretion, the length of the deferral period, any restrictions with respect to an award of deferred stock and the terms and conditions upon which restrictions, if any, shall lapse.

The Board has retained the right to cancel any awards outstanding under the plan in exchange for a cash payment equal to any such award's value as of the date of cancellation.

2002 Non-Executive Officer Stock Incentive Plan

The 2002 Non-Executive Officer Stock Incentive Plan (the 2002 Plan) was adopted by the Board on January 17, 2002. Under the 2002 Plan, 8,500,000 shares of Capital One common stock have been reserved for issuance with respect to the grant of non-qualified stock options, stock appreciation rights, restricted stock or incentive stock. The number of shares available for issuance under the plan includes shares subject to options or stand-alone stock appreciation rights granted under the plan that expire or otherwise terminate unexercised, shares forfeited pursuant to restrictions on restricted stock or incentive stock and shares surrendered by a participant or retained by Capital One in payment of the exercise price of an option or applicable tax withholding liabilities. The plan is administered by a committee (the Committee) consisting solely of at least two non-employee directors of Capital One.

All current and future employees of Capital One or its subsidiaries that the Committee determines have contributed or can be expected to contribute to the profit and growth of Capital One are eligible to receive awards under the plan, except for Capital One's executive officers (generally, those subject to Section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended).

The exercise price of stock options granted under the plan may not be less than the fair market value, as defined in the 2002 Plan, of Capital One common stock on the date of grant. The maximum term of each stock option is ten years and vesting schedules are determined at the time of grant. The Committee may, in its discretion, grant options that by their terms become fully exercisable upon a change of control, as defined in the 2002 Plan. The Committee may also, in its discretion, grant options containing, or amend options previously granted to provide for, a reload feature. Reload options are granted at the time a participant surrenders shares of common stock that have been owned for at least six months as payment for the exercise price of previously granted options.

The Committee may award tandem or stand-alone stock appreciation rights. The Committee may impose such conditions upon the exercise of stock appreciation rights as it deems appropriate and may also limit the amount which can be received when a stock appreciation right is exercised. With respect to tandem stock appreciation rights, such rights will only be exercisable to the extent that the related option is exercisable and shall expire no later than the date on which the related option expires. In addition, a tandem stock appreciation right may only be exercised at a time when the fair market value of Capital One common stock covered by such right exceeds the exercise price of the Capital One common stock covered by the underlying option. With respect to stand-alone stock appreciation rights, the exercise price of shares of Capital One common stock covered by such rights cannot be less than 100% of the fair market value of such shares on the date of grant. The Committee may, in its discretion, grant stand-alone stock appreciation rights that by their terms become fully exercisable upon a change of control. A stand-alone stock appreciation right may only be exercised at a time when the fair market value of the Capital One common stock covered by such right exceeds the exercise price of the stand-alone stock appreciation right. All stock appreciation rights may be settled by payment of cash, stock or a combination thereof, in the Committee's discretion.

The Board may award restricted stock to eligible employees. During the restricted period, a participant may not dispose of any restricted shares and must forfeit any restricted shares granted to such participant if he or she ceases to be employed by Capital One. The Committee has the authority to establish as to each share of restricted stock issued, the terms and conditions upon which the restrictions will lapse. The Board may also, at any time, accelerate the time at which any or all restrictions will lapse or remove any and all such restrictions. Subject to any applicable restrictions, a participant who receives an award of restricted stock shall have all of the rights of a shareholder with respect to the shares subject to the award, including but not limited to the right to vote the shares and the right to receive all dividends and other distributions paid with respect to the shares.

The Committee may establish performance programs with fixed goals and designate employees as eligible to receive incentive stock if, and when, the goals are achieved. A participant who is eligible to receive incentive stock has no rights as a shareholder until incentive shares are received.

The Committee has retained the right to cancel any awards outstanding under the plan in exchange for a cash payment equal to any such award's value on the date of cancellation.

2002 Associate Stock Purchase Plan

The 2002 Associate Stock Purchase Plan (the ASPP) was adopted by the Board on September 19, 2002. Under the ASPP, Capital One has reserved 3,000,000 shares of Capital One common stock for the purpose of employee purchases. These shares may consist of newly issued shares, treasury shares or shares acquired on the open market. The ASPP is administered by a committee consisting of not less than two non-employee directors appointed by the Board.

Table of Contents

All current and future employees of Capital One are eligible to participate in the ASPP. Each eligible employee may elect regular, monthly payroll deductions of up to 15% of such employee's base compensation for that payroll period to be used to purchase shares of Capital One common stock at monthly intervals. Eligible employees may also elect to make a lump-sum cash contribution (provided that the total of the payroll deductions and such contributions for any calendar quarter do not exceed 15% of an employee's base compensation for such period) to be used to purchase shares at the end of each calendar quarter. The purchase price for all share purchases is equal to 85% of the fair market value of shares of Capital One common stock on the date of purchase. Purchased shares will be held in an investment account established on behalf of each participating employee. Participating employees are also entitled to sell the shares held in their accounts, subject to federal securities laws.

Performance Graph

The following graph compares cumulative total stockholder return on our common stock with the S&P Composite 500 Stock Index and an industry index, the S&P Financial Composite Index, for the period from December 31, 1997 to December 31, 2002. The graph assumes that the value of the investment in the common stock and each index was $100 at December 31, 1997 and that all dividends were reinvested. The stock price performance on the graph below is not necessarily indicative of future performance.

REPORT OF THE COMPENSATION COMMITTEE

ON EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

As the Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors, we offer this report to describe the compensation philosophy and policies underlying our recommendations to the Board of Directors for the 2002 compensation package of Capital One's executive officers generally and the Chief Executive Officer and the President and Chief Operating Officer more specifically.

Compensation Philosophy

We have designed and adopted a compensation strategy to recruit and retain top executive talent. We believe that executive compensation should be market based and aligned with long-term stockholder value. Our executive officer compensation program is therefore heavily focused on equity-based compensation. In 2002 we used stock options and, other than for the Chief Executive Officer and the President and Chief Operating Officer, restricted stock as the principal vehicles for compensating our executive officers. As a result, our compensation packages reward the accomplishments of executive officers primarily to the extent such accomplishments create stockholder wealth and earnings performance, which we believe in the long run drives stockholder wealth. We believe that such a stock-based program best aligns the interests of executive officers with the interests of stockholders and therefore is in the best interests of Capital One and its stockholders. We expect to continue to rely heavily on stock-based compensation in 2003 and onward to the extent it is prudent in light of market and business opportunities. We also believe that Capital One's compensation program must maintain the flexibility to respond rapidly to market conditions. Accordingly, from time to time we have adjusted both the cash and long-term incentive components of our compensation program to maintain management's alignment with stockholder interests, to enhance recruitment and retention and to promote Capital One's business strategies.

Methodology for Determining Compensation

Compensation Comparators. In determining the overall amount of compensation to be paid to our executive officers in 2002, we considered the compensation paid to similar executives within (i) those organizations against whom Capital One competes to recruit executive officers, (ii) companies in the financial services sector generally, and (iii) other credit card companies.

Surveys. We reviewed surveys, published by leading compensation consulting firms, showing compensation levels for executive officers in the group of comparable companies, and information presented by our independent compensation consultants.

Entrepreneurial Approach. To support an entrepreneurial approach, we developed a compensation package that emphasizes the use of stock-based incentives. In making the decision on how to structure the compensation package for our executive officers during 2002, we considered the balance between the leverage and risks of stock options and restricted stock. We included both components in our executive compensation in 2002 in recognition of our sustained and strong company performance since our initial public offering in 1994 as well as to provide long-term performance incentives. Further, we believe that both components enhance retention.

A combination of long-term, performance-based and time-based stock options have been the only form of compensation for our Chief Executive Officer and our President and Chief Operating Officer since 1997. Most recently, in 2001, they agreed to forego all salary, bonus, and annual option grants through 2003 in exchange for additional stock options granted in 2001.

Other Factors. In developing our equity-based compensation programs, we also review and consider the effect of share overhang, which is defined as the number of unvested and/or unexercised equity-based awards outstanding plus shares available for future grants, expressed as a percent of total common shares outstanding. We track the share overhang resulting from all of Capital One's equity-based compensation programs and consider the potential dilutive effect on stockholders of any awards made under the programs.

Table of Contents

We regularly review and consider, in making any equity-based compensation decisions, the percentage of such awards that are made to our most senior executives to ensure that all of our associates are appropriately incented to help achieve our business strategy and therefore promote shareholder value. We also regularly review and design our equity-based programs to include elements such as restricted stock and incentive stock options to encourage executive officers and associates to retain ownership of Capital One common stock. We believe that an important element of aligning executive management's interests with stockholder interests is for executives to own a meaningful amount of stock to experience firsthand the rewards and the risks that owning our stock might have.

Components of the Executive Officer Compensation Program

In 2002, executive officers, other than the Chief Executive Officer and the President and Chief Operating Officer, were eligible to receive compensation in three forms:

base salary;

annual cash incentive awards that vary with performance; and stock-based incentives in the form of annual grants of stock options and restricted stock.

Capital One targets the total compensation (base salary, annual cash incentive and stock-based incentives) for its executive officers at the 75th percentile of similar groups of executive officers at competing companies commensurate with performance.

Base Salary. Aggregate salaries for executive officers are based on the 50th percentile of similar groups of executive officers at competing companies. Individual salaries reflect the officer's scope of responsibility, prior experience and accomplishments, and other individual factors, as well as market data on salary levels for comparable positions. Base salaries are adjusted annually based on subjective evaluation of various factors including individual performance and time in the job. Capital One expects to adhere rigorously to the 50th percentile level for aggregate executive officer salaries and therefore adjustments in targeted base salaries will be limited only to amounts necessary to maintain such level.

Annual Cash Incentives. The compensation program also provides executive officers with annual cash incentive awards based on individual and corporate performance criteria. The annual cash incentive target in 2002 was 87% of the base salary amount such that expected total cash compensation (base salary and annual cash incentives) for the executive officer group is at approximately the 65th percentile of similar groups of executive officers at competing companies. Actual cash incentive awards are determined based on a combination of corporate and individual performance and may be greater or less than the targeted annual incentive. Annual incentives can exceed 300% of base salary when performance exceeds the targeted criteria. Performance below the threshold level can result in no award.

Individual performance is based on subjective evaluations of factors similar to the criteria specified above for adjustments in base salaries. Our measurement of corporate performance has two components: one based on our annual growth in earnings per share and another comparing this annual growth in earnings per share to the median for the companies comprising the Standard & Poor's 500 Index.

In 2002, annual cash incentives for executive officers generally exceeded the target amounts largely because Capital One's earnings per share grew by 35% in 2002 compared to median earnings per share growth of approximately 11% for companies comprising the Standard & Poor's 500 Index.

Stock-Based Awards. Executive officers earn stock-based awards as part of their long-term incentive compensation. Stock-based awards may, from time to time, consist of stock options, restricted stock or stock appreciation rights. In 2002, stock-based awards to executive officers were made in the form of stock options and shares of restricted stock. Stock options are granted with an exercise price equal to or greater than the market price on the grant date and therefore have no economic value unless Capital One's stock price increases. Typically, stock options become exercisable in one-third increments on the first, second and third anniversaries of the grant date. Restricted stock generally becomes freely transferable in full on the third anniversary of the grant date. All of Capital One's equity-based awards will vest immediately if a change of control, as defined in the 1994 Stock Incentive Plan, occurs. Given Capital One's emphasis on stock options and restricted stock in the overall compensation package, an executive officer's total compensation will be highly dependent on the performance of Capital One's common stock. This compensation component is intended to encourage individual commitment to corporate business strategies and to focus executive officers on improving stock performance over the long term.

Individual grants are determined by reference to competitively defined stock-based award targets. Actual grant levels are further influenced by individual performance. In evaluating individual performance, we consider an executive officer's responsibilities, recent performance and accomplishments, and the expected future contribution of the officer to Capital One's performance. We determine individual performance based on a subjective evaluation of these factors.

EntrepreneurGrants. To link management's interest more closely with that of Capital One's stockholders and to retain our executive officer team, we have developed a series of stock option grants under which executive officers and other members of senior management can elect to give up some form of compensation in exchange for additional stock option grants. These additional grants are generally referred to as EntrepreneurGrants. EntrepreneurGrants have been designed with the aid of our independent consultants to resemble the compensation structures of highly entrepreneurial companies and are highly dependent on the long-term performance of Capital One's common stock over a minimum of three years.

Capital One has sponsored five separate EntrepreneurGrant programs for its executive officers, including the Chief Executive Officer and the President and Chief Operating Officer, beginning in 1995. Generally, executive officers have been given the chance to forego a portion of their future salaries, cash bonuses or annual stock option grants, or all three, in exchange for stock options with an exercise price not less than the fair market value of Capital One's stock on the date of grant. These stock options had either an annual vesting schedule, a cliff vest on a future date, performance-based vesting if Capital One's stock price or earnings per share growth reached and remained at a pre-determined level within a specified timeframe, or a combination of those features.

EntrepreneurGrants with performance-based vesting criteria have generally set the target stock price or earnings per share growth to represent an average increase of 20% annually from the date of grant through the vesting deadline. Three of the five EntrepreneurGrant programs have achieved either their target or their final vesting date and have therefore vested. Participation rates in our EntrepreneurGrants have historically exceeded 85%, with an overall 89% participation rate in our most recent EntrepreneurGrant in October 2001. The participation rate for executive officers in the most recent EntrepreneurGrant was 100%.

Compensation of the Chief Executive Officer and the President and Chief Operating Officer.

Mr. Fairbank, our Chief Executive Officer, and Mr. Morris, our President and Chief Operating Officer, received no cash salary, cash incentive or annual stock-based incentive for their services during 2002. Instead, in 2001, Messrs. Fairbank and Morris elected under our EntrepreneurGrant programs to forego their entire salary, cash incentive and annual stock option grants for 2002 and 2003 in exchange for a combination of standard time-based stock options and long-term stock options with performance-based accelerators. In this way, we believe that the interests of our top executives have been aligned directly with the long-term interests of our stockholders.

Deductibility of Compensation Expenses

Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code provides that compensation that is paid to the chief executive officer or to any of the four most highly compensated executive officers (other than the chief executive officer) in excess of $1 million is generally not deductible by Capital One for federal income tax purposes unless it qualifies as performance-based compensation. To qualify as performance-based under Section 162(m), compensation payments must be made from a plan that is administered by a committee of outside directors and must be based on the achievement of objective performance goals. In addition, the material terms of the plan must be disclosed to and approved by stockholders, and the Committee must certify that the performance goals have been achieved. Committee certification is not required, however, if the compensation is attributable solely to the increase in the value of Capital One's stock. Accordingly, the Committee expects that stock options and restricted stock awards made under our equity-based compensation plans should qualify as performance-based compensation under Section 162(m).

The Committee has considered the impact of this tax code provision in designing Capital One's compensation plans. While certain annual cash incentive amounts were nondeductible in 2002 with respect to compensation paid to certain of our executive officers, we believe it is more important to have executive officers focused on the business opportunities afforded by Capital One's information-based strategies than to use inappropriate measures to capture the benefits of the tax deduction. Accordingly, the Committee has and intends in the future to take such steps as it deems reasonably practicable to manage the impact of Section 162(m).

REPORT OF THE AUDIT COMMITTEE

The Audit Committee's amended and restated charter was approved by Committee on March 6, 2003 and by the full Board of Directors on March 10, 2003. A copy of the Audit Committee's charter is attached as Appendix A to this Proxy Statement.

In accordance with its charter, the Audit Committee assists the Board in fulfilling its responsibility for oversight of the quality and integrity of Capital One's accounting, auditing, internal controls, risk management and financial reporting practices. The Audit Committee's primary responsibilities can be classified as assisting the Board in monitoring four broad categories:

first, the integrity of Capital One's financial statements and internal controls;

second, Capital One's compliance with legal and regulatory requirements;

third, the qualifications, independence and performance of Capital One's independent and internal auditors; and fourth, the performance of Capital One's internal auditor.

The Audit Committee has implemented procedures to ensure that it devotes the attention it deems necessary or appropriate to each of the matters assigned to it under its charter. In carrying out its responsibilities, the Audit Committee met twelve times during 2002.

In discharging its oversight responsibility, the Audit Committee has reviewed and discussed Capital One's audited financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2002 with management and Ernst & Young LLP, our independent auditors. The Audit Committee has also discussed with Ernst & Young the matters required to be discussed by Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61 (Codification for Statements on Auditing Standards). In addition, the Audit Committee has received the written disclosures and the letter from Ernst & Young required by Independence Standards Board Statement No. 1 (Independence Discussions with Audit Committees) and has discussed Ernst & Young's independence with Ernst & Young. Based on its review and discussions with management and Ernst & Young, and pursuant to a delegation of authority from the Board of Directors, the Audit Committee has approved the inclusion of the audited financial statements in our annual report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2002 for filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

(Item 1 on the Proxy Card)

The Board of Directors is divided into three classes. At each annual meeting the term of one class expires. Directors in each class are elected to serve for three-year terms. At the 2001 annual meeting, Nigel W. Morris and W. Ronald Dietz were elected to serve on the Board of Directors for three-year terms expiring at the annual meeting to be held in 2004. At the 2002 annual meeting, James A. Flick, Jr., Patrick W. Gross and James V. Kimsey were elected to serve on the Board of Directors for three-year terms expiring at the annual meeting to be held in 2005. All of the current directors began serving as directors as of the close of business on February 28, 1995, except Mr. Fairbank and Mr. Westreich, who have served as directors since July 26, 1994.

The nominees for re-election this year are Richard D. Fairbank and Stanley I. Westreich. Each has consented to serve a three-year term. Information about the two proposed nominees for election as directors, and about each other current director whose term will continue after the annual meeting, is set forth under Information About Our Directors and Executive Officers starting on page 7 of this proxy statement.

In the event a nominee should not continue to be available for election, the Board may designate a substitute as a nominee. Proxies will be voted for the election of such substitute. As of the date of this proxy statement, the Board of Directors has no reason to believe that any of the nominees will be unable or unwilling to serve.

Directors will be elected by a plurality of the votes cast for the election of directors at the meeting. Cumulative voting is not permitted.

The Board recommends a vote FOR each of these director nominees.

Table of ContentsRATIFICATION OF SELECTION OF INDEPENDENT AUDITORS*(Item 2 on the Proxy Card)

The Audit Committee, pursuant to authority granted to it by the Board of Directors, has selected the firm of Ernst & Young LLP as independent auditors for 2003. The Board is submitting this proposal to the vote of the stockholders in order to ratify the Audit Committee's selection. If stockholders do not ratify the selection of Ernst & Young LLP, the Audit Committee will reconsider the selection of independent auditors.

Capital One has paid or expects to pay the following fees to Ernst & Young LLP for work performed in 2002 and 2001 or attributable to Ernst & Young LLP's audit of Capital One's 2002 and 2001 financial statements:

	2002	2001
	(Amounts in thousands)
Audit Fees	$ 2,013	$ 1,069
Audit-Related Fees	$ 1,594	$ 1,436
Tax Fees	$ 3,116	$ 2,859
All Other Fees	$ 200	$ 148

In January 2003, the SEC released final rules to implement Title II of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (the Sarbanes-Oxley Act). The rules address auditor independence and have modified the proxy fee disclosure requirements. Audit fees include fees for services that normally would be provided by the accountant in connection with statutory and regulatory filings or engagements and that generally only the independent accountant can provide. In addition to fees for an audit or review in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, this category contains fees for comfort letters, statutory audits, consents, and assistance with and review of documents filed with the SEC. Audit-related fees are assurance related services that traditionally are performed by the independent accountant, such as: employee benefit plan audits, due diligence related to mergers and acquisitions, internal control reviews, attest services that are not required by statute or regulation and consultation concerning financial accounting and reporting standards. Tax fees include corporate, international and employee benefit services, in addition to expatriate related services. All Other Fees include an internet security project in 2002 and a cash management project in 2001. There were no amounts paid or incurred for financial information system design and implementation in 2002 or 2001.

The Audit Committee has reviewed the fees paid to Ernst & Young LLP and has considered whether the fees paid for non-audit services are compatible with maintaining Ernst & Young LLP's independence. The Audit Committee has also adopted policies and procedures to approve audit and non-audit services provided in 2003 by Ernst & Young in accordance with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and rules of the SEC promulgated thereunder. These policies and procedures involve annual pre-approval by the Audit Committee of the types of services to be provided by Capital One's independent auditor and fee limits for each type of service on both a per engagement and aggregate level. Additional service engagements that exceed these pre-approved limits must be submitted to the Audit Committee for further pre-approval. The Audit Committee may additionally ratify certain de minimis services provided by the independent auditor without prior Audit Committee approval, as permitted by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and rules of the SEC promulgated thereunder. Capital One will disclose all such approvals by the Audit Committee, as applicable in upcoming years.

Representatives of Ernst & Young LLP are expected to be present at the annual meeting. They will have the opportunity to make a statement if they desire to do so and will be available to respond to appropriate questions.

The affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of common stock present in person or represented by proxy and entitled to vote at the annual meeting is required to ratify the selection of Ernst & Young LLP as independent auditors for 2003. Therefore, abstentions effectively count as votes against this proposal.

The Board recommends a vote FOR the ratification of Ernst & Young LLP as the independent auditors for 2003.

STOCKHOLDER PROPOSAL

(Item 3 on the Proxy Card)

Capital One has been notified that a representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters Pension Fund intends to present the following proposal for consideration at the annual meeting:

Option Expensing Proposal. RESOLVED, that the shareholders of Capital One Financial (Company) hereby request that the Company s Board of Directors establish a policy of expensing in the Company s annual income statement the costs of all future stock options issued by the Company.

Statement of Support. Current accounting rules give companies the choice of reporting stock option expenses annually in the company income statement or as a footnote in the annual report (See: Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement 123). Most companies, including ours, report the cost of stock options as a footnote in the annual report, rather than include the option costs in determining operating income. We believe that expensing stock options would more accurately reflect a company s operational earnings.

Stock options are an important component of our Company s executive compensation program. Options have replaced salary and bonuses as the most significant element of executive pay packages at numerous companies. The lack of option expensing can promote excessive use of options in a company s compensation plans, obscure and understate the cost of executive compensation and promote the pursuit of corporate strategies designed to promote short-term stock price rather than long-term corporate value.

A recent report issued by Standard & Poor s indicated that the expensing of stock option grant costs would have lowered operational earnings at companies by as much as 10%. The failure to expense stock option grants has introduced a significant distortion in reported earnings, stated Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan. Reporting stock options as expenses is a sensible and positive step toward a clearer and more precise accounting of a company s worth. Globe and Mail, Expensing Options Is a Bandwagon Worth Joining, Aug. 16, 2002.

Warren Buffett wrote in a New York Times Op-Ed piece on July 24, 2002:

There is a crisis of confidence today about corporate earnings reports and the credibility of chief executives. And it s justified.

For many years, I ve had little confidence in the earnings numbers reported by most corporations. I m not talking about Enron and WorldCom examples of outright crookedness. Rather, I am referring to the legal, but improper, accounting methods used by chief executives to inflate reported earnings...

Options are a huge cost for many corporations and a huge benefit to executives. No wonder, then, that they have fought ferociously to avoid making a charge against their earnings. Without blushing, almost all C.E.O. s have told their shareholders that options are cost-free...

When a company gives something of value to its employees in return for their services, it is clearly a compensation expense. And if expenses don t belong in the earnings statement, where in the world do they belong?

Many companies have responded to investors concerns about their failure to expense stock options. In recent months, more than 100 companies, including such prominent ones as Coca Cola, Washington Post, and General Electric, have decided to expense stock options in order to provide their shareholders more accurate financial statements. Our Company has yet to act. We urge your support.

CAPITAL ONE'S STATEMENT IN OPPOSITION TO THE STOCKHOLDER PROPOSAL

The Board opposes this proposal.

We believe that expensing options would impair our comparability with other public companies, involve significant estimates, and therefore give a distorted picture of Capital One's financial results. Additionally, evaluations and deliberations by U.S. and international accounting standards boards over accounting models for stock options make adopting this proposal premature. As directors and management of Capital One, we understand and share a concern with you as investors that Capital One's operating earnings and the true cost of its employee and director compensation programs be completely and accurately disclosed in Capital One's financial statements. Moreover, we believe that Capital One's employee compensation programs should serve to align the interests of management with your interests as stockholders. At the same time, we believe that investors have a compelling need for financial statements that permit accurate financial comparisons among companies, whether within an industry, of similar size or based upon certain performance indicators.

We believe that adoption of the proposal at this time is inappropriate for three reasons. First, we believe that expensing options would impair the comparability of our financial statements with those of our peers because this method of accounting for stock options is not used by the vast majority of public companies in the U.S. In addition, adopting this proposal would be premature because both U.S. and international accounting standards are currently seeking public comment on the appropriate model of accounting for stock options. Second, we believe that expensing stock options could result in financial statements that are both confusing and distorted because the methodology is inexact and double-counts the impact of our stock options. Lastly, we believe that adopting the proposal would actually provide you with less information than you have today, because otherwise our SEC filings would contain financial results both before and after expensing options.

I. Expensing Stock Options Undermines the Comparability of our Financial Statements

We believe that adopting an alternative method of accounting for stock options would impair the comparability of our financial statements with those of our peers. While several major companies have announced plans to change their method of accounting for employee stock options to the fair value method, these companies are still a small minority of U.S. public companies.

Current accounting rules permit companies to select either of two alternatives when accounting for stock options: the intrinsic value method or the fair value method. The intrinsic value method, which is the method we currently use, has clear, consistent rules that measure the inherent value of a stock option on its date of grant. Historically, all of our employee stock options have been granted at fair market value, and therefore typically have had zero intrinsic value on the date of grant. As a result, we do not generally recognize an expense in our income statement on the issuance of employee stock options. Three of our EntrepreneurGrants, however, have led to an aggregate expense recognition of $177.5 million over the 1995-2000 period due to their performance-based structure.

In contrast, the fair value method currently allows companies to use a variety of option-pricing models to estimate the fair value of a stock option on its date of grant. The underlying assumptions currently in use are subjective in nature and vary from company to company. These calculations can result in wide variations in the associated expense recorded. Accordingly, we believe that even the financial statements of companies utilizing the fair value method are not necessarily comparable.

Moreover, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB), which sets accounting rules in the United States, has asked for additional public comment on the appropriate model for accounting for stock options. Likewise, the FASB and its international counterpart, which is seeking comment on its own recently issued exposure draft, are currently in discussions to converge global accounting standards. We therefore believe that it is premature to adopt the fair value method at this time due to the ongoing discussions and unknown outcome.

Accordingly, our Board intends to review and monitor the FASB's future actions as well as the accounting policies of our peers and U.S. public companies generally. At this time, however, we believe that the adoption of the fair value method both undermines comparability and is simply premature.

II. Our Current Accounting Practice is More Accurate

We believe that adopting the fair value method of accounting for stock options will result in financial disclosure that is more confusing and less accurate than that currently provided by us. In our opinion, this method will likely present a distorted view of our financial results for two reasons.

First, while the fair value method requires that a company reflect an estimate of the fair value of the stock option as of the date of the grant as an expense on its income statement over the option vesting period, it does not provide for an eventual adjustment to the income statement to reflect the actual expense to the employer at the time the option is exercised. Second, the fair value method does not permit an additional adjustment to reverse the expense if and when options expire without being exercised. We believe these shortcomings may create distortions by over-expensing the options up front without later correcting for actual option activity.

Moreover, stock options require no dissipation of tangible corporate assets. Thus, we believe the cost of options is already reflected in our diluted earnings per share, since option shares are already counted as outstanding shares. To also include the fair value of options as an expense would, we believe, essentially double-count the option cost by subtracting that cost from earnings as well.

We believe our current method, on the other hand, is readily ascertainable, involves no subjective assumptions and does not vary over time. It has no distorting effect caused by asymmetry in its measurements at grant and at exercise, and permits our earnings per share calculations to reflect our true operating performance.

III. We Already Provide Pro Forma Information

Lastly, we already disclose our net income and earnings per share calculated as if the fair value method applied in Notes to our annual Consolidated Financial Statements, and will soon include such footnote disclosure in our quarterly financial statements as well. Therefore, we currently provide you with the information needed to evaluate our earnings both with and without the inclusion of stock options as an expense. We believe that adopting the fair value method would actually provide you with less information than we do currently, and would deprive you of the ability to choose which calculation of earnings per share best permits you to evaluate our financial results.

Conclusion

We share your desire as investors to have conservative, comparable and accurate accounting policies implemented in a manner that provides full information to you and to the market. Consequently, the directors and management believe that, at this time, the certainty and comparability afforded by the continued use of the intrinsic value method of accounting for options, along with additional footnote disclosure regarding the fair value of the stock options expense and calculation of diluted earnings per share, provides you with the most useful tool for valuing stock options in our annual and interim financial statements. We further believe that retaining our current accounting policy for stock options, while monitoring the accounting policies of our peers and awaiting potential future actions of the FASB, best achieves the objectives of clarity and transparency in our financial statements.

The Board recommends that the stockholders vote AGAINST this proposal.

Capital One's Corporate Secretary will furnish the address and stock ownership of the proponent identified above to any person, orally or in writing as requested, promptly upon receipt of a request therefor.

The Committee's job is one of oversight and it recognizes that the Corporation's management is responsible for preparing the Corporation's financial statements and that the independent auditor is responsible for auditing those financial statements. The Committee also recognizes that management and the independent auditor have more time, knowledge, and detailed information about the Corporation than the Committee members have. In carrying out its oversight duties, it is not the Committee's responsibility to plan or conduct audits or to determine that the Corporation's financial statements are complete or accurate or in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Accordingly, the Committee is not providing any expert or special assurance as to the Corporation's financial statements or any professional certification as to the independent auditor's work.

Capital One Financial Corporation offers three convenient ways to vote your shares: by mail, by telephone or electronically via the Internet. Voting by telephone or via the Internet will eliminate the need to mail voted cards. To vote by telephone or via the Internet, please have this card and your social security number available.

1. To vote by telephone:

Using a touch-tone telephone, dial 1-877-PRX-VOTE (1-877-779-8683).

2. To vote by Internet:

Log on to the Internet and go to the web site <http://www.eproxyvote.com/cof>.

Both the telephone and the Internet voting systems preserve the confidentiality of your vote and will confirm your voting instructions with you before submission. If you vote online, you will have the opportunity to consent to electronic delivery of next year's annual meeting materials.

In order to receive future proxy materials and annual reports electronically, please visit www.econsent.com/cof to register. To complete the enrollment, you will need your U.S. taxpayer identification number and the Account Number which appears on your check stub/Dividend Reinvestment and/or Stock Purchase Plan statement.

YOUR VOTE IS IMPORTANT TO US. THANK YOU FOR VOTING.
