Signing of merger agreement between Shinko Securities Co., Ltd. and Mizuho Securities Co., Ltd.

Mizuho Securities Co., Ltd. (MHSC) and Shinko Securities Co., Ltd. (Shinko) have held discussions regarding the merger of the two companies, based on the new Basic Agreement for Merger signed on April 28, 2008. We hereby announce that, based on the discussions, following the resolutions of respective board meetings held today, MHSC and Shinko have signed the merger agreement. The merger will be subject to the approvals at the respective general shareholders meetings and clearance from relevant authorities.

1. Purpose of Merger

In the face of the financial and capital markets worsening on a global scale since the occurrence of the U.S. sub-prime loan problem in 2007, restructuring of U.S. and European investment banks is taking place together with reviews of financial regulation on a global basis. At the same time, Japan's financial and capital markets also continue to be in a difficult situation. Further worsening of our economic environment is set to continue, and the outlook for the country's securities industry is expected to become increasingly uncertain.

MHSC and Shinko have postponed the effective date of merger twice in the midst of turmoil in the financial and capital markets. However, after the signing of the Basic Agreement for Merger on April 28, 2008, careful exchange of views between the two companies were conducted, and it was determined that it is necessary, as a member of the Mizuho Financial Group, to leverage our strength as a securities arm of a banking institution, to be more competitive in a market where there is now greater uncertainty, to improve our service providing capabilities to our clients and furthermore to reestablish our business to enable us to offer competitive cutting-edge financial services on a global basis. We are now convinced that conducting the merger this time in accordance with the purpose for which it was originally intended, through the combining of MHSC which has a global investment banking business platform and Shinko which has a nation-wide client base and full-service securities company network, will provide our clients with professional services of the highest quality.

The merged entity will, in order to promptly deliver the merger effect (synergistic effect), combine its organization and personnel, strengthen its product-providing capabilities, expand its client base and strengthen its cost control and risk management, even under a severe business environment, to further stabilize its business base.

(4) Calculation Basis for Merger Ratio

Basis of calculation

For the sake of fairness in calculating the merger ratio, Shinko and MHSC appointed GCA Savvian Co., Ltd. (GCA) and KPMG FAS Co., Ltd. (KPMG FAS), respectively, as providers of third-party valuations and have obtained a merger ratio calculation report from them.

Calculation process

GCA, taking into account that MHSC is a private company, adopted the comparable company method by which relative comparison is possible. In addition, in order to provide multiple viewpoints in reviewing the valuations under the comparable company method, GCA tested other methods including direct comparison of earnings and adjusted book value.

Method adopted	Range of merger ratio
Comparable company method As for the comparable company method, it is based on an analysis of the results of financial, tax and legal due diligence of the merging companies followed by the adjusted book value of the two companies multiplied by share price multiples of comparable companies. As for the share price multiples, the reference date is February 27, 2009, and periods of approximately 1 month and 3 months preceding the reference date were used for the analysis. GCA submitted the calculation report based on information provided by the two companies and publicly disclosed information, under the assumption that all such information is complete and accurate, and it has not independently evaluated, appraised or assessed the assets and liabilities of either of the two companies or their respective affiliates. GCA's calculation reflects the information and economic conditions through February 27, 2009. KPMG FAS adopted the comparables method as the primary evaluation approach and analyzed the value per share, the basis of the merger ratio, taking into account the two company's profitability and financial conditions. KPMG FAS, taking the results of the above mentioned analysis into consideration, conducted the calculation in light of the actual transaction of this merger, in a comprehensive manner.	97 ~ 135

Method adopted	Range of merger ratio
Comparables method As for the comparables method, the comparable company method was adopted for MHSC, and both the market share price method and the comparable company method were adopted for Shinko. As for the market share price method and the comparable company method, the reference date for the valuation is February 27, 2009, and the average closing prices of the 1 month and 3 month periods preceding the reference date were adopted. KPMG FAS submitted the calculation report based on results of due diligence and other information provided by the two companies and publicly disclosed information, under the assumption that all such information is complete and accurate, and it has not independently evaluated, appraised or assessed the assets and liabilities of either of the two companies or their respective affiliates. KPMG FAS's calculation reflects the information and economic conditions through February 27, 2009. As for the final determination of the validity of the merger ratio, it was based on the careful exchange of views between the two companies, Shinko referring to the merger ratio calculation result of GCA and MHSC referring to the merger ratio calculation result of KPMG FAS, and took into account the two companies' financial and asset situation and other factors in a comprehensive manner.	110 ~ 145
