Dividend Increase and Share Buyback Program

At its investor conference held in Valencia, Spain on May 25-26, 2006, César Alierta, Chairman of Telefónica, S.A., announced that Telefónica will submit to its Board of Directors a proposal to pay an interim dividend of 0.30 euros per share, to be paid in November 2006. This payment is intended to be followed by an additional 0.30 euros per share to be paid in the first half 2007. Additionally, Telefónica announced that by 2009 it intends to double its dividend per share from the 0.50 reported for 2005, subject to market conditions and Telefónica's financial condition.

Furthermore, Telefónica confirmed its intention to complete its current share buyback program, according to which Telefónica is committed to repurchase shares in the aggregate amount of 2.7 billion before the end of 2007, depending on cash-flow generation and share price performance.

Such statements reflect the current views of Telefónica's management and are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, including those that are set forth in Item 3.D of Telefónica's annual report filed on Form 20-F on April 12, 2006. Item 2

Rating Agencies Revise Outlook for Telefónica

On May 26, 2006, Standard & Poor's Ratings Services ("Standard & Poor's") announced that it has revised its rating outlook to negative from stable for Telefónica. Additionally, Standard & Poor's affirmed its BBB+ long-term corporate credit, bank loan, and senior unsecured debt ratings on Telefónica and its A-2 short-term corporate credit and CP ratings on Telefónica.

In its statement, Standard & Poor's cited, among others, Telefónica's continuing financial policy aggressiveness, as reflected by the announcement of an increase in its dividend, and a high debt level, as reasons for the negative outlook. Standard and Poor's also noted in its statement that the long-term rating could be reduced by one level if, over the next 18 months, Telefónica fails to show good progress in deleveraging.

Similarly, on May 30, 2006, Moody's Investors Service ("Moody's") revised its rating outlook to negative from stable for Telefónica. At the same time, Moody's affirmed the Baa1 senior unsecured rating, the Baa2 senior subordinated debt rating, the Baa3 preferred stock rating and the Prime-2 short term ratings of Telefónica.

In its statement, Moody's noted that the change in outlook from stable to negative is based on: (i) the limited remaining headroom under the Baa1 rating for any further uses of free cash flow beyond what has been announced and the risk of failing to achieve the deleveraging objective as a result of any deviations from the plan; (ii) the limited room for deviations in operating performance whereby Moody's expects Telefónica to continue to pursue a growth strategy and to improve shareholder remuneration, while capital expenditure will increase and the competitive environment and organic growth in mature markets become increasingly challenging; (iii) Moody's concern about Telefónica's refinancing risk concentration of almost EUR 20 billion through 2008, recognizing the fact that the company has a plan in place to adequately manage it; (iv) the integration risk resulting from the numerous and substantial acquisitions in a short period of time and (v) the uncertainties regarding the execution of the disposals of certain assets as planned to mitigate the funding needs associated with the proposed plan to invest a maximum net amount of EUR 1.5 billion.

These security ratings reflect the views of the rating agencies. A more complete explanation of the significance of these ratings may be obtained from Standard & Poor's and Moody's, respectively. Such ratings are not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities. Any rating can be revised upward or downward or withdrawn at any time by a rating agency if it decides that the circumstances warrant the change. Each rating should be evaluated independently of any other rating.

TELEFÓNICA GROUP

Consolidated Results

The results obtained by Telefónica Group and the management report included in this report are based on the actions carried out by the various business units in the Group and which constitute the units over which management of these businesses is conducted. This implies a presentation of results based on the actual management of the various businesses in which Telefónica Group is present, instead of adhering to the legal structure observed by the participating companies.

In this sense, income statements are presented by businesses, which basically implies that each business line participate in the companies that the Group holds in the corresponding business, independently of the legal structure.

It should be emphasized that this presentation by businesses in no case alters the total results obtained by Telefónica Group. These results are incorporated from the date of effective acquisition of the holding.

The results of the Telefónica de España Group and the Telefónica Latinoamérica Group include the results from Terra Networks operations as of 1st January 2005. Hence, Terra España, Azeler and Maptel results are included in the Telefónica de España Group, whereas the Terra results in Latin America are included in the Telefónica Latinoamérica Group.

As of 1st February 2006, the results of the O2 Group are consolidated into Telefónica O2 Europe business line. This business line is integrated by the assets of O2 Group, Cesky Telecom (during the July-December 2005 period it was an independent business line) and Telefónica Deutschland (in 2005 it was included in Other companies of the Telefónica Group).

The results of Telefónica Group corresponding to the first quarter of 2006 recorded a solid growth in all business lines (revenues up 45.4% year-on-year), mainly supported by the expansion of the client base achieved thanks to the strong commercial activity delivered. The Company's profitability reached an outstanding level, OIBDA increasing by 37.3% in comparison with March 2005 and OI by 34.2%, whereas the effective management of operations led to a 26.4% growth in the operating free cash flow (OIBDA-CapEx). As a result of all this, the net income exceeded 1,270 million euros, 39,6% higher than that obtained in the first three months of 2005, and the basic earnings per share amounted 0.268 euros versus the 0.186 euros earnings per share achieved during the first quarter of 2005 (+43.8%).

As of the end of March, Telefónica Group's total number of accesses reached 186.1 million, a year-on-year increase of 42.2%, with cellular and retail Internet broadband accesses being the main contributors to this performance. Of the total number of accesses, 184.2 million correspond to final client accesses and 1.9 million to wholesale accesses.

Telefónica Group's cellular accesses totalled 131.3 million at 31st March 2006, equivalent to a 61.2% year-on-year increase. The strong commercial activity in the Telefónica Móviles Group's operating markets, with a net gain over the quarter of 4.1 million clients allowed to manage a 98.5 million client base, equivalent to a 21.0% year-on-year growth. In Telefónica O2 Europe, cellular accesses amounted to 32.8 million, of which 4.7 million belong to Cesky Telecom and 28.1 million to O2 Group.

The number of retail Internet broadband accesses stood at 6.3 million (4.0 million at 31st March 2005), constituting one of the main driving forces of the growth of the fixed operators. The figure has exceeded the 3 million mark in Spain, up 46.8% up over the first quarter of 2005, and in Latin America it has reached 2.9 million (+50.2% year-on-year).

Revenues

of Telefónica Group over the first three months of the year amounted 12,036.4 million euros and recorded a year-on-year growth of 45.4%, supported by the general growth in every business lines. This increase it is also affected by the first consolidation of O2 Group as of February 2006 and Cesky Telecom as of July 2005 as well as the appreciation of the Latin American currencies in relation to the euro. Therefore, the organic growth¹ of revenues stands at 8.9%.

Assuming constant exchange rates and including the consolidation of Cesky Telecom in January-March 2005 and the O2 Group in February and March 2005.

The main contributor to Telefónica Group's revenues continued to be Telefónica Móviles Group, which ended the quarter with a growth in revenues of 17.7% versus March 2005 reaching 4,327.3 million euros, due to the increase in the total number of clients and traffic. By country, the evolution of revenues from Venezuela (+58.9% in local currency), Spain (+4.4%), Argentina (+38.0% in local currency) and Chile (+17.3% in local currency) must be highlighted.

Telefónica Latinoamérica Group's revenues in the January-March 2006 period reached 2,318.1 million euros, a 30.6% year-on-year increase impacted very positively by the exchange rate effect, which contributed with 24.5 percentage points to revenue growth. In constant euros, the year-on-year variation reached 6.1%. Telesp is the operator that contributed the most to revenue growth with a 7.1% increase in local currency thanks to the good performance of the traditional business and the Internet business (narrowband + broadband).

Telefónica de España Group's revenues totalled 2,944.3 million euros, up 3.3% versus those obtained in the first three months of 2005 pushed by Broadband revenues (+35.0%) that more than offset the fall in revenues from traditional voice services (-2.6%) and traditional access (-1.7%).

Telefónica O2 Europe, constituted by the O2 Group from February to March 2006, Cesky Telecom and Telefónica Deutschland from January to March 2006 contributed with 2,409.2 million euros of revenues. Among the companies, it should be enhanced the service revenue growth of O2 UK during the first three months of 2006 (+17% year-on-year in local currency), O2 Germany (+13% year-on-year) and the moderate growth of Cesky Telecom (+0.5% in local currency).

Following the acquisitions made by the Telefónica Group during 2005, consolidated revenues reflected a greater geographic diversification, decreasing revenues from Spain to 40.7% (56.6% one year ago) as of March 31th 2006 and those from Latin America to 36.6% (39.6% twelve months ago) due to the greater weight of Europe, excluding Spain (21.8% compared with 2.9% at March 2005). The UK accounted for 9.5% of total revenues, Germany for 5.1% and the Czech Republic 4.2%. Brazil remained almost stable in terms of its contribution (-0.5 percentage points to 16.1%) to consolidated revenues.

Operating expenses

accumulated over the quarter increased by 50.3% versus March 2005 reaching 7,505.7 million euros. This increase was affected by the positive impact of exchange rates, the inclusion of assets from the O2 Group and Cesky Telecom and the continued commercial efforts made to attract greater growth in cellular telephony and broadband and to lead innovation in products and services. The performance of the main expense concepts was as follows:

- Supplies expenses

(3,512.6 million euros) increased by 66.1% versus the first quarter of 2005 (57.2% in constant euros), basically as a consequence of the changes in the accounting consolidation perimeter, the Telefónica Latinoamérica Group (higher interconnection costs, particularly in Brazil) and the Telefónica Móviles Group (more handsets purchases and higher commercial activity).

- Personnel expenses for the first three months of the year (1,679.8 million euros) increased by 29.4% (+22.6% assuming constant exchange rates), basically as a consequence of the average workforce increase (+24.0% reaching 219,357 employees) due to the O2 and Cesky acquisition and the increase of Atento Group's number of employees (excluding Atento Telefónica's workforce increases 21.9% to 122,884 employees). During the first quarter of 2006, 286 employees joined the Telefónica de España 2003-2007 Redundancy Plan and 25 employees joined the Terra España Redundancy Plan, reaching the provision 94.9 million euros.

- External services expenses

(2,096.5 million euros) increased by 47.6% in comparison with March 2005 (36.9% excluding the exchange rate effect), basically due to greater commercial expenses in Telefónica Móviles and to the changes in the consolidation perimeter, particularly that of the O2 Group.

On the other hand, at the end of the quarter, Telefónica Group accounted for a gain for the sale of fixed assets of 151.6 million euros (120.6 million euros in January-March 2005), mainly corresponding to the sale of shares in Sogecable following the take-over bid presented by Prisa Group.

The described development of revenues and expenses during the first quarter of the year placed operating income before depreciation and amortisation (OIBDA) at 4,686.7 million euros, 37.3% up on the same period of the previous year, although organic growth² stood at 6.2%. The OIBDA margin of the Telefónica Group amounted to 38.9% at March end, 2.3 percentage points down on the same period last year.

Assuming constant exchange rates and including the consolidation of Cesky Telecom in January-March 2005 and the O2 Group in February and March 2005.

By business lines, the Telefónica Móviles Group had an absolute OIBDA of 1,471.9 million euros (+11.7% year on year) in the first three months of the year, representing 31.4% of the total OIBDA (38.6% at March 2005). The OIBDA margin stood at 34.0%, 1.8 percentage points down on January-March 2005 due to the heavy influence by the commercial activity in very competitive environments.

The Telefónica Latinoamérica Group's OIBDA (21.2% of consolidated OIBDA vs. 25.2% at March 2005) amounted 994.2 million euros, 15.5% up from that obtained in the first three months of 2005. In constant euros, the OIBDA increased by 3.9%, eliminating the capital gains accounted from the sale of Infonet during the first quarter of the previous year. The OIBDA margin, excluding the result from the disposal of assets during both periods, reached 43.0% versus the 44.0% of the previous year.

Telefónica de España Group, with a contribution to consolidated OIBDA that fell to 26.9% from the 35.1% of the previous year, obtained an OIBDA of 1,262.6 million euros during the first three months of 2006. This was a 5.3% increase versus March 2005 thanks to the cost containment (operating expenses -0.4%) and to efficiency. The OIBDA margin stood at 42.9%, 0.8 percentage points higher than that of March 2005. Excluding the Redundancy Plan provisions in both periods, the margin in relation to revenues would have dropped by 0.2 percentage points to 46.1% as of the end of the first quarter of 2006.

Telefónica O2 Europe (constituted by the O2 Group in February and March 2006, Cesky Telecom and Telefónica Deutschland in January-March 2006) reaches an OIBDA of 756.0 million euros.

Following the same path of revenues Telefónica Group's OIBDA reflected the greater diversification of the Telefónica Group into geographic areas by increasing its Europe contribution. By the end of the quarter, the contribution of Spain fell 15.9 percentage points to 47.1% whereas that of Europe (excluding Spain) represents 16.9% (2.8% twelve months ago). UK contributed with 6.5% of the consolidated OIBDA in the first quarter, the Czech Republic 5.4% and Germany 2.9%. Thanks to the contribution of the Latin American BellSouth operators acquired in 2004 and 2005, Latin America maintains its contribution in 33.5%. The contribution of Brazil fell by 1.0 percentage point reaching 16.7% of total OIBDA in March 2006.

Depreciation and amortization grew 41.0% year-on-year to total 2,152.7 million euros during the first quarter of the year. This increase is basically due to the first consolidation of the O2 Group and Cesky Telecom, the latter contributing with 38.4 million euros associated to the amortisation of the allocated assets in the acquisition process and the increased amortisation in the Telefónica Latinoamérica Group (+23.1%) and the Telefónica Móviles Group (+16.8%), both positively impacted by the exchange rate effect. At organic level³, there was a 1.8% drop due primarily to the decreased amortisation of Telefónica de España Group (-13.9%).

The consolidated operating income (OI) over the first three months of the year amounted to 2,534.1 million euros, up 34.2% on that obtained in the same period of 2005. The organic growth³ declines to 13.8%, which was higher than the growth in OIBDA (+6.2%).

The accumulated result of associated companies reached 21.8 million euros as of the end of March 2006, compared with the 9.1 million euros loss in January-March 2005. Most notable in this year-on-year sign change is the greater contribution of Portugal Telecom. To a lesser extent, the reduction in losses attributable to IPSE-2000 and the positive contribution of the Medi Telecom consortium in comparison with the negative contribution of the first quarter of the previous year must be noted.

Net financial expenses amounted 523.7 million euros in the first quarter 2006, 64.8% year-on-year increase (206.0 million euros) compared with the comparable figure of 2005 (317.7 million euros). The interest rates expenses grew by 220.4 million euros due to the 67.8% growth in the average net debt versus 2005.

The net free cash flow after CapEx generated by the Telefónica Group in the first quarter 2006 amounted 1,814.1 million euros, of which 1,126.3 million euros were dedicated to the buyout out treasury stock in Telefónica, S.A. and 211.1 million euros to the cancellation of commitments, mainly headcount reduction program. Since the financial investments in the period (net of the sale of real state and the O2 cash in the moment of the acquisition) totalled 22,855.7 million euros, mainly because of the O2 take over (purchases of O2 shares in the stock market began in 2005), the net financial debt has been increased by 22,379.0 million euros.

Edgar Filing: TELEFONICA S A - Form 6-K

Assuming constant exchange rates and including the consolidation of Cesky Telecom in January-March 2005 and the O2 Group in February and March 2005.

Telefónica Group's net financial debt at the end of March 2006 stood at 53,509.9 million euros. Along with the aforementioned effect (increase of 22,379.0 million euros), another two effects have to be added: i) increase of 1,590.4 million euros due to the changes in the perimeter of consolidation and others effects over the financial statements, mainly the incorporation of O2 gross debt and ii) reduction of 526.6 million euros as a consequence of the effects of the exchange rates on net financial debt not denominated in euros. This results in an increase of the net financial debt of 23,442.9 million euros versus the 2005 net financial debt figure (30,067.0 million euros).

The taxable rate accrued during the first quarter of the year stood at 33% due to an increase in the tax provision to 666.2 million euros, although the cash outflow for the Telefónica Group will be further reduced as negative tax bases are compensated for.

The results attributed to minority interests provided a negative 92.4 million euro provision toward the net profit of the Telefónica Group for the January-March 2006 period, with a 33.0% year-on-year increase that can basically be explained by the stake of minority interests in the net income of Cesky Telecom, given that it was not included in the accounting consolidation perimeter during the first quarter of 2005.

As a result of the entries explained, the consolidated net income of the Telefónica Group for the first three months of the year totalled 1,273.5 million euros, a year-on-year growth of 39.6% (912.2 million euros).

Finally, Telefónica Group's CapEx for the first quarter of 2006 amounted 1,307.2 million euros and recorded a strong year-on-year growth (+76.4%) as a result of greater investments in broadband in the fixed telephony business in both Spain and South America and the first consolidation of the O2 Group and Cesky Telecom. The organic growth⁴ would stand at 2.1%. However, it should be noted that there is a strong cyclical component of the investments, so that this performance cannot be extrapolated to the full year.
