Rating Affirmation July 27, 2017 | 1

Partner Communications Co. Ltd.

Partner Communications Co. Ltd.

Affirmed Corporate Credit Rating ilA+/Stable

Rationale

Business Risk

- Continuous exposure to changes in the Israeli communication market, including changes in regulation and intense competition.
- Retaining a leading position in the mobile market.
- Continuously decreasing operating margin.
- Increasingly diversified activity in various communication segments.

Financial Risk

- Consistently sound financial risk profile and low leverage.
- Decrease in free cash flow (after investments and dividends)
- “Adequate” liquidity, according to our definitions.

Outlook: Stable

The stable outlook reflects our assessment that Partner Communications Co. Ltd. (“Partner”) will maintain its financial policy supporting leverage levels and coverage ratios commensurate with the current rating. We estimate that the company will retain liquidity levels commensurate with the current rating while generating sufficient cash flows albeit at more modest levels than in the past. We also estimate that Partner will maintain a balance between its liquidity level and its investment requirements.

We consider an adjusted debt/EBITDA ratio of 3.0x-4.0x and an adjusted EBITDA/revenue ratio of 20%-30% as commensurate with the current rating.

Downside Scenario

We may consider a negative rating action if the company’s liquidity profile or business risk profile weaken, e.g. as a result of significant deterioration in its operating measures and increasing volatility in the communication market. Furthermore, a negative rating would be possible if the company’s operational performance deteriorates, such that profitability drops below 20%, and company fails to take active steps to deleverage, resulting in adjusted debt/EBITDA exceeding 4.0x.

Upside Scenario

A positive rating action is possible if the company maintains its conservative financial policy while the market stabilizes, its financial position improves and its operational profitability increases. In addition, we may consider a positive rating action should the company consistently present an adjusted debt/EBITDA ratio of up to 3.0x and an adjusted EBITDA/revenue ratio exceeding 30%.

Partner Communications Co. Ltd.

Base-Case Scenario

Principal Assumptions

- Continued decrease in revenues, especially in revenues from mobile services, partly mitigated by first-time revenues from TV services.
- Decrease in EBITDA margin to about 20% due to larger expenditures on TV segment, partly mitigated by some decrease in expenditures due to network sharing agreement.
- Higher capital expenses in 2017-2018 than in 2016.
- Continued moderate decrease in ARPU (average revenue per user).

Key Metrics*

	2016A	2017E	2018E
EBITDA margin	21%	20%-22%	20%-22%
FFO/debt	23%	25%-31%	27%-33%
Debt/EBIDTA	3.4x	2.8x-3.2x	2.5x-3.1x

*A – Actual, E – Estimate.

FFO – funds from operations

Business Risk

Decrease in operating margin due to intense competition and entry into TV segment; maintaining a competitive position

We believe that the company's business risk profile is supported by the following factors:

- Familiarity with the communication market.
- Persisting leading market position.
- Diversified operations.

On the other hand, we believe the company's business risk profile is limited by the following factors:

Exposure to the characteristics of the Israeli communication market, including tight regulation, intense competition in most segments and continuous instability.

- Continuous decrease in operating margin, expected to increase somewhat with our assessment of larger expenditures on content in the first years of entering the TV segment.
- Continuous decrease in ARPU (average revenue per user) and high, albeit decreasing, churn rates.

Financial Risk

Good coverage ratios; continuous decrease in financial debt

We believe that the company's financial risk profile is supported by the following factors:

- Continuous decrease in financial debt.
- Good coverage and leverage ratios compared to peers.

- “Adequate” liquidity underpinned by cash balance and cash flow generation.
- Good access to credit sources (demonstrated by the recent successful equity and debt issuances).

www.maalot.co.il July 27, 2017 | 3

Partner Communications Co. Ltd.

These supporting factors are partly mitigated by the following factors:

·Decrease in free cash flow generation.

Continuous decrease in EBITDA base due to persisting price wars and entry into new segment (TV) which is likely to adversely affect the company's EBITDA at least in the first two years, in light of high expected content-related expenditures.

We believe the company's entry into the TV segment will support its operations in the long run, as it expands the company's portfolio and its customer base as it allows the company to offer triple and quad packages. Nevertheless, entry into this segment requires large investments on set top boxes, infrastructure and marketing expenses, as well as content. Although Partner completed most of the infrastructure work in 2016, we believe it faces additional investments, including content-related investments which are critical and costly and the company will have little discretion to reduce them.

In our base case scenario we assume a moderate increase in new customers due to the company's TV activity in 2017 and further improvement in the years thereafter. We also assume negative influence on the company's EBITDA for years 2017-2018, at least, as a result of entering the TV segment.

Liquidity: Adequate

The company's liquidity is "adequate", according to our criteria. We estimate that the company's sources to uses ratio in the 12 months beginning in July 2017 will exceed 1.2x. This assessment is mainly based on the current cash balance, good cash flow generation and proactive liquidity policy. The company's good access to a variety of financing sources in the local capital market (as demonstrated by the recent equity and debt issuances) contributes to its liquidity assessment.

Partner Communications Co. Ltd.

In our base-case scenario we assume that the company's principal sources and uses for the 12 months starting July 1, 2017, are as follows:

Principal Liquidity Sources

- Cash balance of about NIS 0.8 billion (following an NIS 0.2 billion equity issuance).
- Debt issuance of about NIS 0.3 billion (completed)
- Operating cash flow of about NIS 0.7 billion.

Principal Liquidity Uses

- About NIS 0.7 billion in debt maturities.
- About NIS 0.3 billion in capital expenditures.

We note that the company has several financial covenants in respect of its loans. We understand that as of March 30, 2017, the company meets them with adequate margin.

Reconciliation

In order to create a basis for comparison with other rated companies, we adjust the data reported in the company's financial statements which we use to calculate coverage ratios. The main adjustments we made on Partner Communications Co. Ltd.'s 2016 consolidated data are:

·Deducting surplus cash, as we define it, from reported financial debt.

·Discounting long-term leases and adding them to reported debt; increasing EBITDA and FFO to reflect annual rental payments and interest and depreciation components calculated from future rent payments discounted into financial debt.

·Adjusting financial debt for postretirement benefit obligations.

·Adjusting financial debt for litigation.

·Adjusting financial debt for trade receivables securitization – NIS 72 million.
