Such statements are based upon the current beliefs and expectations of TD Bank Financial Group's management and involve a number of significant risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ materially from the results anticipated in these forward-looking statements. The following factors, among others, could cause or contribute to such material differences: change in general economic conditions; the performance of financial markets and interest rates; the possibility that the transaction does not close when expected or at all, or that the companies may be required to modify aspects of the transaction to achieve regulatory approval; that prior to the closing of the proposed transaction, the businesses of the companies suffer due to uncertainty; that TD Ameritrade is unable to transition customers, successfully execute its integration strategies, or achieve planned synergies; that the parties are unable to accurately forecast the anticipated financial results of TD Ameritrade following the transaction; that TD Ameritrade is unable to compete successfully in this highly competitive and rapidly changing marketplace; that TD Ameritrade is unable to retain employees that are key to the operations of the combined business; that TD Ameritrade is unable to identify and realize future consolidation and growth opportunities; the risk of new and changing regulation in the U.S. and Canada; acts of terrorism; and war or political instability. Additional factors that could cause TD Bank Financial Group's results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements can be found in TD Bank Financial Group's Annual Report on Form 40-F for the fiscal year ended October 31, 2004, which was filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on December 13, 2004 and is available at the Securities and Exchange Commission's Internet site (<http://www.sec.gov>).

This filing consists of the following materials:

- (1) Joint memorandum regarding TD's and Ameritrade's Commitment to all associates

-3-

Our Commitment to All Associates

1. On closing, TD Ameritrade will be created, building on the acknowledged strengths of both Ameritrade and TD Waterhouse USA to create the largest online retail broker positioned to serve the full spectrum of investors' trading and investing needs.
2. Joe Moglia, currently CEO of Ameritrade, will assume the Chief Executive Officer role at TD Ameritrade. Joe Ricketts will be Chairman and Ed Clark will be Vice Chairman of the merged company. An integration team, comprised of senior managers from both organizations, will be established to ensure a smooth integration.
3. There will be no changes to compensation, benefits or other policies applicable to associates as a result of this transaction prior to closing. Associates will be paid bonuses earned in fiscal 2005 according to the policy at their respective companies.
4. We will treat associates fairly and equitably. There will be no job loss as a result of this transaction until after the deal closes, which is expected to occur in six months. A severance package will be provided to associates who may be asked to leave as a result of this transaction. Any associate whose job will be terminated as a result of this transaction will be provided with at least 60 days' notice.
5. We will make every effort to fill positions from both companies based on overall suitability for available positions. Given the geographic location of Ameritrade's head office and major operations, we do expect that more TD Waterhouse associates than Ameritrade associates will be impacted.
6. As we build TD Ameritrade, communication with our associates will be a major priority. Many decisions affecting associates will not be made for some time. We commit to providing you open and honest communication about any decisions that affect you personally in a timely manner. We know that you will remain committed to our clients and focused on meeting their needs during this time of transition.
