

Edgar Filing: BRAVO FOODS INTERNATIONAL CORP - Form 8-K

(a) The Company's Audit Committee, in conjunction with the Company's Chief Executive Officer and Chief Accounting Officer, has concluded that the Company's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2001 through 2005, as well as interim quarterly reports for the quarterly periods ended March 31, 2002 through March 31, 2006, should no longer be relied upon because of certain errors in such financial statements as discussed below.

(1) On May 15, 2006, the Company filed its Form 10-QSB for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2006, which report contained a disclosure of the likelihood of the Company's restatement of certain of its previously filed financial statements. The Company noted that "it is likely that we will restate our financial statements for the years ending December 31, 2005 and December 31, 2004. In addition, it is likely that we will restate our interim financial statements for the quarterly periods reported in 2005 and 2004." In July 2006, the Company determined that restatements were necessary, and on July 10, 2006, the Company submitted a draft of proposed changes to its financial statements for the years ending December 31, 2005 and December 31, 2004 and interim periods, to the Securities and Exchange Commission for review. On August 1, 2006, the Company filed its formal response to the Commission's last comment letter and acknowledged the necessity of the proposed restatements. On or about August 11, 2006, the Company determined that reclassification of its convertible preferred financings was necessary.

(2) In December 2005, the Company began to examine whether it needed to reclassify its convertible preferred and convertible debt financing, and subsequently began an examination of such proposed reclassification during the first fiscal quarter of 2006. The Company initiated this examination as a result of a review by the Securities and Exchange Commission of its Form 10-KSB for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2004 and its pending SB-2 registration statement, which the Company filed with the SEC earlier in December 2005. That examination included the accounting methodology utilized to report the value of embedded derivatives associated with certain of its past financings, including the balance sheet reclassification and valuation of warrants associated with such financing instruments. The Company also examined its accounting for the amortization of discounts, the impact of certain modifications to warrants and the beneficial conversion features associated with its various financing instruments.

The Company reported in its Form 10-QSB for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2006, that it had undertaken an examination of the classification and accounting methodology for its convertible preferred and convertible debt financings. At that time, the Company reported on the likelihood that restatements of prior financial positions would be necessary in light of its examination.

The Company has determined that it was necessary to restate its financial results for fiscal years ended December 31, 2005, 2004, 2003, 2002 and 2001 to reflect accounting adjustments for

- * identification of embedded derivatives in certain convertible notes which required bifurcation;
- * identification of embedded derivatives in certain preferred stock which required bifurcation;
- * balance sheet reclassification of outstanding warrants and non-employee options from equity to derivative liabilities as a result of "tainting" from a variable conversion feature in November 2003

convertible notes and the associated recognition of fair value changes during the time the instruments are required to be reclassified as derivative liabilities; and

- * correction of initial valuation of free-standing warrants, and for the subsequent modification of warrants.

The Company is currently evaluating several valuation methods, based upon discussions of the foregoing with the Commission.

In addition to the above adjustments, in connection with its examination of prior periods, the Company also determined the need to reflect accounting adjustments for the following:

- * correction of fair value calculations of employee stock options, the method of recognition for compensation expense and modifications made to certain employees options;
- * reclassification of shipping and handling costs;
- * reporting of accrued interest on a promissory note from the Company to International Paper; and
- * accounting treatment of product development costs.

Adjustments for these items were reflected in the Form 10-QSB filed by the Company for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2006.

(3) The Company's Audit Committee, as well as Company's authorized officers, has discussed with the Company's independent accountant the matters disclosed in this filing.
