Interview in Listings Exchange, a newsletter for NYSE Euronext European listed companies and market advisors, with NYSE Euronext President and Deputy Chief Executive Officer, Dominique Cerutti (May 12, 2011).

Issuers and investors will benefit from a larger pool of liquidity

Dominique Cerutti, President and Deputy CEO of NYSE Euronext, explains the advantages of the merger between NYSE Euronext and Deutsche Börse.

What is the status of your merger with Deutsche Börse?

The NYSE Euronext Board of Directors has voted unanimously to reaffirm its previously announced merger with Deutsche Börse as it believes that such a transaction is consistent with its long-term strategy adopted in 2009. The combination of NYSE Euronext and Deutsche Börse positions the company as the leading global exchange operator. When completed, the merger will provide customers with a diverse array of products and services, with trading in equities, derivatives, post-trading activities, technology, and an expanded geographic footprint. We will offer businesses and investors full transparency, safety and a level of innovation that they have come to expect from financial markets.

What are the advantages for your stakeholders?

The combined group will offer best execution with increased transparency, better risk management and cross-border coordination, as well as enhanced business practices and market infrastructure. The new company will be positioned as a leader in the constantly evolving global financial arena, offering clients global scale, product innovation, operational and capital efficiencies. In addition issuers and investors will benefit from a larger pool of liquidity and asset classes that represent the extended NYSE Euronext-Deutsche Börse services and product range.

How and when was this project born?

The Board of NYSE Euronext and management team has always carefully evaluated the strategic options for the company. In 2009, the Board adopted a strategy that positioned the company to deliver long term sustainable growth by developing multi-class businesses across a broad spectrum of capital market services. The idea of a merger with Deutsche Börse began to be seriously considered in the second half of 2010, over informal meetings with its leaders, when we became aware of the extraordinary complementarity of our activities. We have chosen a partner that allows us to be well placed to drive the long-term strength of transparent and regulated markets.

Why did the Board refuse the Nasdaq / ICE proposal?

The Board never considered it strategically attractive to break up or sell the company, and believed that doing so now would be a strategic mistake in light of the development of global markets. The Board determined that the Nasdaq / ICE deal was highly conditional, and risked causing significant job losses in the group. The resulting combination would be a heavily US weighted company with approximately 75% of the revenue derived from the US.

When will the merger between NYSE Euronext-Deutsche Börse be completed?

The transaction is subject to the approval of a majority of shareholders of NYSE Euronext and acceptance that is greater or equal to 75% of the shareholders of Deutsche Börse. Over the coming months, we will also need to obtain approval from the authorities in charge of competition issues and financial markets in Europe and the United States, with the aim of completing the agreement by the end of 2011.
