What is New Charter?

If approved by regulators, Charter, Time Warner Cable (TWC), and Bright House Networks (BHN) will join together as New Charter - an advanced, growth-oriented broadband cable company that will combine the best of the three companies for the benefit of consumers. New Charter will have the resources to extend Charter's industry-leading pro-customer and pro-broadband business model throughout its new service area and build upon Time Warner Cable's operating momentum and diversity initiatives, as well as Bright House Network's highly regarded customer service expertise.

How many customers would New Charter have?

New Charter will have approximately 17 million video customers and approximately 19 million wireline broadband customers in 41 states. This represents 17 percent of national multichannel video programming distributor (MVPD) subscribers and 21 percent of national wireline broadband subscribers (and less than 30 percent of broadband customers receiving 25/3 Mbps).

What does this mean for existing TWC and BHN customers?

Under the leadership of Charter's management team, the merged company will have both the incentives and resources to advance Charter's industry-leading pro-customer and pro-broadband model and extend it to Time Warner Cable and Bright House Networks' customers.

It would give them access to fast, high-quality Internet service, usually at lower prices, and with none of the data caps or overage charges that some providers employ.

New Charter will price its new 60 Mbps entry-level speeds based on Charter's current model, which is less expensive for consumers than Time Warner Cable's and Bright House Networks' comparable offerings. And New Charter customers taking advantage of this service will no longer need to pay additional modem fees. Of course, while the New Charter offerings will entail a richer product at a better value, if current customers like their current service and prices, they won't need to change.

New Charter will expand TWC's and BHN's highly advanced 300 Mbps service and build on those companies' success with out-of-home WiFi access points by deploying an additional 300,000 out-of-home Wi-Fi hotspots over the next four years. These additional access points will increase mobile data competition, enabling consumers in many areas to reduce their mobile data plans with their wireless carriers.

New Charter customers will also benefit from the rollout of advanced technology. While Charter is almost 100% digital today, TWC and BHN are not all of the way there yet. We (New Charter) will complete the full digitization of TWC and BHN-freeing up spectrum that will allow for faster broadband speeds and more high-definition channels and On-Demand offerings.

New Charter customers will transition to Charter's new cloud-based guide. The new guide will offer intuitive search and discovery and will work on old and new set-top boxes, so consumers will get the benefits of the new guide without needing a technician to visit or to pay more for a new box.

Finally, we (New Charter) are focused on improving New Charter's customer service and will leverage the transaction to better our relationships with our customers across our footprint. As part of this effort, New Charter will return TWC call center jobs to the United States and will hire and train thousands of new employees for its customer service call centers and field technician operations.
