Milan, 15 April 2003 - The Olivetti and Telecom Italia Boards of Directors today adopted the plan to merge Telecom Italia SpA into Olivetti SpA, confirming the terms already approved by the respective Boards on 11 March.

Transaction summary

As part of the integration plan approved by the Olivetti and Telecom Italia Boards of Directors an exchange ratio has been calculated of seven Olivetti shares (each with a par value of 1.00) for each Telecom Italia share (each with a par value of 0.55 euros).

The Olivetti and Telecom Italia Boards of Directors have been assisted in determining the exchange ratio by international advisors: the Telecom Italia Board of Directors has been advised by Lazard and Goldman Sachs, while the Olivetti Board of Directors has been advised by JP Morgan. An authoritative academic expert in corporate economics has expressed a favorable opinion on the suitability of the valuation methodologies adopted. Best practice valuation methodologies and procedures were followed to calculate the exchange ratio, taking into account the differing the specific industries in which they operate.

As a result of the merger, Olivetti's controlling stake in Telecom Italia will be cancelled, and Olimpia's stake in Olivetti will be significantly diluted.

Consequently, shareholders in both Telecom Italia and Olivetti will have a stake in the capital of a company that has no controlling shareholder.

As part of the merger Olivetti is to issue savings shares which will be allocated to Telecom Italia savings shareholders as provided by the exchange ratio. The exchange ratio will be the same for ordinary and savings shares. Borsa Italiana will be asked to admit the newly issued savings shares for trading on its automated market. As a result of the application of the exchange ratio, the number of saving shares which will be held by the Telecom Italia savings shareholders after the merger will be higher than the number of Telecom Italia saving shares currently held by those shareholders. Therefore after the merger the Telecom Italia saving shareholders will be entitled, in absolute terms and on a cumulative basis, to a higher dividend.

The exchange shall predominantly be covered by a redistribution of Olivetti capital as it stands at the completion of the merger. It has consequently been deemed appropriate to adjust the post-merger par value of Olivetti shares ordinary and savings – to €0.55 (equal to the par value of Telecom Italia shares) in place of the present par value of €1.

As a result of and following the merger, Olivetti shall adopt Telecom Italia's name and company purpose. More generally, Olivetti shall also adopt new bylaws drafted on the basis of Telecom Italia's current bylaws. The change to Olivetti's bylaws is necessary in order to allow the incorporating company, Olivetti, to operate after the merger in all sectors where Telecom Italia currently has a presence, particularly with regard to the regulated activities that Telecom Italia is authorized to conduct in accordance with legal provisions that require a specific company purpose.

Pursuant to the change in company purpose, Olivetti shareholders will be entitled to exercise withdrawal rights. Olivetti has entered into a 9 billion euro facility agreement to meet any requirements arising from the exercise of withdrawal rights. Any portion of this facility not used for withdrawals will be set aside for a partial voluntary tender offer on Telecom Italia ordinary and savings shares under the terms already noted.

The headquarters of the company resulting from the merger will be in Milan, at the current headquarters of Telecom Italia.

The strategic offices for the Olivetti Group's manufacturing activities currently undertaken by Olivetti-Tecnost will remain in Ivrea.

Main changes to the bylaws resulting to the merger

With regards to the changes to the bylaws of the company resulting from the merger, the following should be noted:

as regards the Telecom Italia bylaw clause concerning the special powers held by the Italian Ministry of the Economy and Finance (the golden share), the Shareholders' Meeting shall be recommended to approve a clause that disposes of the power of the Ministry to approve material shareholders' agreements as well as of the power of the Ministry to appoint one member of the Board of Directors and one statutory auditor. The Ministry has declared that it considers necessary for the bylaws of the company resulting from the merger to retain the Ministry's power of approval over the acquisition of significant equity stakes in the company's share capital, as well as the Ministry's veto power.

The savings shares to be allocated to Telecom Italia savings shareholders under the terms of the exchange, shall enjoy the same privileges as those that previously applied to Telecom Italia savings shares, including the ability to satisfy their rights through the distribution of reserves, introduced in the meantime in the Telecom Italia bylaws.

The merger will become effective starting from the date of the final registration of the merger deed at the relevant company register offices, or at a later date if so established in the merger deed. The date is expected to be at the beginning of August 2003.

For accounting and tax purposes the merger will be effective as of the 1st of January of the year in which the merger becomes effective.

The ordinary and savings shares issued by Olivetti in exchange for Telecom Italia shares (which shall be cancelled as a result of the merger) will be cum-dividend. The effectiveness of the merger shall be subject to the admission for listing of the saving shares issued in exchange for the Telecom Italia saving shares on the automated market run by Borsa Italiana S.p.A.

A request will be made for admission for listing of the new ordinary and savings shares of the post-merger company on the New York Stock Exchange.

As a result of the merger and of the reallocation of a differing number of shares to Olivetti shareholders, the conversion ratio of Olivetti convertible bonds and the ratio and exercise price of Olivetti warrants shall be subject to an adjustment, to take into account the new par value of the shares and to reflect the allocation ratio applicable to Olivetti shareholders.

Olivetti shall additionally pass resolutions on ad hoc capital increases to serve the Telecom Italia stock option plans, to match the allocation ratio applicable to Telecom Italia increases.

Three billion euros already available for public tender offer

Olivetti bond conversion applications (for which the last day is today) received since the most recent notification of a capital increase (3 April 2003) corresponded to around 5.6 million Olivetti shares. This leaves a balance of outstanding bonds with potential conversion rights corresponding to around 3 billion shares (of par value one euro each) on a fully converted basis. These bonds may not be converted until the date of the Shareholders' Meeting, and therefore may not be used for any corresponding exercise of withdrawal rights. Assuming that the withdrawal price (based upon an average of stock market prices between 26 November 2002 and 14 April 2003) is in the region of one euro, the resources available for the partial voluntary public tender offer for Telecom Italia ordinary and savings shares would be in excess of 3 billion euros, out of a 9 billion euro credit facility.

The Olivetti Board of Directors has called a Shareholders Meeting on 24, 25 and 26 May 2003.

The Telecom Italia Board of Directors has called a Shareholders Meeting on 24 and 25 May 2003.

Documentation regarding the merger plan shall be available during the 30 days following the Shareholders meetings.

The new Board of Directors of the company resulting from the merger

Olivetti board members consider their mandate to be essentially completed with the merger of Telecom Italia into Olivetti, and are handing in their notice with effect from the date upon which the operation becomes effective.

The agenda of the Olivetti Shareholders' Meeting to be held in May shall therefore include the appointment of a new Board of Directors for the company resulting from the merger. The recommendation shall be to elect a Board of Directors which essentially replicates the current Telecom Italia Board, and which shall remain in office until the expiry of the natural term of the current Telecom Italia Board (that is to say, for one year only, until adoption of the 2003 financial statements). In addition to ensuring continuity in Telecom Italia's management, this will also enable the company resulting from the merger to be managed by directors whose election was characterized by rules of governance and by election mechanisms, most notably list voting, that shall be carried forward into the bylaws of the company resulting from the merger.

Dividend distribution

The Telecom Italia Board of Directors shall recommend to the Shareholders' Meeting a dividend equal to 0.1768 euros for each ordinary share and 0.1878 euros for each savings share, through distribution of reserves of capital and revenues up to a maximum of 1,333 million euros. The dividend distributed will be eligible for:

- allocation of a full tax credit which may be used without restriction, amounting to 56.25% on the 0.0459 euro portion per ordinary share and 0.0488 euro portion per savings share;

- no tax credit allocation restricted to the 0.1309 euro portion of each ordinary share and the 0.1309 portion of each savings share, as these amounts have been withdrawn from the share premium reserve .

The dividend for both classes of shares shall be paid from 26 June 2003, ex-coupon on 23 June 2003.

The dividend recommended by the Board is additional to the dividend distributed in December 2002.

The merger described herein relates to the securities of two foreign companies. The merger in which Telecom Italia ordinary shares will be converted into Olivetti ordinary shares is subject to disclosure requirements of a foreign country that are different from those of the United States. Financial statements included in the document, if any, will be prepared in accordance with foreign accounting standards that may not be comparable to the financial statements of United States companies. It may be difficult for you to enforce your rights and any claim you may have arising under the federal securities laws, since Olivetti and Telecom Italia are located in Italy, and some or all of their officers and directors may be residents of Italy or other foreign countries. You may not be able to sue a foreign company or its officers or directors in a foreign court for violations of the U.S. securities laws. It may be difficult to compel a foreign company and its affiliates to subject themselves to a U.S. court's judgment. You should be aware that Olivetti may purchase securities of Telecom Italia otherwise than under the merger offer, such as in open market or privately negotiated purchases.

- the impact of regulatory decisions and changes in the regulatory environment;

- the impact of the slowdown in Latin American economies and the slow recovery of economies generally on the international business of the Telecom Italia Group focused on Latin America and on its foreign investments and capital expenditures;

- the continuing impact of rapid changes in technologies;

- the impact of political and economic developments in Italy and other countries in which the Telecom Italia Group operates;

- the impact of fluctuations in currency exchange and interest rates;

- Telecom Italia's ability to continue the implementation of its 2002-2004 Industrial Plan, including the rationalization of its corporate structure and the disposition of Telecom Italia's interests in various companies;

- the ability of the Telecom Italia Group to successfully achieve its debt reduction targets;

- Telecom Italia's ability to successfully roll out its UMTS networks and services and to realize the benefits of its investment in UMTS licenses and related capital expenditures;

- SEAT's ability to successfully implement its internet strategy;

- the ability of the Telecom Italia Group to achieve the expected return on the significant investments and capital expenditures it has made in Latin America and in Europe;

- the amount and timing of any future impairment charges for Telecom Italia's licences, goodwill or other assets; and

- the impact of litigation or decreased mobile communications usage arising from actual or perceived health risks or other problems relating to mobile handsets or transmission masts.

The foregoing factors should not be construed as exhaustive. Due to such uncertainties and risks, readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on such forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date hereof.
