PART III NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period.

SimpleTech, Inc.'s (the Registrant) Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003 (the Form 10-K), could not be filed within the prescribed time period because certain information and data relating to and necessary for the accurate completion of the Registrant's financial statements and management's discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operation could not be obtained by Registrant within such time period without unreasonable effort or expense.

In the quarter ended June 30, 2003, the Registrant determined that its January 2002 acquisition of Irvine Networks, LLC (now the Registrant's Xiran Division) previously recorded as a business combination in the quarter ended March 31, 2002, should instead have been recorded as an acquisition of assets. The Registrant recorded the effect of correcting this accounting entirely in the quarter ended June 30, 2003. After further analysis, the Registrant has now determined that the appropriate accounting would have been to retroactively reflect the effect of the asset acquisition for all periods since the date of acquisition. In the quarter ended June 30, 2003, the Registrant had recognized as income a reserve in the net amount of $308,000 related to an incentive grant received from the Government of Scotland which was subject to repayment if certain obligations were not met by the Company. The Registrant has now determined that the recognition of the $308,000 of income should have been recorded in the quarter ended December 31, 2001 which is the period when the Company's obligations relating to the grant were met.

The Registrant will reflect the following additional adjustments in its Form 10-K when filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission:

The Registrant previously disclosed in its earnings release, dated February 10, 2004, that its preliminary financial results for the fourth quarter of 2003 included a depreciation adjustment for prior periods which had the effect of increasing net income by $360,000, net of the related tax effect. The depreciation adjustment is the result of a non-cash clerical error in computing depreciation related to two fixed asset categories during the three-year period ended December 31, 2003. Upon subsequent review and in consultation with its independent accountants, the Registrant has determined to reflect the adjustment over the three year period ended December 31, 2003 instead of the fourth quarter of 2003.

The Registrant has determined that a $141,000 write-down of certain fixed assets that it recorded in the quarter ended March 31, 2003 should be reversed and instead recorded in the quarter ended December 31, 2001 when the assets were initially designated as held for sale.

Resolution of these matters will not result in a reduction of the Registrant's earnings per share or a material change in the Registrant's revenues for its fiscal 2003 as disclosed in the Registrant's earnings release dated February 10, 2004.

As a result of the four revisions described above, the Registrant had been working with its independent auditors to determine how these matters may affect its financial statements for its 2002 and 2001 fiscal years, but was unable to complete this determination and file its Form 10-K by the prescribed filing date without unreasonable effort or expense. However, the Registrant will be able to resolve these matters and file its Form 10-K within 15 days after the prescribed filing date.
