No change to the fundamental value leakage inherent within the proposed IAMGold transaction

Substantial opposition remains

Gold Fields has announced that it has reached agreement with IAMGold to revise the terms of the proposed IAMGold transaction through an amendment to the cash portion contributed by Gold Fields by US$200 million (the amendment). Harmony believes that the amendment does not alter the fundamental value leakage inherent within the proposed IAMGold transaction and that it remains unconvincing and difficult to justify from both a value and structural perspective. Furthermore, despite the amendment, the proposed IAMGold transaction has negative implications for Gold Fields, its shareholders, its South African assets and all of its stakeholders.

Harmony believes that the amendment confirms what Harmony and other Gold Fields shareholders have been saying to Gold Fields management over recent time, namely that the proposed IAMGold transaction has no merit and is value destructive. In recognising that there is substantial opposition to the proposed IAMGold transaction, Harmony believes that Gold Fields management, under the smoke screen of the recent changes in South African exchange control restrictions, have made an inadequate and desperate attempt to re-price the proposed transaction a matter of days after vigorously defending it.

Unfortunately the amendment will have a minimal effect on the overall terms of the proposed transaction, particularly given that IAMGold shareholders will continue to have a 30% share in the enlarged IAMGold. The structural disadvantages implicit in the proposed IAMGold transaction will remain and the proposed transaction continues to be highly dilutive to Gold Fields shareholders. Whilst retaining US$200m of Gold Fields shareholders' own cash will be less disadvantageous to Gold Fields shareholders in the short term, it does not alter the fact that, in Harmony's belief, the sale of these international assets at a significant undervaluation will have an enduring detrimental effect on Gold Fields and its shareholders.

Harmony believes that it remains in the best interests of Gold Fields shareholders to vote against the proposed IAMGold transaction at the Gold Fields general meeting on 7 December 2004, for the following key reasons:

from a value perspective the fundamental issues remain:

Gold Fields is disposing of its international asset portfolio at substantially less than fair value:

the terms of the proposed IAMGold transaction are at a significant discount to the consensus average P/NPV multiples of Gold Fields itself, comparable South African and mid-cap international gold mining peers and the international gold mining majors;

the terms of the proposed IAMGold transaction are at a significant discount to other comparable transactions in the gold sector;

Gold Fields is contributing a disproportionate share of value in exchange for only approximately 70% of the fully diluted equity of the enlarged IAMGold; and a substantial re-rating of the enlarged IAMGold is required for Gold Fields shareholders just to break even. Any re-rating is uncertain given the structure of the proposed IAMGold transaction. Furthermore, given that Gold Fields intends to dispose of its international asset portfolio at significantly less than its fair value, Gold Fields will create an unnecessarily low relative value base for its shareholders. Accordingly, substantially all of the required re-rating of the enlarged IAMGold, should it eventuate, would be for the benefit of existing IAMGold shareholders.

from a structural perspective, the fundamental issues remain. The proposed IAMGold transaction would:

result in a complex and inefficient corporate structure, with the likelihood of a holding-company discount;

with only 2 directors out of a possible 10 representing Gold Fields' interests (5 would be non-executive directors, subject to strict rules of independence under the Canadian governance code), minimise Gold Fields' ability to control the strategic direction of the enlarged IAMGold, which will be run on a stand-alone basis and be fully independent of Gold Fields;

impair Gold Fields' ability to access the cash flows of its international asset portfolio, which, as at 30 June 2004, generated 75% of Gold Fields' operating cash flows, thereby leading to a loss of financial flexibility and potentially prejudicing the optimal allocation of scarce cash resources, with negative implications for Gold Fields and its South African asset portfolio;

reduce the ability of Gold Fields to maintain its historic dividend payout ratio in the absence of any substantial dividend receipts from the enlarged IAMGold, which are unlikely, given the enlarged IAMGold's own funding requirements and its management's own forecasts;

lead to the creation of two mid-cap producers, lacking in scale; and as a result of the non-compete clause with the enlarged IAMGold outside SADC, have negative implications for Gold Fields' future growth prospects.

Notwithstanding the amendment, Harmony firmly believes that Gold Fields shareholders:

would be selling their international assets at a material discount to their fair value;

will lose control of their future growth potential, the majority of their operating cash flows and control of all of the upside in their exploration portfolio, which, by Gold Fields' own admission, has extremely promising prospects; and should realise that the amendment is a transparent and cosmetic attempt to hoodwink them into voting in favour of the ill-conceived proposed IAMGold transaction. The proposed IAMGold transaction will cause value leakage of an enduring nature.

Substantial opposition remains

Despite the amendment, Harmony believes that there remains substantial opposition to the proposed IAMGold transaction:

Edgar Filing: HARMONY GOLD MINING CO LTD - Form 6-K

Harmony, which owns a total of 53,392,108 Gold Fields shares, representing approximately 10.8% of the entire issued share capital of Gold Fields, remains opposed to the proposed IAMGold transaction;

the amendment will have no impact on the irrevocable undertaking from Norilsk to vote against the proposed IAMGold transaction in respect of 98,467,758 Gold Fields shares, representing approximately 20.03% of the entire issued share capital of Gold Fields; and in Harmony's view, the amendment is entirely cosmetic and of no real substance and will be of little consequence to the significant number of Gold Fields shareholders who have indicated to Harmony their opposition to the proposed IAMGold transaction.

Harmony believes that its views are confirmed by Gold Fields' management itself. Gold Fields' management claims to have held limited discussions with certain institutional shareholders representing approximately 18% of the outstanding shares of Gold Fields, of which some 78% have indicated support. Harmony notes that this equates to only 14% of Gold Fields' outstanding shares, significantly below the level required to approve the proposed IAMGold transaction. Harmony would assume that the majority of these shareholders represent funds that hold long positions in IAMGold and, therefore, are economically incentivised to support the proposed IAMGold transaction, regardless of whether it is in the best interests of Gold Fields and its shareholders.

Inconsistent strategy

Since the announcement of the Harmony offers, the Gold Fields board has created significant uncertainty through offering Gold Fields shareholders a number of potential inducements to refrain from tendering their shares into the early settlement offer. As previously stated, Harmony believes that some of these are not capable of being implemented, especially in a manner that would be considered attractive to Gold Fields' shareholders. In addition, a number of these proposed options are clearly mutually exclusive and contradictory. The amendment confirms Harmony's belief that these elusive strategies, never detailed in formal announcements, were merely designed to cause confusion amongst Gold Fields shareholders.

Given that Harmony believes that the amendment has no impact on the fundamental value leakage inherent within the proposed IAMGold transaction, Harmony questions whether this is the best proposal that the Gold Fields board could produce. Harmony remains firm in its belief that Gold Fields' management's strategy is in disarray and questions whether Gold Fields shareholders can still believe in a management team that has changed the terms of a transaction only days after defending it so vigorously.
