Court Approves Merger Agreement and Exclusivity Extension Request

Today, Bankruptcy Court Judge Sean Lane approved the merger agreement between American and US Airways. This approval allows us to continue progressing forward with our planned merger, and we are gratified to know that he considers the merger an excellent result for stakeholders. Judge Lane approved the merger agreement, but indicated that the CEO compensation arrangement might be more appropriately considered as part of the Plan of Reorganization. American awaits the written ruling that will address this in more detail. Additionally, the Court approved American's final exclusivity extension request, which provides AMR until May 29 to file our Plan of Reorganization. We are pleased to have received these approvals as we move forward in building the new American.

DFW and American Unveil First Phase of New Terminal A

Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport and American yesterday announced the completion of the first phase of the next generation renovation of Terminal A. Officials said a number of architectural, systems and engineering renovations have been made to create a more customer-friendly and aesthetically pleasing airport. Redesigned areas include gates A8 through A16, including the check-in and entrance area, as well as the parking garage near those gates. Other renovations included: an open layout for better customer flow; power outlets and work tables at all gates; kiosks with self-tag capabilities for checked baggage; single-agent podiums for a more personalized experience; and a separate area for Priority check-in.

Editor's Note: This project is funded by DFW International Airport. In 2011, DFW launched the first major construction phase of its $2.3 billion Terminal Renewal and Improvement Program, also referred to as TRIP. This is a seven-year phased-approach renovation of the airport's four original terminals that opened in 1974.

Airbus A350 Gets Ready to Power Up

The engines and auxiliary power unit have been installed on the first flight test Airbus A350-900 (MSN001) in Toulouse, marking a significant milestone on the road to aircraft completion and the beginning of powered ground tests. Airbus says that with these installations the A350 XWB MSN001 becomes essentially a completed aircraft. Following the ongoing ground tests, other preparations and also painting in the coming weeks, MSN001 will then be handed over to the Airbus Flight Test team to commence preparations for ground runs and maiden flight in the summer.

Healthmatters Wellness Wednesday Tip

Zero, zilch, nothing - that is what you pay for eligible preventative health screenings like annual exams or well child check-ups if you are enrolled in the Standard, Value or Core medical plan options and use an in-network provider. According to the CDC, as many as 30,000 lives could be saved each year with preventive screenings.
