Executive Compensation

The Compensation Committee of Lam Research Corporation (the Company) made a number of changes to the Company's executive compensation program for awards made in calendar year 2014. The Company:

replaced the cash component of its long-term incentive program ( LTIP ) entirely with equity; introduced the use of a new LTIP equity vehicle, a Market-Based Performance Restricted Stock Unit, that:

incorporates a relative market-based LTIP metric different from the absolute operational performance metrics used for the Company's annual incentive program, which compares the Company's stock price performance during the performance period to the market price performance of the Philadelphia Semiconductor Sector Index (SOX) and is subject to no floor and a 150% of target units as a vesting ceiling; and extended the LTIP performance period from two to three years, and as a result of this change, made a one-time two-year LTIP award to ensure that participants are still eligible to receive a long-term award that vests in calendar year 2016.

Gain on Sale of Assets
